GERMANS TAKE MOST OF MESSINES RIDGE AFTER SWEEPING HAIG OUT OF BAILLEUL; NOTHING VITAL LOST, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

SCHWAB PLACED IN FULL CONTROL OF SHIPBUILDING

Appointed Director General of the Fleet Corporation, with Sweeping Powers.

PIEZ RETIRES AS MANAGER

Keeps Post in Shipping Board, Which Will Still Decide on Craft to be Built.

SACRIFICE BY STEEL MAN

He Receives the Thanks of the President in Conference at White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, today accepted the post of Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. He will take up his duties on Thursday, and from that time will devote all of his energies, as an employe of the Government, to an effort to speed up the shipbuilding program.

Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, picked Mr. Schwab as the man who he believed was best equipped to get results that would meet the expectations of the nation. He called Mr. Schwab here on Sunday and would not take "No" for an answer. The final decision was reached today at a conference at the White House attended by President Wilson, Mr. Hurley, Mr. Schwab, Bainbridge Colby, a member of the Shipping Board, and Charles Piez, General Manager of the Fleet Corporation.

As a result of the new régime Mr. Schwab will have practically unlimited powers in connection with the work of construction in all of the shipyards of the nation doing Emergency Fleet Corporation work. The Shipping Board will pass upon matters of policy pertaining to the number of ships to be built of wood, steel, and concrete, and the designs adopted.

New Methods if Necessary.

Mr. Schwab will have offices here and will confer and co-operate with Mr. Hurley and Mr. Piez, but much of his time will be devoted to getting into close touch with the shipbuilding plants and seeing to it that changes are made and new methods adopted if they are necessary to turn out ships in record time.

Every assistance in carrying out his work has been promised Mr. Schwab by Mr. Hurley and Mr. Piez. In fact, Mr. Piez himself suggested that the post of General Manager of the Fleet Corporation, which he held, be abolished, so that Mr. Schwab should be "wholly unhampered" in his work. Mr. Piez will continue as Vice President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

There was a distinct feeling of satisfaction in official circles today when the announcement was made that Mr. Hurley had induced the head of Bethlehem Steel to turn his abilities solely to the vital work of building ships. Here is the official statement issued, following the White House conference:

"Edward N. Hurley, Charles M. Schwab, Bainbridge Colby, and Charles Piez were received by the President at the White House today. It was stated that the subject discussed was the progress and condition of the national shipbuilding program. The carrying forward of the construction work, in the 130 shipyards now in operation is so vast, that it requires a reinforcement of the shipbuilding organization throughout the country.

"Later in the day Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board announced that a new office, with wide powers, had been created by the trustees of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The new position is that of Director General, and Mr. Schwab has been asked and has agreed to accept this position in answer to the call of the nation.

Piez Makes Sacrifice.

"Charles Piez, Vice President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, recommended that the post of General Manager of the corporation be at once abolished so that Mr. Schwab as Director General should be wholly unhampered in carrying ou the large task intrusted to him. Mr. Piez, since the retirement of Admiral Harris, has been filling both the position of Vice President and that of General Manager.

"Mr. Schwab will have complete supervision and direction of the work of shipbuilding. He agreed to take up the work at the sacrifice of his personal wishes in the matter. His services were

German Supergun Kills 13 and Wounds 45 in Paris

PARIS, Wednesday, April 17.—Thirteen were killed and forty-five were wounded in yesterday's long-range bombardment of Paris.

Shells from the long-range guns killed one woman and wounded one woman and one man in the Paris district Monday night, according to an official statement issued yesterday.

One shell damaged an electricity conduit in a street, while another demolished a garbage cart. One of the missiles fell on a wood-chopping works, but injured no one.

The house which was struck by an aerial torpedo dropped from a Gotha airplane in a raid on Paris Friday has now been cleared. The body of an elderly widow was found and then portions of the limbs of a man, a woman, and a child were discovered in the wreckage.

BOLO PUT TO DEATH; ACCUSED CAILLAUX

Confronted with Former Premier Just Before the Execution This Morning.

ALSO ACCUSED HUMBERT

End of the Adventurer Who Obtained Large Sums from Count von Bernstorff.

PARIS, April 17.—Bolo Pacha has been executed at Vincennes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—The first authentic information that was allowed to transpire with reference to the revelations made by Bolo Pacha on the eve of his execution was published by the Temps this evening. The Temps states that Bolo's revelations concern Caillaux and Humbert.

Captain Bouchardon yesterday, the censor now allows it to be stated, spent several hours in Bolo's cell at the State prison, conducting the final stages of the investigation on behalf of the military authorities.

Caillaux was taken to the condemned Pacha's cell and confronted with his accuser. Both men were in a state of extreme nervous excitement, and the inquiry was marked with a number of dramatic passages. Having the two men face to face, Bouchardon closely questioned both of them as to the authenticity of statements made by Bolo and explanations and refutations put forward by the ex-Premier.

Bolo is reported to have aged twenty years in the last month, and his hair has turned completely white.

Bolo Pacha was sentenced to death by the Paris court-martial on Feb. 14, being found guilty on varied counts of having organized "defeatist" propaganda in France with German money, mainly derived through the ex-Khedive of Egypt and the German Ambassador at Washington.

His appeal from the sentence was rejected by the Court of Revision on March 12, but the sentence by shooting, which was to have been executed at Vincennes on April 8, was postponed at the last moment on account of a confession made by the prisoner implicating others. A petition for pardon made with the confession was refused by President Poincaré.

Paul Bolo, to give the man his right name, was poor when the war began, a pensioner of his brother, Mgr. Bolo, a prelate of Paris. Bolo's first appearance in international affairs was as financial adviser to Abbas Hilmi, then Khédive of Egypt, from whom he received the title of "Pacha."

The most conclusive evidence of Bolo's treasonable activities came from America. It was shown that $1,683,000 was transferred at the recommendation of Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador at Washington, from the Deutsche Bank of Berlin to France by way of New York. It was as a result of the discovery of his manipulations of this fund through five New York banks that Attorney General Merton E. Lewis of New York State was able to obtain information which was forwarded to the French Ambassador at Washington and caused Bolo's arrest.

According to Mr. Lewis the transfer of the money was made by wireless between the German Government and its Ambassador, the latter remaining in ignorance as to who was to receive the money in New York, but not as to the purpose for which it was destined in France, principally the purchase of the Paris newspaper, Le Journal, for German propaganda.

REGRET LOSS OF BAILLEUL

For Three Years British Troops Enjoyed Its Hospitality Between Battles.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, April 16.—It seemed inevitable after the British loss of Neuve Eglise that the enemy should make a quick and strong effort to capture Bailleul, and this he did last night by putting into the battle three divisions of fresh assaulting troops not previously used, and thus encircling that city by fierce attacks on ground southeast and east, including the ridge of Le Ravetsberg and Mont de Lille.

His troops, as I mentioned in my message yesterday describing the first attacks on Bailleul, included his Alpine corps of Jaegers and possibly a Bavarian division and the 117th Division. Among the men defending the city against these heavy forces were the Staffords and Notts and Derbies.

Yesterday when I was in the country around Bailleul the enemy's guns were working up for this new attack, and there was a continual bombardment spreading up to Wytschaete Ridge. Heavy shells were being flung into Bailleul itself, and the smoke of fires was rising like mist from small towns and villages like Meteren and Morbecque down to Merville.

Foe Under Heavy Fire.

The British guns were also pounding the enemy's positions and through that the concentrations of Germany—infantry, guns, transport, and cavalry—were moving up the roads in and north of Merville. An intense shell fire was raging upon them, while air squadrons went out in the evening and at night and dropped large quantities of high explosives upon this traffic of men and beasts, so that they must have suffered many casualties in their attacks around the Ravelsburg spur, where all through the old Flanders fighting the British had camps and hutments known by heart among the English and New Zealand troops, and divisional headquarters during active operations.

The enemy must have lost severely again, for the British were stubborn in defense, and their machine gun fire must have been of a deadly nature owing to their positions along the railway and on the ridge; but the enemy advanced upon them in waves, striking up on both sides of Bailleul, so that after great resistance the line was withdrawn beyond the town.

Now for tactical reasons, apart from the importance of the railway line, it is better for the British to be out of Bailleul, for it threatened to become like Ypres in the old, bad days, when all traffic and transport had to pass between buildings falling beneath an atrocious shellfire, through squares which were targets for German guns, and out by crossroads which were death traps. Nevertheless, it is with deep regret that one thinks of poor old Bailleul in German hands after all these years of association with the British armies.

There is not a man with any long service out here who has not passed through Bailleul scores of times on the way to Armentières or Kemmel, looking up at its old bellshaped tower in the great square surrounded by sixteenth century houses with Flemish roofs and high dormer windows and Renaissance fronts.

Ten German Trawlers Sunk by British in the Cattegat

LONDON, April 16.—Ten German trawlers have been sunk by gunfire in the Cattegat, (between Sweden and Denmark,) the Admiralty announces. Their crews were saved by British ships. There were no British casualties.

The official statement reads:

"The Commander in Chief of the Grand Fleet reports having undertaken to sweep the Cattegat on April 15. Ten German trawlers were sunk by gunfire, their crews being saved by British ships."

LONDON ACCEPTS REVERSE CALMLY

Loss of Bailleul Disappoints Hopes Based on Arrival of Fresh Troops.

HAIG FIGHTING AS IN 1914

Tells Lord French That the Same Spirit Against Odds Animates Army.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Field Marshal Haig's report of the loss of Bailleul came just at a moment when hope was growing strong among the general public that the stubborn defense of the British had for the time being definitely arrested the German advance in that sector, and had given time for the bringing forward of reserves to meet the expected renewal of the German attacks.

It was known from the dispatches of various correspondents at the front that new troops had been put into the line, replacing weary divisions that had borne the brunt of the earlier fighting. Consequently the impression created upon the public mind has probably been deeper than need have been the case. It must not be inferred that anything like a panicky view has been created, but simply that the measure of disappointment felt can be gauged by the hopes previously entertained and the unduly optimistic writings of some newspapers.

Fighting as in 1914.

It was remarked that Mr. Balfour yesterday, when addressing the American visitors in the House of Commons, spoke in very grave tones of the fighting at that very hour in progress in Flanders, and emphasized most strongly the fact that the British troops were greatly outnumbered by the enemy, who continued to throw ever fresh divisions into the battle. General Haig's dispatches have struck the same note, and in a message made public today, which he sent to Lord French in response to an encouraging wire from his old comrade, Haig underlined the facts by replying:

"The same spirit that carried your army through in 1914 sustains us all again today against overwhelming odds."

Those who are now seeking to make political capital out of the situation are the exceptions and are confined to Westminster and one or two newspapers. One of these latter, it may be mentioned, asks:

"Is the War Cabinet in any degree responsible for the decision to postpone the bringing over of American soldiers early in March? Bonar Law predicted that the Germans would not attack the western front. Did the War Cabinet really believe, in spite of their military advisers, that the Germans would wait until a fully equipped American Army was sent over? Was it necessary to wait until the American Army was ready to the last gaiter and until we were at the last gasp? It must have been evident six months ago that what we needed in France was infantry, infantry, infantry."

People Sustain Premier.

For the most part, the public is in no mind for recriminations, and has, indeed, scornfully rejected certain statements which have been made in the anti-Lloyd George press as distinctly libelous and unfair to a man whose patriotism is beyond reproach, whatever other faults his critics lay upon him.

At the moment the two questions uppermost are, first, what will be the

HOME RULE WAR MEASURE

Cabinet to Quit Unless the Bill for Irish Reform Is Passed.

SEEKS GOOD-WILL HERE

Irish Draft Passes by 198—Canada to Call Out More Men for Army.

LONDON, April 16.—George N. Barnes, Labor member of the War Cabinet without portfolio, announced in the House of Commons today that the Government intended to introduce a Home Rule bill immediately, and would use every pressure to pass it.

Mr. Barnes also announced that the Lloyd George government would resign if the House of Lords refused to pass the new bill.

Premier Lloyd George, who spoke toward the close of the debate and expressed his confidence as to the issues, said of the measure before the house:

"It is desirable in the interest of the war that we should settle the Irish question and produce something like contentment in Ireland and good-will in America."

In discussing the Man-Power bill the Premier asked whether conscription in Ireland was to be the Government's only answer to the report of the most remarkable convention ever held in Ireland. Such an answer would be regarded as unsatisfactory, not only in Ireland, but in England. If there was trouble in Ireland arising from refusal to legislate after the Irish Convention and only conscription was offered, any resistance in Ireland would meet with sympathy here, which would paralyze the effort to enforce conscription in Ireland.

The Premier referred especially to the attitude of the Labor Party, adding:

"It is useless to put this bill on the statute book unless we intend to enforce it, and it is useless to try to enforce it, unless behind the Government there is a feeling that Ireland has been justly treated. Moreover, Ireland is not the only country to be considered.

Says America Supports Bill.

"As to America, the opinion reaching the Government is that sentiment in America supports the bill, provided self-government is offered Ireland. It is vital to us at the motent that America is coming to our aid through the most remarkable decision ever taken by any executive. President Wilson's decision was not without difficulty, but it was the only way that America could render practical assistance in this battle.

"In these circumstances America is entitled to expect from the British Government, (though they could not ask any Government to carry out domestic legislation,) that they would smooth these difficulties and, at any rate, not increase them. I am certain nothing would help more at the present juncture to secure the full measure of American assistance than the determination of the British Parliament to tender to Ireland her own Parliament."

The Premier's use of the terms "offer" and "tender' evoked irritated cries from the Irish benches. The Premier continued:

"The honorable members are seeking quarrels where none are intended.'

Premier Lloyd George said that he was afraid it was impossible to argue with those who refused to believe it a matter for congratulation that although an army of five million had retired from the alliance, the two or three nations that remained had been able to put up such a fight as they had until the great American republic came in.

Replying to Sir Edward Carson's criticisms, the Premier said that if it had been merely a matter of a year or two possibly no grave consequences would have arisen for Ireland, but what had happened had shown that if the war was prolonged a continuation of the state of suspense was a matter of vital interest, not merely to Ireland, but to the Empire.

In introducing the man-power bill, he said, the Government had considered nothing but the best means for prosecuting the war. They were confronted with a need for more men because the Germans had just summoned to the colors another 550,000 men for training. Great Britain must make ready for them, and, therefore, the Government had had to introduce a measure of the

"We Have Lost Nothing Vital," Says Lloyd George, After Talk With a Returned General, Possibly Haig

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Messages from the House of Commons late tonight state that the Prime Minister's expressions of confidence regarding the present battle situation in Flanders had "an electrical effect on the House."

Lloyd George's remarks regarding the confidence of Plumer and other Generals were made after an interval during which he had been in conversation with a General straight from the front, who had seen all the fighting.

He did not mention the name of his informant, and in some quarters there was a disposition to ask why the Premier had not quoted General Haig. The general impression, however, was that Plumer was specifically mentioned because he is actually in command of the Second Army, which is bearing the brunt of the present battle.

[A possible inference from the above dispatch is that it is General Haig who has come to London for a conference with Lloyd George.]

LONDON, April 16.—Referring in the House of Commons tonight to the situation at the front, Premier Lloyd George said:

"The fluctuation between hope and despondency must continue for some time yet. But I am still full of confidence.

"General Plumer (in command at Messines Ridge) is quite confident. We have lost territory, but we have lost nothing vital."

WOUNDED FLOW OVER GERMANY

Trains from Front Constantly Pour Into Aachen, the Distributing Point.

ALL STAKED ON OFFENSIVE

Win in Month More or Not at All, Holland Hears—Deadly Border Barrier.

MAESTRICHT, Holland, April 16, (via The Hague.)—Reports brought here today by Belgians from Germany say all the hospitals in the district of Aachen had been evacuated by March 20 to make room for the wounded from the great offensive which commenced the next day. Since the first day of the drive trains have arrived continually, coming through Belgium on a new direct line built by the Germans from Brussels to Aachen, where the wounded are all inspected and then sent to various parts of Germany, as far south as Munich.

Belgian and Dutch merchants who have arrived here in the last week confirm the reports that Germany is staking all on the present offensive, which is regarded as the last coup. Since early in 1916 the German people have been underfed, although they get more to eat now than two years ago. The effect of the war under-nutrition has soriously undermined the constitutions of the population throughout the empire. Soldiers on the front line are well fed, because they must keep up their strength, but those in the rear are suffering, and masses of people in the cities are weak from lack of sufficient food. They get 300 grammes of bread [weekly] and chemical substitutes for other foods, but they are not satisfying.

Objective Chiefly Calais.

A Dutch banker who recently returned from Frankfort told me he understood the German objective was chiefly Calais as part of the plan to crush England. The feeling in Germany against France is not nearly so bitter as against England, and the difference in the treatment of French and British prisoners is very marked.

In the opinion of the banker I have mentioned, Germany would not keep up its present offensive tactics longer than another month; if by then it has failed the Government will be compelled to offer peace terms to the Allies.

A German merchant who arrived here yesterday from Aachen said the people were not worried now so much about the outcome of the war as about what would happen after it was over. He said business men realized now that Germany was hated by nearly all the nations of the earth, and that unless something was done to alleviate the feeling an economic war would ensue which would injure and retard her commerce for several years. He was positive in his belief that the war would not last much longer.

This afternoon I walked out to the village of Smeermaes, four miles away,

BERLIN REPORTS COMPLETE VICTORY

Announces Storming of Wytschaete and Nearby Heights and Capture of Bailleul.

GAINS WON BY SURPRISE

Counterattacks by British on Messines Ridge Broke Down, Headquarters Says.

BERLIN, April 16, (via London.)—General Headquarters tonight reports the capture of the heights of Wytschaete (Messines Ridge) and the capture of Bailleul.

"Complete success" in the attacks in the Lys region was announced in the day official report, which told of the capture of the mine craters of the Wytschaete battlefield of 1917 and British positions on both sides of that village, as well as the storming of the heights between Neuve Chapelle (Neuve Eglise?) and Bailleul.

Following is the text of the night bulletin:

> The heights of Wytschaete have been stormed.
> Bailleul has been taken.

The day statement reads:

> Our attacks on the Lys battlefield met with complete success. The great mine craters of the Wytschaete battle of 1917 were taken by a surprise attack, and the enemy's positions on both sides of the village.
> Counterattacks by English companies completely broke down.
> From the plain, while scaling the heights between Neuve Chapelle [probably Neuve Eglise] and Bailleul, our troops attacked and wrested them from the enemy in a vigorous hand-to-hand encounter.
> English attacks against Locon failed. We made some prisoners during the repulse of a joint attack carried out by the English and French north of the Luce Rivulet, [Amiens front.]

HAIG LOSES HIGH GROUND

Falls Back Before Overwhelming Forces on a Nine-Mile Front.

DRIVEN FROM WYTSCHAETE

Spanbroekmolen, Another Messines Ridge Position, Carried by German Troops.

FORCED OUT OF BAILLEUL

Protecting Heights Taken, the British Retire North of That City and Wulverghem.

LONDON, April 16.—Wytschaete, at the northern end of Messines Ridge, and Spanbroekmolen, in the middle of the ridge, of which it is the highest point, were captured by the Germans today after a protracted struggle, according to the night bulletin from Field Marshal Haig.

An unofficial report says that the Germans have carried most of the ridge.

The Germans began their attacks in great strength at daybreak, supported by a heavy bombardment. A fog favored the assaulting troops, screening their movements.

Severe fighting has been in progress all day on the nine-mile front running northwest from Meteren, [about a mile west of Bailleul,] in which the Germans also gained a footing, to Wytschaete.

The little city of Bailleul, which has been under heavy fire for several days, was evacuated by the British last evening, after they had been forced from positions on the heights to the east and southeast. The retiring troops have fallen back on an east and west line slightly north of Bailleul and Wulverghem.

Increased artillery activity is reported from the Passchendaele sector, [Ypres salient.]

Haig's Story of the Day.

The night report from the British front reads:

> Severe fighting has been taking place today on the front from Meteren to Wytschaete. At dawn the enemy renewed his attacks in strength in the neighborhood of Wytschaete and Spanbroekmolen.
> Supported by a heavy bombardment, his troops approached our positions under cover of the mist, and after a prolonged struggle gained possession of both localities.
> At Meteren the enemy also succeeded during the morning in obtaining a footing in the village, where the fighting is continuing.
> On other parts of the above front the enemy's attacks were repulsed.
> This morning the enemy also delivered a strong local attack upon our positions opposite Boyelles, south of Arras, and fighting is still taking place in this neighborhood.
> The hostile artillery has been more active today south of Albert and in the neighborhood of La Bassée Canal. Bodies of German infantry assembling in the vicinity of Locon were engaged and dispersed by our artillery. There has been increased artillery activity on both sides in the Passchendaele sector.

Three Divisions Attacked Bailleul.

The text of the day statement reads:

"Yesterday evening, preceded by an intense bombardment, the enemy launched very heavy attacks against our positions between Bailleul and Neuve Eglise. The assault was delivered by three picked German divisions which had not been previously engaged in the battle, and it succeeded, after a fierce and bitter struggle, in carrying the high ground southeast and east of Bailleul known as Mont de Lille and Ravetsberg. Our troops on this front have fallen back to new positions to the north of Bailleul and Wulverghem. Bailleul has fallen into the enemy's hands.

This morning fresh German tacks are developing in the neighborhood of Wytschaete.

Early this morning the enemy also attacked southwest of Vieux Berquin under heavy artillery and trench mortar fire, but was repulsed.

A number of prisoners were taken by us during the night in a successful minor enterprise southeast of Robecq.

On the remainder of the British front there was nothing of special interest to report.

British Airmen Drop Tons of Bombs.

An official report on aerial operations tonight says:

> Bad weather prevailed Monday, and there was only low flying. Four tons of bombs were dropped on different targets. No German aircraft were encountered. One of our machines is missing.

British Clinging to Slopes.

OTTAWA, April 16.—German troops have carried Wytschaete and the greater part of Messines Ridge, according to a dispatch from the Reuter correspondent at British Headquarters in France, received here tonight.

The enemy also has established himself in Spansbroekmolen. The British are still clinging to the slopes of Messines Ridge, battling desperately to repel the attacks made upon them by overwhelming German forces.

The enemy is continuing his forcing tactics and is employing large masses of fresh troops. Since the opening of the western offensive the enemy has thrown in 120 divisions, many of which have been used two and even three times.

STRIKES BEYOND BAILLEUL.

Foe Seeks to Extend Gains There and on Messines to the West.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 16, (Associated Press.)—The town of Wytschaete, lying on the crest of a blood-stained ridge at the northern end of the new battlefront, and Spanbroekmolen, which nestles on the top of an elevation just southwest, were today stormed and occupied by large German forces. Meanwhile fresh enemy troops were battering hard at the British lines west of Bailleul in an attempt to continue their success of last night and break through to Hazebrouck.

Grim fighting has been going on since morning, and well into the afternoon there had been no cessation in the intense struggle.

A little further south a terrific artillery duel has been in progress along the zone between La Bassée Canal and Robecq, but whether this presages fresh enemy attacks west of Merville, to co-ordinate with those to the north, it is impossible to say at this hour.

These facts may seem somewhat grim in the reading, but they have their brighter side. The Germans have won new ground at a great cost of life, and there is no diminution in that magnificent spirit which has been holding against the enemy invasion since April 9. There is absolutely no flagging of faith among the officers and men along this front in their ultimate victory.

The assault at Wytschaete is a threat at the British positions to the north in Flanders, and the enemy undoubtedly is trying to push far enough into dominating positions in this region to compel the withdrawal of the Allied lines about Ypres and toward the coast.

Bailleul, eight and a half miles east of Hazebrouck, in Flanders, was captured and occupied by the Germans last evening, when the enemy also seized Ravetsberg Ridge, east of the town. As a result the British pulled their lines back northward somewhat to positions running east and west, a little above Bailleul and Ravetsberg.

Fighting is continuing in this sector, with the Germans trying to push westward toward the railway centre of Hazebrouck.

The loss of Bailleul was not unexpected, for its strategical value could not compensate for the lives it would cost to retain it in the face of the terrible onslaughts the Germans would be able to bring to bear against it.

Last night's attack was preceded by a very heavy bombardment from German guns of all calibres. After this intense preparation the enemy flung into the line the Alpine Corps, the 117th German Division, and the 11th Bavarian Division, and bore down on the defending positions along the front from Mont de Lille—high ground just southeast of Bailleul—to Crucifix Corner, an elevation on the Bailleul-Neuve Eglise highway about 2,000 yards west of the latter place.

Desperate fighting ensued, but the battle-weary defenders, despite their gallant resistance, were unable to withstand the shock from overwhelming numbers of fresh troops. Slowly the British fell back, but unbroken and in good order until they reached their present positions, where they held.

PUZZLED ON FOE'S STRENGTH.

Paris Experts Cannot Tell How Many Are Attacking Haig.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—Experts here are extremely puzzled to judge the real strength of the Germans in the present Flanders battle owing to the wide divergence in statements as to the number of divisions engaged. The number of divisions was placed yesterday at twenty-one, whereas today a Reuter dispatch gives it as between thirty and forty.

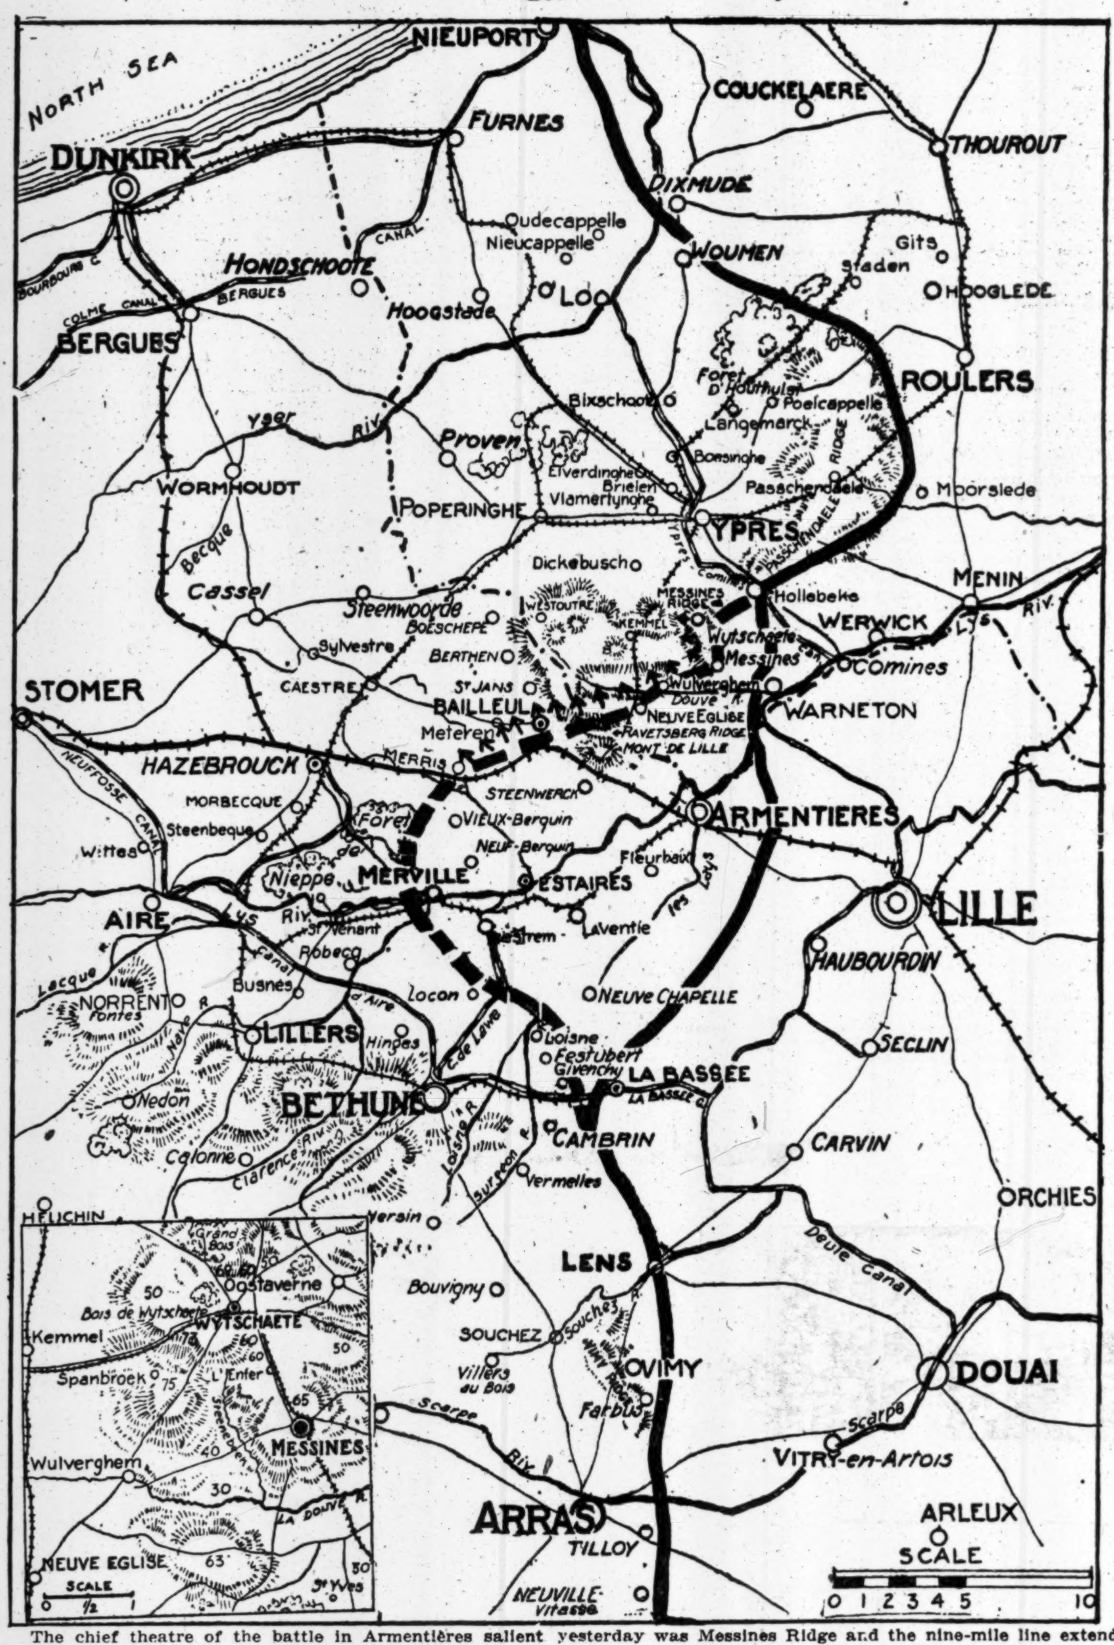
Again while a German division may be regarded normally as 15,000 to 20,000 men, it is one of the favorite devices of the German commanders to juggle with the strength of their units in order to deceive their adversaries. They have been known recently, it is stated, to reduce the effectives of some divisions to as low as 10,000, while at other periods the same divisions have been suddenly inflated to nearly 20,000.

One critic this morning goes so far as to confess that he is unable to determine whether the enemy is employing 200,000 or 500,000 men against the British in Flanders.

Such an enormous difference is, of course, not only quantitative. If the enemy forces do not exceed 200,000 then this part of the battle may be regarded merely as a diversion, designed to cause Foch to move his strategic reserve northward. If, on the other hand, the larger figure be correct, then it is evident that Ludendorff has already begun to throw in his own reserves, and the British are face to face with a very powerful attempt to drive them back to the sea.

Never before have the correspondents at the front sent back such widely differing figures as to the enemy's strength. This is regarded here as evidence of the extreme care taken to prevent the leaking out of real information possessed by Foch. Nobody doubts for a moment that he knows within a narrow margin the strength of his enemy.

Scene of the Struggle on the Lys Front



The chief theatre of the battle in Armentières salient yesterday was Messines Ridge and the nine-mile line extending to the southwest from Wytschaete to Meteren, just west of Bailleul. Wytschaete, with the greater part of the ridge to the south of it, was captured by the Germans, who forced the British line back as far as Bailleul, which they captured Monday evening after the fall of the heights lying between that city and Neuve Eglise.

The latest phase of the battle is a struggle for the high ground, of which the British still hold a part on the slopes of Messines Ridge, (although yesterday they lost Spanbroekmolen, the highest point of the ridge,) and Kemmel, the loftiest eminence of the region, and the group of hills to the west of it.

The height, (in meters,) of various elevations is shown on the inset map, which represents the Messines Ridge region only.

German gains at the end of yesterday's fighting are indicated by the line of spear-heads in advance of the broken line, which represents the previous day's battlefront.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES

Yesterday's fighting was the most profitable the Germans have had during the last week. To summarize the German advance, they captured Bailleul, Wulverghem, Wytschaete and, apparently, most of the famous Messines ridge.

To take these up in the order in which they were occupied by the German troops, Bailleul has but little value. Its value lay in the fact that just south of the town there passes the railroad from Hazebrouck to Armentières and Lille. But some days ago the Germans got well astride this railroad through the occupation of Merris, southeast of Bailleul. Once this road was crossed, Bailleul vanished as a point of any importance. Its value was enhanced in the public mind by the frequent mention in the dispatches of the last few days, as it was the centre of many hours of terrific fighting. But an inspection of the general railroad situation in the Flanders country will show the relative value of the various points in the active battle area in their true importance.

The British lines before Ypres are fed principally by the road running from Calais to Hazebrouck. This latter place is the most important junction in the entire battle area. From it the following roads radiate: One directly northeast to Ypres, (this road is still safely in British hands, the Germans being over five miles from it at the nearest point;) the road to Armentières via Merris, (as the British are out of Armentières and are west of Merris, this road is in no danger of being cut, as the British retreat is along the line of the railroad and not perpendicular to it;) the road to Merville along the line of which the British retreat is also taking place, although the Merville junction is in German hands, and the road to Givenchy by the roundabout route of Bethune, (this latter road is for part of its length perpendicular to the line of retreat, so that it may be cut by the German advance, but if this does occur there are two other roads, both of which pass through St. Pol, which can be used to feed the Givenchy front.)

There is, therefore, no point in the entire battle area between Bethune and the North Sea coast which can seriously incommode the British as far as transportation is concerned other than Hazebrouck. If the Germans take this centre they will not only incommode the British but will seriously affect their entire position in the Ypres salient. Bailleul has no relation to Hazebrouck; it is, indeed, well to the east of it. Hazebrouck is, however, one of the main objectives in this region by reason of its relation to the British transportation system. It is exceedingly well guarded by natural features, the forest of Nieppe on the south and the hills on the north, the Germans having to pass through a narrow neck between these two in order to reach it.

The taking of Wulverghem was more important, indeed, than Bailleul. Through this enterprise the Germans were able to get a foothold on the southern edge of the Messines Ridge and to the rear of the British main position, between Messines and Wytschaete. This enabled them to take this position in reverse and by a simultaneous attack in front forced the British to abandon Wytschate.

This, however, appears much more serious than it really is. The Messines Ridge has been spoken of so often that the impression has become current that it is merely an isolated position jutting up out of the plains. This is entirely erroneous. To begin with, there is a continuous ridge running all the way from Messines northward to Passchendaele, and of this ridge what has become known as the Messines Ridge is the smallest part. Again, west of Messines and Wytschaete is the hook shaped ridge which was spoken of yesterday. This ridge is still absolutely intact except for the very tip. The main ridge from Messines to Passchendaele cannot be taken in reverse, the Ypres salient itself cannot be destroyed until the shank of this hook ridge is occupied. And the real danger in the entire Flander situation is the forcing in of the Ypres salient by which the way to Calais is opened.

Were the situation about Ypres the same as it was before the series of British offensives of last year, the fate of Ypres might be considered sealed. But by taking practically all of the Passchendaele sector all danger from the north was eliminated, while on the south the ridge from Wytschaete west through Kemmel stands as a buttress which Germany will find it exceedingly costly to take.

Southwest of Wytschaete, about two thousand yards, the British have also been forced from the height of Spanbroekmolen, one of the highest points on the Messines Ridge. It is, however, but thirty feet higher than the neck of high ground which connects Wytschaete with Kemmel, so that the German advantage through yesterday's operations is by no means overwhelming. In fact, the Germans are still fighting in the most difficult situation which they have yet had to contend with. Disaster has not yet seized the British, serious as the situation is. It is, in fact, the steady falling back that gives ground for worry rather than the loss of the ridge positions.

FOCH PUTS PRICE ON FOE'S SUCCESSES

Observer at Front Believes Watchful Commander's Strategy Is Sound.

OTTAWA, April 16.—Telegraphing from British Headquarters in France today, Reuter's correspondent says:

"Today's news is not so good as one could wish, but the following viewpoint is suggested:

"We are confronted by enormous concentrations of men and guns. The purpose of the enemy has been revealed as an operation attempting to separate the Anglo-French armies by rushing on the former. General Foch, in closest agreement with Field Marshal Haig, is aiming not only at arresting the enemy, but at a counterattack which shall defeat the Germans. Therefore, within certain limits, the sound policy is to allow the Germans to spend their surplus power as lavishly as possible in order to reach the stage of equality, or even inferiority.

"On the other hand, General Foch is endeavoring to avoid the enemy obtaining a great strategic advantage, simultaneously placing a definite price on certain places as worth so much and no more in defending. Thus, when the price of defending Bailleul was paid, Bailleul was evacuated,

"It must be remembered that General von Ludendorff has laid down all his cards, while General Foch has not yet shown his hand.

"General Foch's dispositions inspire a degree of confidence which the situation in Flanders seemingly does not justify. We may rest assured that our own supreme command is watching both the enemy and the map with intense vigilance.

"While the enemy hopes to frustrate our plans by forcing changes by weight of numbers, so far the incomparable steadfastness of our soldiers has deprived the enemy of the fruits of his schemes."

PLUMER'S BRILLIANT RECORD.

Won Fame Last Year on the Battlefield to Which He Is Recalled.

General Sir Herbert Plumer has evidently been recalled from the command of the British forces in Italy, whence he was ordered in November, to resume charge of the British manoeuvres on the terrain on which he won fame last year by the blowing up of Messines Ridge and the occupation of the whole line of isolated hills between Armentières and Ypres. Of these exploits, Sir Douglas Haig wrote at the time:

"The excellence of the arrangements reflects the highest credit on the Second Army Commander, General Sir Herbert Plumer, and his staff.

Previous to this event the English press had constantly referred to Plumer as Haig's right-hand man. In the first year of the war he commanded the Fifth Army Corps and for his services in Flanders was decorated by King Albert with the Grand Cross of the Star of Leopold and by President Poincaré with the corresponding decoration and rank in the Legion of Honor.

His military career began at the age of 29, in 1876, when he entered the York and Lancaster Regiment. He is a veteran of the Sudan campaign, (1884,) Matabele rebellion, (1896,) and the Boer war, (1901-02,) from all of which he bore away decorations and the honor of being mentioned in dispatches.

CLEMENCEAU IS OPTIMISTIC.

Gains Favorable Impression on Visit to the Battlefront.

PARIS, April 16.—Premier Clemenceau returned to Paris last night from the battlefront, where he had been getting into close touch with conditions. The impression of the situation which he brought back to the capital with him was a favorable one.

J. K. Cochrane Now a General.

Colonel James K. Cochrane, who visited this country last Winter on a military mission, has been made Brigadier General, commanding the 61st British Division in France. In 1904 General Cochrane married Miss Edith Poor, eldest daughter of Mrs. Henry W. Poor of this city.

brickwork, which looked cold in this northern weather, but there were friendly people there who knew and welcomed the men, and many houses were sanctuaries in which fighting men could forget the war and enjoy for a little while warmth and the kindliness of life, with some musician among them sitting at a piano in a cozy room among the French family with whom they were billeted.

Thousands of officers who went forward to the lines about Ploegsteert or Wytschaete used to have to take dinner at Hotel du Faucon. It was an old place, not very comfortable or grand within, but there was good food and good wine and good comradeship.

There was an officers' club around the corner of the Grande Place served by comely Flemish lasses, and here in Winter one saw groups of muddy fellows straight out of the bogs of the Flemish battlefields, but merry and bright after a wash and brushup, and over tables one heard them telling strange tales of war with gusts of laughter, or the remembrance of some moment of great peril in their eyes, or passing a salute of the spirit to some pal who had just "gone west." They would be telling tragiccomic tales of the way men lived in those old days of trench warfare, which some of us thought would last until the end.

And in old Bailleul there were little shops where we could pass a pleasant hour on the way elsewhere, sitting in courtyards in the Summer, where flowering plants grew up walls, and pleasant women waited among customers who became their friends. I remember on one day in one such place a group of officers gathered around a little girl who was an invalid and could not walk, and whose delight it was to play tunes on a gramophone for these tall soldiers, with mud on them, who were very gentle and chivalrous to this child with her big blue eyes and waxen face.

Always in the Grande Place of Bailleul there were crowds of men. For three years and more I saw them there in all weathers, with snow on their steel hats or the glare of the sun, and on days of battle up in Flanders there was a turbulent pageant passing through the square, a pageant of guns and wagons and mules and men, with pipes for the Scottish troops and brass bands for the English troops.

The King came here one day, and all the square was lined by fighting men of the naval division, and New Zealanders and Australians and Scots, and on the steps of the Town Hall were groups of army nurses.

Just outside the city, by an asylum for poor old women who had wit enough for terror when the shells fell near and the sky of night was aflame with the lights of war, the British had an airdrome belonging to the Royal Naval Air Service, where, in the hangars and pavilions were as jolly a set of boys as heart of man could hope to meet about the world. I went among them many times and listened to their queer jargon of air speech, which is a different language to us earth men, and wondered at the amazing courage of these children who were great knights errant of the sky and great Captains.

The enemy used to hate their home here, and came over in the darkness and at dawn to drop bombs on their sheds, and they told me this sort of thing while shaving or in their tubs. They always paid him back for such behavior with terrible vengeance.

A crowd of memories come back to me about Bailleul, and it is sad now that this dear old city is no more than a memory to us who knew its streets so well and its friendly people, whom a day or two ago I saw trekking away down long roads of exile while their homes were burning behind them.

Part of Battle's Third Phase.

The capture of this city belongs to the third great attack which has been delivered by the enemy since March 21. Always he has massed his strength opposite the British lines and struck with full weight against their troops. In the first phase down from St. Quentin and the Cambrai salient the French came to their help and relieved them by their good and gallant aid, but the Germans then edged away from the French to strike the British again, this time at Arras, where they failed.

A third phase has now followed in this northern blow and once again the British have had to sustain the abominable pressure of German divisions constantly relieved and supported by fresh divisions passing through them, while the British troops fight on and on, killing the enemy in large numbers, but having to withdraw to new lines of defense. Under these enormous odds their heroism and their sacrifices are beyond words that may be uttered except in the silence of one's heart.

This morning the enemy developed his gain of Bailleul by pressing westward of the city and at the same time delivered separate and fierce attacks against Wytschaete village, which he appears to have captured after desperate fighting, as well as Spanbroekmolen.

It is probable that the next German battle will be directed against the hills of Kemmel, Mont Noir, and Mont Rouge, which run east and west above Bailleul.

ALLIES PREPARING FOR QUICK STROKE

Hehri Bidou, French Military Critic, Indicates That They Soon Will Take Offensive.

BATTLE ONE OF EXHAUSTION

Rests with Allies, He Asserts, to Decide When Foe Has Been Sufficiently Worn Down.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—Henri Bidou, who is perhaps the soundest of the Paris newspaper critics of military affairs, has been at the British front for several days and sends to his paper, the Journal des Débats, the best summary that has appeared here on the present position of the battle.

"The battle of Flanders," he said, "which began as a diversion, has resulted for the Germans in a success sufficiently substantial as to transform it into a battle of first importance. Once the Lys was forced the battlefield changed its aspect. In place of the great, smooth plain, the ground takes the shape of a broad corridor, inclosed between the hills which dominate Bailleul to the north and those dominating Lillers to the south. The only advance possible to the Germans is through that wide corridor, but this in turn is subdivided in the centre by the forest of Nieppe, which has on the south the broad passage which leads to Aire and on the north a similar passage to Bailleul.

"The British troops stopped the enemy definitely on Saturday in the centre on the Nieppe Forest front. The forest must, therefore, be turned by the passages on each side. Of these the southern, leading to Aire, is impracticable for the enemy, whose left flank is closely held at Givenchy by the British 55th Division. The further passage between the forest and the hills above Lillers and Aire is a kind of funnel in which it would be dangerous to risk engaging a column of troops. The northern passage between the forest and Messines plateau is much wider and more practicable, and it is here that the enemy is trying to force a passage by attacks both to the right and left of Bailleul, that is to say, at Neuve Eglise and on the Meteren streamlet, respectively."

The recapture of Neuve Eglise by the British on Saturday, Bidou says, had the effect of stabilizing the situation here, but it must be remembered that the Germans have since retaken the village.

"On Sunday," Bidou continues, "the tactical situation was as follows: On the right, the Germans were on Messines plateau and occupied Ploegsteert Forest. Then they bordered the Dunkirk-Lille railway south of Bailleul. Their centre was held up before Nieppe Forest, which the British were energetically defending, and their left was also held up at Givenchy. As a result the German Sixth Army is spread out into the plain like a vast pocket at the foothills crowned by British troops. Allied reinforcements have had time to arrive, and the tactical situation has become infinitely better."

The general situation, in Bidou's opinion, while it has not ceased to be serious, since desperate fighting is still in progress, permits of hopes of a solution. The Germans are visibly out to separate the British from the French and have adopted the classic method of attacking at the junction. Considering, he says, that the British Army is more fatigued the Germans are trying to make an end of them before turning against the French.

"Since Thursday last the Germans have engaged 113 of their divisions out of a total of 199, of which twenty are little fitted for a battle of this kind," he writes. "Factors of the problem now are these: Germany has thrown two-thirds of her forces into the battle, chiefly against the British. This has hollowed out two vast pockets, but has obtained no decisive result. Which side will wear out first? And at what period of the wearing down of the enemy will the allied command judge the situation sufficiently favorable to assume the offensive in turn? That is the situation today."

with the hammering of machine guns, the shorter reports of rifles, and the thunder of anti-aircraft artillery. The sky was clouded with countless airplanes, and above the fighting troops many aerial combats took place. While he watched, the Kaiser saw a burning hostile airplane crash to earth."

Max Osborn, the war correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung, writing on Saturday on the battle of Armentières, gives a short description of the fighting which matches ill with the persistent assertions in the German press that the German losses are comparatively small. He says:

"The struggle to reach the goal (that is Armentières) is difficult and hard.

"It is true that the storming of the first lines, smashed by the German artillery fire was quickly successful, but after that there was an uninterrupted struggle with the defenders of a deep mile-wide trench system, which was strengthened by all possible means. Every farmyard and house was prepared for defense and surrounded by dense rows of barbed wire.

"The crossing of the Lys, which is twenty to thirty yards wide, and a swampy marsh, required a mighty effort. The most difficult work, however, was the bringing up of artillery. The ground was muddy and had countless shellholes full of water, and the roads had disappeared. Masses of planks and beams and rafts were employed, and only by unspeakable exertions was a way made for the artillery and munitions columns. Thousands of hands had to help.

"East of the heights of Bailleul and from Neuve Eglise to the northern sector of the front of attack the resistance of the English has become especially determined. Also at the southern corner of the line near Bethune is the enemy's defense strong and tenacious."

GUN FIRE IS VIOLENT IN MONTDIDIER REGION

PARIS, April 16.—There was heavy artillery fighting on the Montdidier front last night and throughout today. No infantry action has taken place in that region today. German attacks in the neighborhood of the Bois-le-Pretre [Lorraine front] were repulsed today. Yesterday the French took prisoners near the Oise Canal.

The War Office announcement tonight says:

> Violent bombardments on both sides took place in the region of Montdidier. There was no infantry action.
> About the Bois-le-Pretre [Lorraine front] several attempts made by the enemy were repulsed after quite lively engagements. Our patrols took prisoners near Negreville and Badonviller.

The text of the afternoon statement follows:

> In the region south of Montdidier there was heavy artillery fighting. In the sector of Noyon the French made some progress in a local operation.
> French reconnoitring parties were very active, especially in the region of the Oise Canal. A French detachment crossed the canal west of Pierremande and brought back ten prisoners and one machine gun. French patrols also took prisoners in the sector of Corbeny, in Champagne, near Seicheprey, and in the Vosges. A German raid at Teton was repulsed.

> Everywhere else the night was calm.

LONDON ACCEPTS REVERSE CALMLY

result of the German success at Bailleul upon the British in the narrow country to the north? and, second, when will the allied high command either be able or consider it opportune to strike a counterblow? In regard to the first, it is pointed out that the British are now fighting on a front to the north of Bailleul and Wulverghem and are meeting attacks on the Wytschaete ridge. The most important positions on higher ground, such as Mont Kemmel, are still covered by the British, but it cannot be assumed that a blow of this kind has exhausted its momentum.

Menace to Channel Realized.

By their success the Germans have got some distance behind the corner of Messines Ridge, and unless they can be brought to a stand they may create a very awkward situation in that neighborhood. General Haig's night report adds to the apprehension of the critical course of the battle. With the German advance to Meteren a threat to Mont Kemmel and the range heights which run almost directly west to Mont Boescheke, the loss of Messines Ridge exposes the British flank.

As The Westminster Gazette remarks: "It would be wrong to fail to recognize that a position has been reached on the northern part of the line where further retreat is not possible without the loss of positions of high importance to the defense of Northern France"—in other words, the evacuation of direct communications with the armies to the south by way of Calais and Boulogne.

Count on Foch's Support.

In this connection special interest attaches to an editorial statement by The Times that General Foch is the "avowed champion of the vital principle that the Channel ports and short communications between Great Britain and France must be held at any cost in the interest of France as well as of ourselves. He marked his adherence to this essential factor of allied strategy by his strenuous and devoted help during the first battle of Ypres, and he has never since swerved from his conviction."

If, as must be assumed, this statement is based on sound information it follows that the situation has become almost as critical as it was when the Germans were successfully driving toward Amiens, for continued progress west of Bailleul would threaten the southward communications via Calais and Boulogne, as the capture of Amiens would have severed them.

Foch's plans, of course, are his own secret, and it can be put on record that one of the reasons which have tended to strengthen British confidence in the French Commander in Chief is that not even the most inveterate club gossips have been able to suggest that they have fathomed his strategy and can guess when or where he will strike.

triotic papers which Bolo acquired or tried to acquire. He made an offer of $400,000 for Le Figaro, bought 1,500 shares in Le Rappel for $34,000, and even approached Clemenceau's Homme Enchaine. Papers he got control over included Paris-Midi, Le Cri de Paris, a satirical weekly, and La Revnue, of which Jean Finot is editor. The curious thing about the method employed to make these newspapers serve German interests was that under Bolo's control they became exponents of "defeatism" carried to the extreme of ultra-French militarism.

The explanation is that the German war party could use quotations from the Bolo papers to persuade the German people that their existence was threatened by the French, thereby justifying the German Government and rekindling in the people the war fervor which was fast oozing out of them. Then, when the opportune moment came, the same ultra-patriotic papers, so it was expected, would suddenly turn pacifist and thereby stir up dissension in the nation and destroy the efficiency of its war measures.

Bolo's career was cut short before he had chance to carry out this part of the program. More important than Bolo's trial, sentence, and death, is believed to be the case of Joseph Caillaux, former Prime Minister of France, who is also accused of treason, but against whom so far the evidence is not so conclusive. Owing to his political influence it is expected that the trial of Caillaux will produce far more excitement.

DECLARES AMERICA SPURS ON GERMANS

Vossische Zeitung Contends President Wilson Has Contributed to War Loan's Success.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 16, (via London.)—In the financial supplement of the Vossische Zeitung, George Hunch asserts that President Wilson has helped German war loans and will help the new loan. The paper says that Mr. Wilson is Germany's worst enemy, but has unwittingly done Germany good turns several times, and that even America's entry into the war spurred Germany on to the greatest effort and at the same time helped the sixth big war loan to a figure of 13,000,000,000 marks.

The paper says that half a year later President Wilson tried to create inward strife and so weaken the country, but that this only led to another triumph in the seventh war loan.

"This representative of dollar force," the article continues, "has shown German people that there is no other choice but to continue the war until a victorious end. He spoke of unlimited force and thinks he will negotiate with a trampled Germany."

The paper asserts that President Wilson has done everything possible economically and financially to help the Entente win the war and has used the economical weapon since the first days of the war.

"Let us give President Wilson an answer to all his dishonesty by a gigantic success to the present war loan," Hunch writes. "Thus we can even use a Wilson. It is a pity that he always succeeds in deceiving our enemies about the true state of affairs. They still hope to down us by economical superiority and to weaken our people by hunger. * * * They will see that all the economical depression which they wish us will be still worse for them. Did not Russia collapse under this depression? A similar fate awaits the other Entente countries, whereas the Eastern peace alleviates our difficulties."

The article then quotes as an example the lack of foodstuffs in England, and the fact that England cannot even import enough American cotton and laces and Russian flax. It asserts that only American economic power can keep the Entente going, but that President Wilson had expected things to happen otherwise.

It is only necessary to survey the New York Stock Exchange to perceive how shares have decreased in value, according to the Vossische Zeitung, which quotes as instances Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and other stocks, giving their value at the end of 1916 and their present value and arguing that on the Berlin Exchange shares increase in value at such a rate that they can only be kept within bounds by the authorities intervening.

The paper declares that this comparison of the exchanges is instructive and argues that the American people are now obliged to bleed and pay and to see riches disappearing which they amassed during the world war.

Hunch advocates indemnification in order to restore Germany immediately after the war and points out that Germany has got enough mortgages.

"Let us understand how to use them, keeping Wilson in mind as a shield bearer, and guarantee for the Entente, and responsible for the proper fulfillment of their obligations," he writes.

ARMY BUILDS GIANT TANK.

Engineers at Boston Complete First of the Land Fighters.

BOSTON, April 16.—The war tank America, built here under the supervision of Brigadier General John A. Johnston, commanding the Department of the Northeast, was completed today. General Johnston drove the last rivet and engineers gave the machine a final test, preparatory to its transfer from the shops to an armory where it will remain until brought out for the Patriot's Day parade Friday.

LOAN TOTAL GOES TO $829,606,100 IN SPIRITED DRIVE

More Than Two Billions Must Be Subscribed in 17 Days to Reach the Goal.

ST. LOUIS DISTRICT LEADING

Foremost in Proportion of Its Quota, While New York Has the Largest Amount.

OREGON AND IOWA RIVALS

Report Almost Simultaneously That All of Their Counties Have Gone Over the Top.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The total of Liberty bond subscriptions tonight, as reported to the Treasury Department, was $829,606,100, with Minneapolis not yet appearing in the list. This amount is for the close of business Monday, April 15, and leaves seventeen days in the campaign. To reach the limit of $3,000,000,000 in these seventeen days there must be a total subscription of $2,170,393,900, or a daily subscription of $127,670,000. The increase yesterday from the total reported on Saturday, April 13, was $137,994,300.

The daily list of subscriptions by Federal Reserve districts tonight is arranged according to the percentage attained by each district. In this comparison St. Louis leads with 55 per cent. of its quota, Dallas is second with 35 per cent., and the other districts appear in the following orders: Chicago, 33; New York, 30; Boston, 27; Cleveland, 26; Kansas City, 24; San Francisco, 24; Philadelphia, 22; Richmond, 14, and Atlanta, 5 per cent. The percentage for the United States is 27.

Subscription by Districts.

The list of subscriptions follows:

District.	Subscription.	Quotas.
St. Louis	$72,101,400	$150,000,000
Dallas	28,338,450	80,000,000
Chicago	143,167,050	425,000,000
New York	275,682,100	900,000,000
Boston	68,642,250	250,000,000
Cleveland	78,940,000	300,000,000
Kansas City	31,442,650	130,000,000
San Francisco	51,185,850	210,000,000
Philadelphia	56,495,150	250,000,000
Richmond	18,377,750	130,000,000
Minneapolis	No report	105,000,000
Atlanta	5,323,450	90,000,000
Total	$829,606,100	$3,000,000,000

The St. Louis district, which leads in percentage honors, attributes its success to its large number of individual subscribers and a particularly generous patriotic response from the rural communities. Both Oregon and Iowa, which have been running neck and neck for several days in a race to determine which was the first State to obtain its quota, reported almost simultaneously today that every county within the respective State boundaries had subscribed their quotas. The unofficial advices received make it appear, however, that Oregon has won first honors in the "hundred per cent." State race, inasmuch as all of its counties are said to have attained their quotas on Saturday night. Iowa reported that the last of its ninety-nine counties, Blackhawk, of which Waterloo is the county seat, went over the top at 1:46 o'clock this afternoon. It is reported that 215,000 Iowans have bought bonds to date.

Although no figures were forthcoming from the Minneapolis district, reports were that the greatest enthusiasm was being shown, and that hopes for obtaining the district's quota were bright. Indicative of the spirit in which the selling campaign is starting in that district is the following report:

"Great Falls, Mont., in forty-two minutes today subscribed $1,156,750. Ninety solicitors in two hours commanded every loyal citizen to appear at a local hotel at 11 o'clock, and in less than three-quarters of an hour the million dollar mark was passed. The allotment for the entire county, in which Great Falls is located, was $750,000. Montana surely came through in fast and furious shape."

Seeks 100,000 Buyers.

The Boston district committee wired today that it was within striking distance of 100,000 subscribers. State totals reported were: Massachusetts, $48,619,000; Connecticut, $12,870,000: Maine, $5,458,000.

Cleveland leads all districts in the number of communities earning the right to fly the honor flag by obtaining or oversubscribing their quotas. In that district 234 flags have been awarded. San Francisco is running second with 218. Chicago has awarded 179 flags, some of the latest cities to claim them being Champaign, Ill.; Waterloo, Davenport, Muscatine, Dubuque, Des Moines, and Mason City, Iowa, and Whiting, East Chicago, and Hammond, Ind. Flag awards in other districts are: Boston, 146; New York, 100; Philadelphia, 52.

From the Kansas City district came reports of a much wider distribution of bonds than in the other campaigns. It is estimated that 70,000 subscribers have been obtained in the Kansas City district, which establishes an average of one bond to every family there. The committee reports filed with Washington today laid particular emphasis on the intention of every member of the selling forces to continue canvassing up to the final gong on May 4, regardless of the amount of subscriptions obtained. Instead of using the slogan "Over the Top" it was said, "A Liberty Bond in Every Home" was now being used.

Atlanta states that the official returns on its subscriptions, as forwarded by the Federal Reserve Bank, do not indicate the real results that have been obtained by the Sales Committee. Confidence is felt in that district, it is declared, that its allotment of $90,000,000 will be obtained. The country districts are responding particularly well to the loan, many subscriptions being taken from farmers of all classes in towns where the war relic trains are making stops. The City of Atlanta did not open its selling campaign until Monday night, and at one big mass meeting it then raised more than $2,000,000.

"Situation throughout the district well in hand," a report from Richmond said. "Reports indicate unusually large number of small buyers."

Dallas wired that it was well pleased with its showing of 35 per cent. of its quota to date. The drought of the last two years in many regions has made money short among the farmers, but they are buying as generously as possible, it is declared.

A committee has begun a house-to-house canvass in Philadelphia. Its first day's work resulted in 3,343 subscribers, for a total of $491,000.

PAST LOANS NOW ABSORBED.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Government bonds of the First and Second Liberty loans have been absorbed largely by the public and comparatively few remain in the hands of banks. This was shown today by a report of Controller of the Currency Williams that on March 4, the date of the last bank call, national abnks held $633,738,000 of Liberty bonds, or about 7 per cent. of the total amount issued up to that time. In addition, $299,684,000 had been loaned on Liberty bonds.

National banks were able to give strong support to the Third Liberty Loan, Controller Williams said, because their deposits of $14,437,589,000 on March 4 had increased nearly a billion and a half dollars since a year before, despite absorption of $5,808,000,000 in Liberty bonds by the country in that time. Total resources amounted to $18,014,911,000 on March 4, or $58,397,000 less than last Dec. 31. Loans and discounts were $9,139,225,000, or $251,611,000 less than on Dec. 31.

COAT OF TAR IN LOAN DRIVE.

Aged Louisiana Man, Mobbed, Says He Had Bought Bonds.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 16.—Covered with tar and feathers and wearing a placard bearing the words "disloyal to the United States," William A. Hunter, 68 years old, owner of a large plantation in Tenas Parish, Louisiana, arrived here today on a train from Newellton, La.

Hunter said citizens of Tenas Parish had applied the tar and feathers after accusing him of refusing to buy Liberty bonds. He told the United States Marshal here that he purchased $5,000 of bonds of the Second Liberty Loan when at his old home in Williamsport, Ind.

CROWELL TELLS OF STAFF.

1,772 of Draft Age on Duty in Washington, He Says.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In response today to a resolution of inquiry by Senator Thomas of Colorado, which followed much adverse criticism of the number of officers of draft age kept in Washington on noncombatant duty, Acting Secretary of War Crowell advised the Senate that 1,772 army officers within draft age, who have received commissions since the outbreak of war, are in Washington holding staff assignments.

Of these 778 are with the Ordnance Bureau, 336 with the Signal Corps, 296 in the Medical Corps, and 181 in the Quartermaster service.

McADOO APPEAL TO SCHOOLS

Otto H. Kahn Calls on Every Man and Woman of the Land to Buy Bonds to Limit of Capacity.

For the first eight days of the Third Liberty Loan campaign subscriptions forwarded by the various banks of the New York Federal Reserve District aggregate $275,682,100, according to the latest available figures made public last night by the Bond Division of the Federal Reserve Bank. This compares with $212,241,850, the total for the corresponding period of the Second Liberty Loan drive. Subscriptions tabulated yesterday amounted to $23,230,850.

That there has been a falling off in bond applications in the last few days is indicated by the fact that while the total, for the first four days of the campaign was approximately $180,000,000, or double the returns of the initial four days of the previous campaign, the subscription total for the last four days is only $95,443,100, which compares with $124,704,950 for a similar period in the Liberty Loan drive of last October. Members of the Liberty Loan Committee who are making a careful study of figures and reports said yesterday that subscriptions were not coming in fast enough, and that it was time for every one to realize that it was his duty to subscribe to the loan and not to ignore solicitations on the theory that the loan would be a success without his aid.

Subscriptions by Districts.

The following table gives the quotas, yesterday's recorded subscriptions, and totals to date for each of the sub-divisions of the New York district:

New York City—	Quota.	—SUBSCRIPTIONS— Recorded Yesterday.	Total for Eight Days.
Manhat'n.	$618,794,000	$17,663,050	$199,038,800
Brooklyn	39,616,900	399,400	15,251,850
Bronx	3,317,100	109,900	1,013,000
Queens	4,364,400	15,350	2,095,650
Richmond	1,032,900	45,800	387,500

Tot. out'de N. Y. C.	$232,874,700	$4,997,350	$57,895,300
Total for district	$900,000,000	$23,230,850	$275,682,100

Of all the sub-districts, No. 6, which takes in all of Long Island exclusive of New York City, makes the best showing, it having already furnished subscriptions amounting to 52 per cent. of its quota. The percentage for the five boroughs of New York City is 33, with Queens leading, it having sent in applications amounting to 47 per cent. of its quota. The percentage for Manhattan is 32; for Brooklyn, 38; for Bronx, 30, and for Richmond, 37. District 3, with Syracuse and Utica as headquarters, makes the poorest showing, it having subscribed to only 9 per cent. of its quota. It appears that while the whole New York District has subscribed to about 30 per cent. of its $900,000,000 quota, the portion of it which is outside of New York City has subscribed to 25 per cent.

Appeal to School Children.

The School Bureau of the Metropolitan Canvass Committee received yesterday a telegram from Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo transmitting his message to the school children of New York City. Mr. McAdoo says that every girl and boy, especially every little girl and boy, "is or ought to be" the boss of her or his parents, and that their appeal for subscriptions to Liberty bonds must necessarily be effective with their parents. The Secretary's telegram follows:

> Every little girl and every little boy and every big girl and every big boy in the United States can help their Government in this great war and help our noble sons and brothers who are fighting this war for us by saving their money and lending every cent of it to the Government.
> The Government gives you a bond or an obligation to pay the money back in full with interest. I want you all to save to the limit and lend to the Government to the limit of your ability. I want you all to make your mothers and fathers save to the limit and lend to the limit to their Government. Every girl and boy, especially every little girl and every little boy, is or ought to be the boss of their mothers and fathers, and I know that if you make a patriotic appeal to your mothers and fathers to save money and lend it to the Government to help our gallant soldiers and sailors who are fighting to save our liberty and our country, your mothers and fathers will listen to you and take your advice.
> The future of the country concerns the boys and girls of America more than the old people of America, because the future is what you must take care of. Your seniors are trying to take care of the present, in order that they may hand down to you young people, unimpaired, the splendid institutions of freedom and democracy which our forefathers handed down to us. Let every girl do her part; let every boy do his part, and let every mother and father do their part, and the military despotism for which the Kaiser stands will be swept away by universal liberty and triumphant democracy.

New York Guard Parades Tonight.

Several units of the New York Guard will parade in different parts of the city tonight. The Guardsmen will be accompanied by speakers, and subscriptions to the loan will be solicited. The marchers will include members of the 7th, 12th, 69th, and 71st Infantry, the 8th and 9th Coast Artillery, and the 22d Engineers.

Speakers at today's noon-day meeting at the Sub-Treasury will include James W. Gerard, formerly Ambassador to Germany, and Abram I. Elkus, formerly Ambassador to Turkey.

The usual exercises will be held at the Liberty Bell, the Liberty Theatre, and the Liberty Bank. Maud Powell and Nathan Straus are scheduled to appear at the Liberty Bell in City Hall.

George Wharton Pepper of Philadelpia spoke yesterday afternoon on the floor of the Produce Exchange, following whose address subscriptions to the loan amounting to $1,087,500 were received. It was announced that the Produce Exchange Committee had to date supplied applications totaling $3,292,200.

Mr. Pepper deprecated the spirit of faultfinding with our chosen leaders in their task of directing the conduct of the war, and urged that every one adopt the attitude of the soldier and unquestionably obey orders. "Put yourself on ration," he said; "increase your savings, work harder than ever before, and have the consciousness that you are translating into practical conduct the convictions we all share. God Almighty Himself must be thinking that if we are to win this victory we must win it ourselves. Every one of you who loves God and hates the devil must see that the Huns are headed this way; so up, over the top, and meet them!"

Miss Grace Anthony sang "America" and "La Marseillaise" and led the gathering in singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers." The band from the 22d Infantry at Governors Island gave a concert before the meeting. Next Tuesday Captain Arthur Chute will address the third of the Produce Exchange's Liberty Loan meetings.

Mrs. Castle Speaks for Loan.

Adolph Lewisohn subscribed yesterday to $50,000 of Third Liberty Loan bonds through Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Chairman of the Mayor's Women's Committee on National Defense, which has charge of the bond booth in City Hall Park. Mrs. Vernon Castle, widow of the aviator and dancer, and Wilfred A. Joubert of Boston, made addresses.

More than 300 members of the Master Plumbers' Association raised $100,000 last night for the Liberty Loan at a meeting held at the Imperial, in Brooklyn.

Internal Revenue Collector Edwards spoke yesterday at the Liberty Bank in Madison Square, operated by the National League for Woman's Service. "The man who has not made some sacrifice to buy a Liberty bond is worse than a traitor," he said. "For my part, he can go down to the river front and jump in and I will be glad. We are not doing a patriotic thing when we buy Liberty bonds. We are only doing our duty. There isn't anything very patriotic in buying a bond and knowing that you can have your money back any time, and all the while you are receiving interest on the loan."

Under the auspices of the Continental Guaranty Corporation the new Liberty Bell at Madison Square and Thirty-eighth Street was presented yesterday to the Liberty Loan Committee. This immense replica of the old bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, drew a large crowd for the opening exercises, which included addresses by William H. Edwards, Guy Emerson, Captain A. B. Lindsay, and E. S. Maddock.

Retail Salesmen Parade.

Members of the Retail Salesmen's Association held a meeting last night in the Bank of United States, 77 Delancey Street, after parading through the principal streets of the east side. Louis Schradnick, the President of the association, made an address in which he said that it was just as necessary to subscribe to bonds as to pay rent. He announced that the International Ladies Garment Workers Union had entered a subscription for $100,000, and that his own association had applied for $25,000. Recent patriotic demonstrations on the east side, which have been participated in by the Socialist element, have been effective in producing actual subscriptions to the loan. Last night there was a line of at least 500 persons at the window of the bank where subscriptions on the partial payment plan are received.

Representatives of savings banks at a meeting held yesterday adopted the following resolution:

> Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that the savings banks give their hearty and utmost individual support to the Liberty Loan Committee to the end that the best results obtainable be achieved in making the Third Liberty Loan a success.
> Resolved, That the coupon plan as formulated by the Federal Reserve Bank for use in Greater New York meets with the approval of this committee, and it is the unanimous sentiment of the committee that it forthwith recommends to every savings bank in New York and Brooklyn that they adopt such coupon plan for use as far as possible in conjunction with any plan heretofore devised and utilized by them to the end that subscribers be accommodated as far as possible in the matter of part-payments.

Otto H. Kahn's Appeal.

The Liberty Loan Committee made public yesterday a statement on the Liberty Loan, prepared by Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

"No people ever drew its sword for a nobler cause, from higher motives, with purer aim, in a more unselfish spirit, than did our peace-loving people in taking up the gage of battle thrown down to us by the rulers of Germany," Mr. Kahn said. "No action more knightly is recorded in history on the part of a nation, than that of America, spurning the lures of ease and plenty and boundless prosperity, choosing for its own that road to the heights which leads through the valley of suffering and sacrifice, and bringing it mighty and unspent power to the rescue of the hard-pressed champions of humanity. No action was ever more justified before God and men than—after infinite forbearance—the flashing forth of the American sword to defend, together with the highest and most cherished possessions of the world, our own honor, which had been defied, and our own safety, which was gravely menaced.

"To think of it all, to feel the deep and lofty meaning of it, to grasp the part and mission of our country in this fateful struggle for the preservation of those priceless things for which the best men among all the nations have fought and bled and suffered these many generations past must stir the blood of every American worthy of the name. To do what in him lies to help our cause to victory must be his most eager desire and most solemn determination; the privilege and glory of those to whom it is given to meet our enemy arms in hand must be his envy; to emulate them in patriotic devotion and willing sacrifice must be his aim beyond any other.

Forney & Co	5,000

Work was begun yesterday by the Importers', Dressmakers' and Tailors' Committee, of which Mrs. Willard D. Straight is the Chairman, on the plan personally to solicit the 8,000 dressmakers in New York City. J. M. Giddings, Vice Chairman of the committee, has listed every name in a card index, and the details have been so carefully worked out that every one of the dressmakers will be called on at the time of day or night that will be most convenient.

A report from the Florists' Committee, of which Charles Schenck is the Chairman, indicated that this trade was responding well to the appeal to buy bonds. Among the firms who have made liberal purchases are Lord & Burnham, Alfred T. Bunyard, New York Florists' Club, Traendley & Schenck, Herman Warendorff, Kernan Company, and John Young.

Among the first of the hotels to reach the quota assigned them was the group owned and operated by Sheriff David H. Knott. He notified Chairman Fred Sterry that his hotels would keep up the campaign with a greater sum in view. Manter Brothers, who operate the Hotels Navarre, Grand, Great Northern, and Netherland, report that they are rapidly nearing the realizing of the amount which they are expected to raise. The Plaza Hotel, owned by the Chairman of the committee, was also one of the hotels which reported yesterday that it had sold its full quota and was going to keep on selling.

The Button Merchants' Association of America has launched a campaign for subscriptions to the loan.

PUT TIMES INTO LOAN PLAY.

School Children at Rally Take Their "Lines" from Paper's Columns.

Sixteen public schools combined at the Neighborhood Rally at School 64, Tenth Street and Avenue B, last night, to boom the sale of Liberty bonds. Abraham I. Elkus, former Ambassador to Turkey, spoke and urged the people of the east side to centre their efforts upon making the campaign an overwhelming success. He also expressed the hope that the great work of Americanization would be continued so that they might more thoroughly enjoy the wonderful gifts this country has to offer.

A feature of the program was patriotic exercises based on the edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES of April 6, in which the editorial of that issue on the Liberty Loan was incorporated. The central figure as THE NEW YORK TIMES said:

"If I do not get another thing today, I will do this thing—a fitting remembrance of that day, April 6, 1917, just a year ago, when America entered this war—let's decide that every American will go and buy a Liberty bond! Don't let's allow any one to roll around and find us still wondering who is going to win this thing—let's decide it here today, [illegible] decide [illegible] can win [illegible] say, 'I will do it.'"

"Here, from my edition of April 6, I scatter these great thoughts written by famous men and women; catch them, you to [illegible] them, read them, and learn, do you? Catch them, then tell us what have you learned?"

Then each child read from clipping she had caught.

on the Meuse, half of which is in Holland and the other part in Belgium. I went close up to an electric wire network six feet high, which the Germans had erected for 200 kilometers around the Belgian frontier to keep the people in. The wire network was enclosed on either side by a barbed-wire fence three feet high. Every fifty yards there is a German sentry, wearing a steel hat, who paces up and down. It is death for any Belgian to approach within 500 yards of the fence, except at the proper openings, which have been closed since April 5, except for special travelers.

A little beyond the wire barrier I could see some German officers pacing to from a bridge crossing the canal which runs parallel with the Meuse from Holland into Belgium. Occasionally a sentry on the other side of the fence took shelter from the keen cold in his box and stood watching me for a moment or two. Neither of us spoke.

Many Killed by Charged Wire.

A Dutch skipper, just returned on a barge, who kept a small café on the canal, told me that civilians in Smeermaes, on the other side of the wire, had little to eat, and that the German soldiers, mostly men who had been wounded severely, didn't fare much better. He said more than 100 smugglers had been killed by coming into contact with the charged wires along the Limburg frontier. Friday night a German soldier was killed while receiving a package of food from a Dutch smuggler. He had inadvertently touched the deadly wire.

I saw a German Red Cross ambulance train arrived at the station here recently with 200 wounded British officers who had been exchanged. It was pathetic to see the wounded try to raise themselves to wave the flowers they had received from the Dutch. It was their first glimpse of freedom after their long imprisonment. A Captain told me there were a number of soldiers on the train who had been maimed for life by Russian gunfire when the Germans put them to work behind the lines.

PASSES NATURALIZATION ACT

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Loyalty of American citizens of foreign birth and blood was praised today in the Senate in a debate which preceded the passage of the House bill amending the naturalization laws to meet wartime conditions, and especially designed to protect 123,000 technical enemy aliens in America's fighting forces who would be subject to execution as traitors if captured.

PREMIER CONFIDENT OF HAIG'S SUCCESS

most drastic character. Nobody would deny the great emergency and the Government included Ireland reluctantly and only because they were convinced that there would be a great sense of injustice and resentment at the carrying out of the measure unless Ireland were included.

Calls It "Essential War Measure."

"The Government, therefore, arrived at the conclusion that self-government is an essential war measure," he went on.

In regard to the statement made by George N. Barnes that the Government would carry the bill, Lloyd George said that the Government could only use all its influence to carry it. If it was not carried, those responsible for its failure to carry ought in all conscience to accept the responsibility for the direction of the war without it. It was impossible to face the difficulties in Ireland without a united country, he said.

"It is impossible," he continued, "to secure unity unless every section feels that justice has been done, not merely by compelling Irishmen to take a full share in the war's burden, but by securing to them the principle of self-determination for which we are fighting in every theatre. We entered the war for that principle. We have never departed from it, and hope we shall be able to enforce it at the peace conference."

He added that if the Irish members were to reject the bill it would be their responsibility.

Joseph Devlin exclaimed: "Now the cat is out of the bag."

The Premier added that the Government could not possibly have resistance to the Home Rule bill used as a lever to defeat conscription, and that was why each measure must be taken on its merits.

"Nothing Vital" Lost in Flanders.

He then turned to the situation in Flanders and said that fluctuations must continue, but he was full of confidence. The Premier continued:

"I have just seen a General who has returned from the front, and I must ask the House to excuse my leaving the House immediately after the speech because he has to lay questions before me on which I have to reply tonight, and I only detained him a few minutes to get his impressions. He told me had seen Generals who are fighting.

"That gallant old General, General Plumer—one of the doughtiest warriors this country has—is facing great odds, but he is quite confident. We have lost territory, but we have lost nothing vital. That is the view not merely of our Generals. It is the view of General Foch, who is equally calm and equally confident. He was seen also this afternoon by a distinguished General who is now waiting to see me. He is absolutely confident.

"They are aiming at destroying the British Army and they feel that if they can get this army out of the way the path would be clear to victory. They have not yet got it out of the way."

"They have inflicted, I am sorry to say, heavy losses, but nothing to the losses they sustained. The French Army is intact and the American Army is pouring across.

"There may be hope and there may be despondency, but if we stand together firmly and steadfastly, not giving way to fear or panic, prepared to give and take in all measures—if all parties in Great Britain, yes, in Great Britain and Ireland, stand together, Irishmen in Ireland fighting with Irishmen who are coming across the flood in millions to fight in brigades with British troops—if we do that we will win through in the end."

All the latter part of the Premier's speech was punctuated with cheers and he received a great ovation as he left the House.

Dillon Fears "Another Belgium."

In the report stage of the Man Power bill, John Dillon, Chairman of the Irish Nationalists, moved the omission of the Irish clause. and pressed the Government to give its real plans. He recommended that the Government go to the counties of Antrim and Down and try to hold conscription meetings. That, he said, would open the Government's eyes.

Doubtless the giving of home rule would produce a great effect, Mr. Dillon asserted, but at the present time the Government appeared neither able to carry on the war successfully nor accept peace; neither able to govern Ireland nor allow Ireland to govern herself.

Mr. Dillon said that he had been forty years in public life during some of the stormiest periods of Irish history, but he solemnly warned the Government that he had never known anything to approach the feeling in Ireland today. If conscription were applied, he said, the chaos ensuing would be appalling, and Ireland would be turned into another Belgium.

John Joseph Clancy, member from Dublin County North, in seconding Mr. Dillon's motion, said that a Government "with a record of infamy and defeat had not a moral right to arrest even a rat in Ireland."

Mr. Barnes appealed to Irishmen not to cry before they were hurt. He believed that home rule might be on the statute books before conscription was operative. Indeed, he said, the Government intended to secure that if it could possibly be done.

Amid Irish exclamations of "The House of Lords," Mr. Barnes said that if that could not be done every man would have to reconsider his position.

Sir Edward Carson, interrupting, asked if the Government meant that before Irishmen were called to the colors Home Rule would be passed. Mr. Barnes repeated that the Government would introduce the bill. This was greeted by exclamations of "Answer."

Mr. Devlin pressed Sir Edward Carson's point, but Mr. Barnes said he could add nothing.

Timothy Healy then asked whether, if the Lords failed to pass the bill, the Government would resign.

Mr. Barnes replied he should certainly say they would. Premier Lloyd George here exclaimed: "Hear. Hear."

Mr. Barnes was subjected to continual interruptions and questions on the Government's intentions. The speaker pointed out that the Premier would be speaking later, and would be able to elucidate it.

Carson Supports the Bill.

Sir Edward Carson said he would continue to support the Man-Power bill in order to help crush the detestable German militarism, but not because he was grateful to the Government. He would prefer anything rather than that all civilization should be impeded by the victory of the enemy. He said it was perfectly clear that no recruits would be conscripted in Ireland until a Home Rule bill was passed. The Government had so pledged themselves, but there was no pledge from the Nationalists.

Sir Edward said that his own belief was that then conscription would be more difficult to apply than ever, because there would be an Irish Parliament opposed to it. Doubtless he would be asked to go over and make things smooth. But it would not be an easy job after Ulster had been promised by the Government and Parliament that if they entered the army, home rule would be suspended for the duration of the war.

Nevertheless, Sir Edward hoped that Ulster would support the conscription bill. The Government, he added, had blundered from the beginning to the end on this question in trying to please everybody and they would succeed in pleasing nobody.

Under application of the closure Mr. Dillon's motion was lost by 296 to 123 and the clause carried. The bill was then passed on third reading and tabled. The Nationalists remained in opposition to the last, Mr. Dillon exclaiming:

"The worst day's work done for Irtland since the war began."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—The House of Commons tonight rejected John Dillon's motion for the omission of the Irish conscription clause from the Man Power bill of a majority of 173, and finally passed the third reading of the whole bill by 301 to 103, a majority of 198.

CANADA TO CALL OUT MEN BETWEEN 19 AND 23

Removes Former Exemptions for Those Who Are Unmarried—To Rush Reinforcements.

OTTAWA, April 16.—The Canadian Government, in an official statement issued tonight, announced that it had decided upon measures necessary to obtain immediately substantial reinforcements for the Canadian expeditionary force. Need for these reinforcements, it was asserted, has become imperative because of the critical situation which has developed on the western front.

Desiring to speed up operation of the Military Service act, the Government has decided that unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 23 are not indispensable to agriculture and other essential industries. They will be called out first and all exemptions in their case abolished. An Order-in-Council has been formulated which provides that not only are youths of 19 subject to the provisions of the Military Service act, but also all other youths when they reach that age. The order also removes exemption allowed to officers and men who, serving the Canadian expeditionary force, did not proceed further than Great Britain and were then returned and discharged.

The Government announcement stated that treaties were under negotiation with foreign Governments, under which citizens of such Governments residing in Canada might be made liable to military service.

The Government is authorized under the Military Service Act to raise 100,000 men. Developments at the front, it was stated, would alone decide whether Parliament would be asked to increase that number before the House was prorogued.

The Minister of Militia is authorized to grant exemption in the class called to young men with relatives at the front. This ground alone is recognized for exemption.

IRELAND PROTESTS DRAFT.

Clergy Take Leading Part in Meetings in 100 Parishes.

LONDON, April 16.—Meetings to protest against conscription were held Monday in 100 parishes in Ireland, all classes of the population participating, says a dispatch from Dublin to The Times. The clergy took a leading part in all the meetings. Resolutions of protest are pouring in from public bodies and Sinn Fein clubs are very active.

"Unquestionably," the dispatch adds, "the present temper of Nationalist Ireland is very deplorable. The country has lost all sense of proportion and has forgotten, not merely Home Rule, but the war. It is a country of contradictions, however, for in Dublin and some other towns voluntary recruiting has been remarkably good in the past few days."

DUBLIN, April 16.—The Most Rev. William Walsh, Archbishop of Dublin, in a public letter refers to the vague declarations now flooding the country regarding conscription in Ireland.

If conscription is enforced, the introduction of even the most satisfactory Home Rule bill would not, he says, contribute to pacification. The only Conscription bill that could be contemplated, he adds, would be one framed and passed by an Irish Parliament.

ABANDON ATTACKS ON PERSHING'S MEN

Germans' Efforts Have Slackened on Front Northwest of Toul.

PATROLS MEET NO FOE

Americans Wounded in the Recent Clashes Are Receiving Every Comfort.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 16, (Associated Press.)—The American troops northwest of Toul again took possession of No Man's Land near Apremont Forest last night after a week in which the shell-torn land between the trenches was virtually deserted, except during the long series of attacks, because of the violence of the artillery fire.

Two American patrols went out last night seeking a machine gun nest which was reported in front of the German trenches, but found it empty. The patrols went up to the barbed wire in front of the enemy first line, but encountered no Germans.

The enemy apparently has given up, temporarily at least, his attempt to penetrate to the American third line, after the crushing defeat he sustained in several attempts with specially trained shock troops last week.

The rainy weather in the last three days has caused poor visibility and interfered with the artillery activity, which has slackened considerably.

The Americans wounded in last week's fighting northwest of Toul have all been taken to comfortable quarters in a large evacuation hospital. They are being provided with the best treatment possible, and every effort is being made to relieve their pain and provide comfort and recreation for them. All the boys are in good spirits and anxious to get back to the front line to join their comrades.

TWO GERMAN AIRMEN EASY PREY FOR OUR MEN

Mistook American Field for Their Own and Were Brought Down Handily.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 16, (The Associated Press.)—The two German aviators shot down by Lieutenant A. S. Winslow of Chicago and Lieutenant Douglas Campbell of California on Sunday mistook the aviation field where they encountered the American aviators for a German camp.

Winslow and Campbell were playing cards in a shed when they received the report that two enemy aviators were headed in their direction at a height of about 6,000 feet. The men, who were on alert duty, ran on the field, jumped into their machines, and mounted into the air to repel the invaders. Telling of their experiences, Lieutenant Winslow said:

"When we got up in the air we saw the Germans approaching. Campbell picked out one and started for him, and I started for the other. I got onto the trail of my man and shot a round of machine gun bullets into the machine. He looped around my machine. I manoeuvred for position and again shot a round at him. His machine quivered for an instant, then nosed downward, landing almost intact. I circled around to make sure that his machine was out of commission, then arose to help Campbell, but he had already mastered his adversary."

Campbell's adversary was badly burned about the face, but will recover. Winslow's opponent was unhurt. Both of the enemy airmen were under 25 years of age. Winslow's captive, who had been flying for two years, said in German: "Well, the war is over for me" when made prisoner by the American.

BERLIN ISSUES YARN OF AMERICAN DEFEAT

Circulates False Assertion That Our Main Lines Were Taken North of St. Mihiel.

AMSTERDAM, April 16, (Associated Press.)—North of St. Mihiel on Sunday night, says a Wolff Bureau dispatch from Berlin dated Monday, the main part of the American positions situated to the eastward and southeastward of Maizey, on the right bank of the Meuse River, was taken by storm.

A large section of the main enemy lines of defense on the highroad from St. Mihiel to Rouvrois, (a distance of three and a half miles,) the dispatch adds, was rolled up despite the brave resistance of the enemy, who suffered the severest casualties in addition to the loss of prisoners.

The German attack against the American positions on the right bank of the River Meuse, north of St. Mihiel, on Sunday, was made by a force of about 400 picked troops, who recently had been transferred from the Russian front. Although the Americans were outnumbered more than two to one, the correspondent of The Associated Press with the American Army in France telegraphed under date of Monday that the Germans were completely repulsed and were driven back into their own trenches. The known enemy casualties included sixty-four dead, many wounded and eleven prisoners, besides a number of wounded who were dragged back to the German line by their comrades.

General Pershing Reports 65 Casualties; Four Commissioned Officers on Day's List

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—General Pershing today reported to the War Department 65 casualties, bringing the total in our overseas forces from the beginning to 3,624. Two were killed in action, 4 died of wounds, 12 of disease, 1 of accident, 2 were missing in action, and 44 wounded. Four commissioned officers were named in the list. Lieutenant Wilmer H. Bradshaw was wounded severely. Lieutenant Proal Judson, Jr., was slightly wounded. Lieutenants Benjamin P. Burpee and Frank K. Miller were reported missing in action. The War Department does not announce the addresses of officers and soldiers in its casualty lists, but in each case telegraphic notice is sent to the next of kin.

THINK BOLLING A PRISONER.

Friends Believe the Colonel Lost His Way and Was Captured.

Colonel Raynal C. Bolling, former solicitor of the United States Steel Corporation, who was reported on Monday as captured or missing in General Pershing's list of casualties, was last seen on the morning of March 25 driving his automobile in a northeasterly direction from Amiens, according to private dispatches received by former business associates here today.

Colonel Bolling was accompanied by his chauffeur. The two had spent the night at Amiens. Their destination is not stated in the message, but it is believed that they were on their way to the Franco-British front to join American troops sent there as reinforcements.

This information leads the Colonel's friends to believe that on the morning he left Amiens he lost his way, ran into the German lines, and was captured.

WILL GERMAN FLEET SALLY?

London Critic Thinks It Possible Under Military Party's Urging.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Under the heading "Is the German Fleet Coming Out?" the naval correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, after referring to the Admiralty report of the sweep of the Cattegat, says: "There are some indications that the German fleet may be contemplating a sally. Its action is now determined by the military party, and they have always affected to regard the high sea fleet as the right wing of the army. They may, therefore, be wishful to put it in movement. Since the Jutland battle it has been strengthened by the addition of two battleships, the Baden and another, and by a couple of battle cruisers and many light cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

"The German fleet will not issue from Skagerrak. It will come from the Bight of Heligoland and Skagerrak and Cattegat may be one line for its retreat. Therefore the mining operations in these approaches to the Baltic possess a good deal of significance.

"Sir David Beatty himself announces the success as Commander in Chief of the Grand Fleet and the fleet itself, far stronger than it was at the Jutland battle and filled with new experience, is ready for any eventuality."

Patrol Fighting on Italian Front.

ROME, April 16.—Today's communication from headquarters says: "There was more frequent and harassing firing in the Val Lagarina. In the region of Adamello and in the Brenta Valley the activity of our patrols led to local engagements. The rest of the front was quiet."

TURKEY AND BULGARIA IN FRONTIER DISPUTE

Helfferich Trying to Act as Mediator—Berlin to Bring Pressure on Sofia.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Spoils of war have given rise to serious boundary disputes between Turkey and Bulgaria, which Germany is undertaking to smooth away to prevent a rupture between her vassal-allies. An official dispatch from Switzerland today says:

"Dr. Helfferich has returned to Berlin, come from Great Headquarters, where he held a long conference with the Emperor, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, and the Chancellor. It is said that the conference dealt with the differences which have arisen between Bulgaria and Turkey upon the subject of the boundary of their common frontier. Helfferich seems to have received the difficult mission to act as mediator between the two countries which are, it appears, very much aroused against each other.

"The Turks desire compensation for the enlargement which Bulgaria will procure through the Dobrudja, and they demand that the former restore to them the strip of territory which she obtained in September, 1915, as the price of her entering the war. Bulgaria objects. At Berlin they are determined to bring pressure against her, the efficacy of which they think will be irresistible.

"It is known that the treaty with Rumania, though not yet signed, bestows the Dobrudja upon the Central Empires. The latter propose to give this province to Bulgaria only after the Government of Sofia will have assented to the claims of Constantinople. This conflict is causing veritable uneasiness in Bulgaria, where the morale of the population is much shaken and resentment is very strong against Germany."

$31.50

Quality considered, and after careful research among custom tailoring establishments, we may say that this is the most attractive proposition possible to be found in New York.

If ready-to-wear clothing for men, good and at a reasonable price, is difficult to find nowadays, custom tailoring which will not make severe demands upon the purse is even rarer.

The man who orders a custom suit at Gimbels for $31.50, is assured of every essential that goes into the make-up of first class clothing:

—STYLE—
—FABRIC—
—FIT—

and all this PLUS economy.

And these qualities are absolutely GUARANTEED. Should the completed suit not meet with your entire approval, you are neither expected nor desired to accept it.

REACTIONARY LIKELY TO SUCCEED CZERNIN

Prince Hohenlohe, Pan German, Will Probably be Chosen, Swiss Hear.

ANDRASSY ALSO CANDIDATE

Vienna Press Applauds Retiring Official, Who May Take an Army Command.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, April 16.—Count Czernin's resignation is producing an internal crisis in Austria-Hungary which is directly affecting Germany. Vienna reports indicate that his successor will be a rabid Pan German, Prince Conrad Hohenlohe, former Governor of Trieste and a firm follower of the German war party. Count Julius Andrassy, leader of the Government party in the Hungarian Parliament, is also mentioned as his successor.

Vienna dispatches are somewhat conflicting. Some mention that the Emperor has gone to Budapest, which would indicate that he intends to choose a Hungarian as Czernin's successor. Others say he is in Vienna, striving with all his might to hold the monarchy together during the next critical days, which may be decisive for his house.

Whatever choice the Emperor makes, unless he chooses a man of Czernin's ideals, which is unlikely, will meet with determined opposition within the country. The Czechs are openly hostile to Czernin's peace policy and to Germany. They are seizing this opportunity to attempt to force upon the Emperor a Minister friendly to them.

German Liberal papers have ironically remarked that, while the Clemenceau indictment may not be authentic, nevertheless the Emperor Charles letter to Prince Sixtus shows that it is high time for Emperors to be made responsible to either Cabinet officers or Parliaments. Germany is taking a keen interest in Vienna developments.

CZERNIN TO WAR IN ITALY.

Statesman Will Command an Austrian Brigade, It Is Said.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, April 16. — Count Czernin, it is now stated, will go to the front as a Major General. He asked to be intrusted with the command of an Austrian brigade now fighting in Italy, and will be released for that post as soon as his successor is appointed.

In that appointment Germany is taking a lively interest. Kaiser Charles's presence at Budapest is taken in some quarters of Berlin to mean that the new Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister will either be Count Andrassy or that arch reactionary Count Tisza, two great rivals. The former is the more likely of the two and his appointment doubtless would please the Germans, who are struggling hard to have a man after the Prussian stamp appointed.

Andrassy holds completely reactionary views on the question of the Dual Monarchy and the oppressed races. He is an influential personage, and he recently stated that the strengthening of the influence of the Austro-Germans was in the direct interest of Hungary. His greatest boast is that in 1871 his father prevented the Dual Monarchy from becoming a Federal State.

Theodor Wolff in the Berliner Tageblatt writing on Kaiser Charles's letter, deals rather severely with the way in which the matter has been handled by the Austrian Government. He says:

" Naturally Czernin is not a liar, for the description he gave of the conversation between Count Revertera and Captain Armand differs only in trifles and interpretations from the Paris account. Naturally also Clémenceau is not a forger, and it is at least not probable that he burned midnight oil in copying the handwriting of Kaiser Charles.

" Seeing that in the Vienna statement the sentence regarding the claims of France to Alsace-Lorraine not being just is quoted word for word, it may be accepted that Kaiser Charles remembers his phrases very precisely, or that he possesses a copy of the letter. That Poincaré and his Prime Minister at the time, Ribot, so radically altered the letter cannot really be believed."

Hohenlohe Leaves for Vienna.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 16.—The Berlin newspapers mention the sudden departure of Prince Conrad Hohenlohe-Schillingsfürst, Austro-Hungarian Ambassador at Berlin, for Vienna, suggesting that he might be intended to be Czernin's successor. Other candidates mentioned for the post are Count Andrassy, Count Mensdorf, formerly Ambassador at London, and Dr. von Koerber, late Austro-Hungarian Prime Minister.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, April 16.—The resignation of Czernin has caused no surprise here, since his position was considered untenable after the recent incidents with France, especially because through his resignation Austria evidently hopes to prevent an outburst of similar incidents with Italy and America.

The resignation is considered in political circles here as another moral success for the Allies, showing the world to what a base system the policy of the Central Empires has recourse. While the men in office change, unfortunately the policy of the Teutonic powers is, in the main, unaltered, it is poined out, untill the final victory of the Allied forces them to change their methods.

ROME, April 16.—" Emperor Charles should have resigned, but as it is not customary for sovereigns to leave their posts even when they make blunders, Count Czernin was obliged to go," says the Giornale d'Italia in commenting upon the resignation of Count Czernin.

Retirement Considered Temporary.

AMSTERDAM, April 16.—The entire press of Vienna, a dispatch from that city reports, is joining in a chorus of praise of Count Czernin. The newspapers refer to the fact that he has concluded peace with Russia and is preparing to do so with Rumania. The opinion is generally expressed that the Count some day will return to office.

The Fremdenblatt says that Count Czernin has enhanced Austria's prestige throughout the world in a remarkable manner.

The Reichpost remarks that his only possible successor is some very strong man.

The Wiener Tageblatt insists there must be no deviation from the Count's foreign policy, adding that it is self-evident that his successor must enjoy the confidence of Berlin to the same degree as he does.

WANT CHARLES'S FULL LETTER

German Press Mystified—Kuehlmann to Confer in Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 16.—It is evident from the German press that the mystery of Emperor Charles's letter is considered not to have been cleared up, and it is asked on all sides why the whole letter has not been published. The excuse given that it is a personal letter is called insufficient.

The Vossische Zeitung argues that, however the affair is cleared up it is impossible to believe in the disloyalty of Austria, and that the Emperor did not even consider the question of disloyalty.

"The Emperor," says the paper, " must have thought of a general peace and hoped to help Germany, too."

Reviewing the events of that period, the paper points out that the ruthless submarine war had just begun.

" There were thousands of people even in the highest circles," it says, " who believed the wildest things about America's intervention. Military affairs were also not progressing then."

The paper further asserts that the fact that Washington and Vienna were still in communication at that period was not encouraging. It says that Erzberger was in Vienna at the time, and alludes to a certain and " extraordinary " message which he delivered at a private session of the Centrist Party, which led to the famous Reichstag peace resolution. The paper says that if Bethmann Hollweg had not resigned no one knows to what the situation might have led.

Vorwärts, commenting on Czernin's resignation, says the young Emperor hoped to help peace by using his relatives, but failed. It suggests that a politician with more experience might have foretold this and says that a responsible counselor would have been useful.

The paper argues that the latest utterance of the Austrian Emperor insures the alliance at least for the length of the war, but that it is a mistake to build up Germany's future on the present world political constellation which has no secure foundation. True alliances are founded on sympathies, it concludes, but Germany hopes to remain friends with Austria-Hungary.

The Tageblatt says the Pan Germans and all the annexationists from the Right and Left have hated Czernin. The paper says Czernin's language was not primitive enough, and there was not enough " feste drück." (These were the words used by the Crown Prince in the Reichstag several years ago when he supported the military in the famous Zabern affair.) It adds that Czernin was also too friendly to Wilson for the Conservatives.

An attempt is now being made to disconnect von Kuhlmann's visit to headquarters with political changes. Von Kuhlmann was expected to return to Berlin Tuesday night and has asked the Reichstag party leaders to confer with him on questions relating to the Eastern peace before leaving for Bucharest.

Lest We Forget!

HE who can forget the little ones that lie mangled fifty fathoms deep under the shattered hulk of the Lusitania—who has no reverence for the dead and their devotion, no prayer for the dying and their anguish, no pity for the bereaved and the broken—whose blood is not quickened by our perils, whose heart is not softened by our pains—who reads unmoved of blasted homes and wasted countrysides, of desolated cities and desecrated shrines, of heroic Belgium, overrun but not conquered, of epic France and the noble dead that lie buried there—the great dead that fought and the innocent dead that merely wept and waited—he who can forget these things, or be indifferent to the sacrifices and the sorrows, the bereavements and the burdens of Freedom's Gethsemanes—that man is a Hun at heart, for the crimes that none but a Hun can commit, none but a Hun can forget!

GERMANS IN FINLAND MARCHING ON VIBORG

WOMEN SOLDIERS EXECUTED

Thousands of Prisoners and Much Booty Taken In Helsingfors After Three-Day Battle.

LONDON, April 16.—A Reuter dispatch from Uleaborg says that three days' fighting preceded the capture of Helsingfors. The Germans are now advancing along the Rikhimyaka-Akhti-Kotka Railroad, which runs to Viborg.

BERLIN, April 16, (via London.)—Concerning the operations in Finland, Army Headquarters tonight issued the following bulletin:

Eastern Theatre—Troops, landed at Loviza, east of Helsingfors, after overcoming difficult ice conditions, pushed forward by way of Lappitresk toward the north. They repeatedly broke the enemy's resistance and reached the railway line to the east of Lakhti, running from Tammerfors to Viborg.

VASA, Finland, April 16.—Several thousand prisoners and a large amount of booty were taken by the German troops which captured Helsingfors, according to a communication issued from the headquarters of the German commander, General von der Goltz.

The city was captured on Saturday, being taken by storm after desperate struggles in the streets and in forests around the town.

Abo has been occupied by the White Guards, according to an official statement issued by the Government headquarters. Russian soldiers in the town were captured. The Red Guards are abandoning the coast between Hango and Myustad, and are retiring hastily toward the interior.

STOCKHOLM, April 16.—According to private advices reaching Stockholm the Red Guards have evacuated Abo. The backbone of the Finnish revolution seems to be broken, while the Red Guards may continue to hold on to Viborg and the Karalen front for some weeks their eventual defeat is considered certain.

The White Guards continue to proceed relentlessly against prisoners. All Russians are immediately shot, as are also the Red Guard leaders. The Svenska Dagbladet publishes a letter from a Swede combatant who writes:

" Women participated in the battle (of Helsingfors?) on the side of the Reds, many of them wearing men's clothing. All of those captured were immediately stood against the wall and shot."

Foe to Occupy Rumania Oil Lands.

AMSTERDAM, April 16.—In connection with the provision of the Rumanian peace treaty, giving Germany a lease of ninety-nine years on the Rumanian oil wells, the Berlin Tageszeitung reports, Germany has reserved the right of military occupation of the oil-producing territory for several years.

WOMEN MEET FOR PEACE.

Berne Convention Small Because of Passport Obstacles.

BERNE, April 16.—Only about fifty delegates, instead of several hundred, as expected, attended the opening session of the International Women's Conference for the Reconciliation of Peoples, which began here today.

Most of the women delegates from belligerent countries were unable to get passports, but some sent telegrams to the meeting. The conference will last five days.

WOMEN OUT IN FORCE TO VOTE ON LIQUOR

Cast Most of the Ballots in First Day of Local Option Election Up-State.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY

But Drys Are Confident of Carrying Most Places—Women in Port Jervis Aid Wets.

ALBANY, April 16.—Voters in thirty-nine cities of the State flocked to the polls today to vote on the excise question in their respective municipalities. So keen was the interest in the issue that the Legislature, just before its adjournment last week, passed a special act authorizing the continuance of the voting until 8 P. M. tomorrow. This extension of time was necessitated by a virtual doubling of the recent enfranchisement of the women.

About 8,000 residents of Watertown had voted when the polls closed tonight, leaving about 4,000 entitled to vote tomorrow. The women were prompt in voting as well as active for the "dry" end of the contest.

At Ogdensburg the day passed without special incident. Large numbers of women cast their first ballots, and a heavy vote was polled.

More than 7,000 of the 11,000 persons registered at Newburg had cast their votes before the polls closed for the day. Women in large numbers cast ballots.

In Norwich 1,981 women registered, which is more than half the total registration, and 2,700 votes were cast during the day.

Little Falls cast 3,228 votes of the 5,000 registered, with the women voting heavily.

At Oneida the greater number of the voters were women, who were active all day.

In Amsterdam the women voted on separate machines and cast more ballots than the men. Approximately 70 per cent. of the registrants voted today.

The votes cast at Beacon during the day totalled 2,509 out of a total registration of 3,780. At least 40 per cent. of the voters were women.

When the voting machines were locked for the night at Jamestown 10,877 votes had been recorded out of a total registration of 16,085. Women voted in large numbers throughout the day.

About 66 per cent. of the registered voters in both Gloversville and Johnstown cast their ballots. The voting by women was heavy. The "drys" claim to have a comfortable lead in both cities.

At Plattsburg 3,151 votes were cast out of a registration of 4,627. "Dry" leaders predicted that when the election closes tomorrow night the city will have voted against license by about 800.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 16.—Records for heavy voting were smashed in every election district here today by men and women voters in special excise contests. When polls closed temporarily at 8 P. M. 50,557 of the 77,539 registered voters had cast their ballots. Of the voters today it is estimated at least 60 per cent. were women. Tonight both wets and drys were confident of carrying the city by a majority above 5,000.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 16.—The end of the first day of the two-day election to decide whether Schenectady shall remain in the "Wet" column found that more than 60 per cent. of the enrolled voters had exercised their franchise. The women voters turned out in force and it is believed their total vote today exceeded that of the men. Of a registration of 28,000 it was reported that 18,795 had voted today. Both wet and dry leaders are claiming victory tonight.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, April 16.—Women played a leading part in today's local option election and more than one-half of the 12,658 women registered had voted at 6 o'clock tonight. The male vote was less because the two days' voting gave the workingmen an opportunity to vote after working hours and the usual time allowed by factories on Election Day was not operative. The heaviest vote was cast in the residential districts acknowledged to be dry strongholds. Of the 27,730 registered 15,000 had voted when the polls closed this evening. For the first time in history women police officers were named to guard the polling places, four of the forty-four special police officers being women. They were furnished with arms and police equipment and authorized to make arrests. Today's trend indicates a dry victory tomorrow, but estimates vary as to the majority.

Special to The New York Times.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 16.—At the close of the polls tonight nearly 70 per cent. of the registered vote of 14,560 had been cast here. The heavy vote cast by the women in the early part of the day was taken as an indication that they are voting dry. Charges of fraud made by the "drys" late yesterday caused an investigator from Albany to be sent here, but so far no arrests have been made.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., April 16.—Over 3,200 votes were cast here today. This is more than two-thirds of the total registration of 4,495. The greater percentage of the voters were women. The women are divided on the local option question, and many of them are assisting the "wets."

WOMEN WATCH AT POLLS.

"Drys" Claim Victory in New Rochelle and Mount Vernon.

Women voters took an active part in the local option election in New Rochelle and Mount Vernon yesterday, and as a result of their efforts the "drys" claimed a victory last night, although the voting is to be continued today. Miss Elizabeth Brady and Miss Mae Diamond served as election officers at the polls in New Rochelle, and four specially appointed policewomen watched the ballot boxes until the polls reopened at 6 o'clock this morning.

Although the balloting was to occupy two days, the majority of the registered voters had cast their ballots last night, and more than half were put in the boxes by the women.

FEWER CHICAGO SALOONS.

More Than 1,000 to Close, Many of Which Are Owned by Aliens.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 16.—War and other conditions affecting the liquor industry will result in Chicago's 6,053 saloons being reduced to 5,000 after May 1, according to city statisticians.

When Mayor Thompson went into office the number of saloons in Chicago exceeded 7,000. The further decrease will represent an additional lost of $1,000,000 a year in the city's income.

"Drys" Win Three Jersey Towns.

CAMDEN, N. J., April 16.—The "drys" were victorious in three out of four local option elections in Southern New Jersey today. Moorestown voted dry by a majority of 124; Woodstown by 54, and Harrison Township, Gloucester County, by 96 majority. In Tuckerton the "wets" won by 38.

HITCHCOCK OPPOSED FOR COMMITTEE HEAD

Some Democrats Prefer an Administration Senator as Chairman on Foreign Relations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—An active fight has developed over the Chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations, made vacant by the death of Senator Stone of Missouri. Under normal circumstances, this Chairmanship, one of the most important in the Senate, would go to Mr. Hitchcock of Nebraska, the ranking Democratic member, but opposition to his appointment has developed among Administration Senators because of his outspoken criticism of War Department activities.

As a member of the Military Affairs Committee, Senator Hitchcock has taken a leading part in the agitation for speeding up the war program. He recently made a speech in the Senate, attacking the Administration for what he described as a "fall-down" in war activities, although bringing out that plans already laid were being worked out at the Capitol.

Senator Hitchcock is regarded as an independent Democrat who, in all war legislation, has assumed an entirely nonpartisan attitude. He led the fight in the Senate for the passage of the Armed Ship bill and took an active part in the movement to declare war on Germany, after Senator Stone's break with the Administration because of the Missourian's opposition to the armament measure.

Senator Hitchcock is backed by a majority of the members of the Foreign Relations Committee in the fight for the Chairmanship. But there are Democratic members who insist that he has not been in sympathy with the Administration and that, therefore, he ought not to be entrusted with an important Chairmanship involving direct dealing with the White House. Although Senator Stone was not in close touch with the White House in the early days of America's participation in the war, later on, through his advocacy of Administration war measures, he regained the Executive confidence.

If Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee pursue their opposition to Senator Hitchcock, the Republicans, who are now standing with him, will turn their support to Senator Lodge of Massachusetts. This became evident today when the Democratic opposition to Senator Hitchcock appeared to be gaining headway.

Senator Lodge, as the ranking Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, would have the support of every Republican on the committee if Senator Hitchcock withdrew, and in addition would have the votes of more than one Democratic member. But the likelihood of the Massachusetts Senator being accepted by the Democratic majority of the Senate is regarded as extremely doubtful.

The fight over the Chairmanship, it is believed by Senate leaders, will end in Senator Hitchcock being selected. Senators on the committee said today that there was little doubt of the Nebraskan winning.

ARRESTED IN $2,000 HOLDUP

Doorman of a Broadway Theatre Accused of Planning Robbery.

Harry May of 144 West Eighty-third Street and Frank Smith of 676 Tenth Avenue were arrested yesterday by Detectives Conkling, Foley, and Walsh of the Fourth Branch Detective Bureau as the men who held up Edward Goodman, an employe of the Eighty-first Street Theatre, on Monday at Broadway and Seventy-fourth Street, and robbed him of $2,000 which he was carrying to a bank.

May was a doorkeeper at the Eighty-first Street Theatre, and is alleged to have planned the robbery. The prisoners were held in $5,000 bail each by Magistrate Sims.

PREDICTS FUEL SHORTAGE.

P. B. Noyes Says Nonessential Industries Will Have to Close.

P. B. Noyes, Director of Conservation of the National Fuel Administration, told members of the Purchasing Agents Association at 34 West Thirty-third Street last night that next Winter every industry would be forced to curtail operations if there was to be coal enough to go around, and that nonessential industries would receive very little consideration.

He said that already difficulty was being experienced in supplying the big steel mills, and so acute was the situation that a concrete plant was unable to operate on Government work because to supply that mill with fuel would necessitate the closing down of a steel mill.

"The three or four railroads concentrated in a small area, with Pennsylvania and West Virginia as a centre, deliver three-fourths of the coal of the country, and these three or four railroads must get this coal through a limited number of 'gateways' to serve the active war and the nonwar industries in nearly a score of the Eastern and Middle Western States," he said. "This creates at many points around the large coal regions what we call 'bottle necks'—railways leading into important industrial areas which cannot physically carry more than so many cars of freight per day. With the merchandise freight reduced to the lowest possible terms, it is found at several of these gateways that the coal which can possibly be moved through to the steel mills, to the powder mills, and to the big shipbuilding yards beyond, is less per day than is necessary to keep those plants running 100 per cent., though not a pound were furnished to nonwar industry in those districts.

"We are taking the big coal users first. The building material industry, outside of the structural steel, uses 82,000,000 tons of coal and puts 100,000,000 tons of freight on the railroads, so we are preparing to restrict building except when it is absolutely necessary. In fact, in every industry there has got to be a great curtailment, and in the things that are classed as luxuries there will be little consideration shown."

virtually commandeered. His great experience as a steel maker and builder of ships has been drafted for the nation."

It was explained today that the sole object which actuated Mr. Hurley and other officials in making the demand upon Mr. Schwab that he serve, was to get together the most complete and effective organization which could be obtained, an organization in which the members would forget every consideration other than the vital necessity for increased ship production.

In a recent telegram sent out to all shipyards Mr. Hurley announced publicly that what the nation wanted was not excuses, but ships, and that none upon whom the responsibility rested need hope to avoid censure if they failed to meet the emergency.

The fact that production during the month of March had proved disappointing was one of the things that brought about quick action. Mr. Schwab's name had been mentioned before for more than one Government post, but it was known that he felt his position as head of Bethlehem Stell, one of the most essential war industries, was of vital importance.

Mr. Schwab was notified by Chairman Hurley for the first time on Friday last, and the matter was gone over in detail here at the Sunday conference. The appointment with the President was then arranged in order to put the matter before him, including an outline of the powers which it was proposed to give to Mr. Schwab and the results which it was felt could be accomplished with the enlargement of the organization and the creation of the new post.

Schwab Yields to Pressure.

It is said that Mr. Schwab dropped all protests after the White House conference today, when the necessity for getting ships into the water as rapidly as possible was again gone over and emphasized. He asked for two days in which to arrange his affairs, and left for New York immediately after the conference.

As the steel industry is one of the vital parts of the shipbuilding program, Mr. Schwab's experience as head of Bethlehem Steel, it is felt, will be invaluable in his new position. Bethlehem Steel also has been constructing ships for the Fleet Corporation at three yards.

The Fleet Corporation now has under consideration a plan for enlarging the capacity of most of the vessels which are to be built after those on the ways are completed. Vessels under contract on the Great Lakes are to be increased, if possible, from 3,500 tons to 5,000 tons or more, as the smaller vessels, especially if they are coal burners, have not sufficient carrying capacity.

All of these matters, as well as practical measures to speed up construction and rouse the men in the yards, builders and employes, to the full sense of the responsibility which rests upon them, will be considered at a conference by Mr. Hurley, Mr. Piez, and Mr. Schwab upon his return here. The question of quick delivery of steel and its proper distribution, in which the War Industries Board is co-operating, also will be discussed.

Mr. Schwab assured the President at the White House conference that there would be no lack of steel for the carrying out of the shipbuilding program.

Divisions of Authority.

WASHINGTON, April 16. — "Mr. Schwab will have complete supervision and direction of the work of shipbuilding," said an official announcement issued from the White House today after Charles M. Schwab had been there to confer with President Wilson, in company with Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, Charles Piez, Vice President and General Manager of the Fleet Corporation, and Bainbridge Colby, a member of the board.

Control of policies, which includes decisions as to the number, size, and character of ships to be built with the millions appropriated by Congress, still will rest with the Shipping Board. Mr. Piez, at his own suggestion, relinquishes the post of General Manager of the Fleet Corporation, which is abolished to give Mr. Schwab a free hand. Mr. Hurley remains Chairman of the board and President of the Fleet Corporation, in charge of policies; Mr. Piez continues as Vice President of the board, attending to administrative details of construction, including the placing of contracts, and Mr. Schwab will organize and carry forward the work of putting the ships into the water.

Mr. Schwab is the fifth man to be put in charge of the Shipping Board's building program, but his appointment was attended by none of the friction which marked some of the previous changes in management. The suggestion for the appointment of a practical builder of national prominence came this time from the Shipping Board itself, and Mr. Hurley chose Mr. Schwab.

First of all was wanted a man who could inspire the yard owners and workers with the supreme importance of building ships as fast as they can be turned out. Mr. Schwab's genius for getting the best out of the men with whom he is associated—and in this connection a Fleet Corporation official recalled the story that Schwab never employed a man he could not praise—together with his record of achievement in developing the Bethlehem Steel properties, brought unanimous approval in the board of his selection as the man for the place.

Thanked by the President.

Mr. Schwab was in Washington all last Sunday conferring with Mr. Hurley, Mr. Piez, and others. Last night Mr. Hurley was at the White House for more than an hour outlining the steps proposed to President Wilson, who gave the Chairman's suggestions unqualified approval. Announcement of Mr. Schwab's appointment was made after he had been thanked by the President for sacrificing his personal interests and inclination to accept the position.

Exact division of authority between Mr. Schwab and Mr. Piez has not yet been discussed. In general, however, Mr. Schwab will have charge of construction, with no restrictions on putting into effect whatever measures he thinks will turn out ships. Mr. Piez will continue to carry the burden of administration of the Fleet Corporation, such as contracts, legal questions, and all the multitudinous details arising from the expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars. Mr. Schwab and Mr. Piez will spend Thursday in conference to familiarize the Director General with the status of the shipbuilding program.

Officials were inclined to think that Mr. Schwab's new post would not require the severance of his industrial connections, inasmuch as he will be concerned solely with the construction of ships and will have no part in letting contracts in which some of his interests might benefit. As Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and allied concerns, Mr. Schwab has been in control of about one-third of the shipbuilding in the United States.

His salary as Director General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation was not one of the things which Mr. Schwab discussed while in Washington. Officials professed tonight not to know what he would receive, but it was believed he would become one of the small army of "dollar a year" men who are contributing their services to the country during the war.

Plans for Speeding Up.

Further strengthening of the shipbuilding organization throughout the country is expected after Mr. Schwab has taken hold of his new work. Officials of the board, determined to make up the deficit in output arising last month from poor transportation and shortage of materials, have been inquiring closely into causes for the delay, and how production can be speeded up. Every answer received to Chairman Hurley's telegram asking an explanation is being analyzed to see where the fault lay. The answer will be made public soon.

Major General Goethals was the first man put in charge of the shipbuilding program. His retirement came after a long series of disagreements with William Denman, Chairman of the Shipping Board. After the matter had been laid before President Wilson, both resigned to permit a complete reorganization of the board and fleet corporation. Rear Admiral Capps, who succeeded General Goethals, resigned because of ill-health and dissatisfaction with his powers, giving way to Rear Admiral Harris, former chief of the navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks, who held the job two weeks, then quit because he thought he had not enough authority. Mr. Piez, who had been an assistant to Mr. Hurley, then took the place, and has had charge of most of the work accomplished by the fleet corporation.

Bill for Concrete Ships.

Ira A. Campbell of San Francisco today was appointed admiralty counsel for the Shipping Board in place of Alfred G. Huger, who has been commissioned a Major in the army.

A bill appropriating $50,000,000 for constructing concrete ships was introduced today by Senator McCumber of North Dakota. The measure, which is understood to have the approval of President Wilson, was prepared by Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board.

Proposed legislation giving the President powers to prescribe tonnage charter rates was urged before the House Merchant Marine Committee today by Shipping Board officials. A bill seeking further to curb the disposal to foreign nations of ships built in this country also was advocated.

New 8,000-Ton Steamer at Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 16.—The 8,800-ton comandeered stel steamship Westmount was launched here today at the plant of the Ames Shipbuilding and Drydock Company for the United States Shipping Board. The Westmount was named by Mrs. T. A. D. Jones, wife of a former Yale athlete, now Assistant Manager of the plant. The vessel is the fourth steel steamer launched for the Government here this year.

Mobilize Your Telephones

In these days of fewer men and more work, your city and long distance calls over-crowd your rented telephone system.

By installing the P. A. X.—the Private Automatic Exchange and its automatic telephones—you mobilize your telephone service.

For the P. A. X. handles all interior calls day and night without operators, leaving your rented telephones free for city service.

You need the P. A. X. now, because no additional rented equipment is readily available now; what you have must be saved to keep you in touch with the outside world.

You need it also, because only by using telephones for calls from desk to desk, can fewer men do more work.

By handling these calls with utmost speed and economy, the automatic telephones of the P. A. X. save time and money for such efficient organizations as the Equitable Trust Co., the American Lithographic Co., the Texas Co., and many others here in New York.

Every United States Arsenal as well as many government institutions in England, Italy and France, are now equipped with the P. A. X.

It is swift, absolutely secret, and eliminates busy-signal annoyances for your patrons by keeping your rented telephones free of purely organization calls.

Maybe This Fits You—And Maybe It Doesnt

IT'S a wonder some of you men wouldn't be a little better balanced in your ideas of economy. You spend a quarter for a few cigars or a drink or two at a bar or a soda counter, or you tip a waiter a dime or twenty cents. And you think nothing of it.

Yet you'll skimp on your Gillette blades, while you throw away more money between the house and the office than you'd spend on Gillette blades in a month.

A Gillette blade costs you a fraction more than eight cents. It has two edges. That's four cents an edge.

Each edge is good for at least two or three shaves.

Yet every time you tip a barber you'd give away six Gillette shaves—equal to about eighty cents, in barber's money.

AND that's not your only inconsistency. You'll hang on to your old razor ten years. And maybe it's been knocked off the shelf a couple of times. And has a half a dozen teeth broken off.

Now, you wouldn't try to wear a pair of shoes ten years, would you? Or an old hat?

Then why should you "marry" your old razor frame for ten years?

Of course, measured by the service it's given, it's the best value you've ever had. That's true enough.

But even so, if you loosen up, and buy a new model once in a while, it'll give the Gillette a chance to multiply its capacity for service in your hands.

We improve with age. But you can't expect this of a razor.

And listen:

If you have any sensation in a Gillette shave that isn't as smooth as velvet, take ten minutes off, and go to school to one of our Gillette Service Experts.

They'll be in town this week. It'll be the most profitable ten minutes you ever spent.

YOU may learn something that you wouldn't sell for money. Something that your face will say "thank you" for, every time you shave.

And whether you are an out-door man, whose face is wind-bitten and rough; or an office man, with a skin that is tender and easily chapped, you'll find the Gillette the real service razor.

Millions of men, of every race, from every country, with every kind of face, type of beard, or texture of skin, under every possible condition of climate and surroundings, know the Gillette spells comfort—as well as safety and service.

If there is a man on earth who doesn't find a Gillette shave the best shave and the Gillette razor the best razor he ever introduced his face to, it's only because he hasn't caught the simple knack of using it right.

YET it's easy when you know how. Like standing the egg on end. Try this tomorrow morning. You will see what you've missed. Hold the razor naturally and easily, and tilt the handle so you can just feel the blade engage the beard.

(Here's where some men make a mistake. They tilt the handle up or down too much and make a scraper of a Gillette, instead of a razor.)

Keep the edge of the blade as nearly flat against the skin as you possibly can. Then shave with short, slanting strokes.

Most men get the best results by screwing the blade tight down to the guard. But if you want an extra-close shave, just unscrew the handle a part turn, to loosen the edge a trifle.

And remember: the Gillette is the real sanitary shave. For the Gillette Blades are wrapped in waxed sterilized paper.

This protects them from every contaminating influence, and insures a clean shave.

When you add comfort, safety, cleanliness and service together you've got Gillette. No Stropping—No Honing.

The MEANING of GILLETTE SERVICE

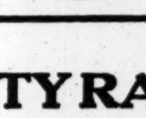
The Gillette Service Experts and all Gillette dealers want to be of service to every Gillette user.

They will show you that little knack of the Gillette Shave—how to prepare the face for shaving; the correct angle stroke; the adjustment for a light or a close shave.

Bring in your Gillette, have it looked over. It may be damaged, bent, out of alignment—They may make some valuable suggestions or put your razor in shape free of charge.

Try this when you shave tomorrow morning. Lather the beard thoroughly, and rub well in — that's essential with any shave.

Put in a new blade and screw the handle down tight. Then if you want a specially close shave, unscrew the handle a part turn. Hold the razor naturally and easily, and tilt the handle so you can just feel the blade engage the beard.



(Here's where some men make a mistake. They tilt the handle up or down too much and make a scraper of a Gillette instead of a razor.)

Then shave with short, slanting strokes. It doesn't require any brute force to shave with a Gillette—the razor does the work.

Keep the edge of the blade as nearly flat against the skin as you can. Any man will catch the knack of using his Gillette in one or two shaves so he won't feel the slightest pull. In fact, when the Gillette is properly used the beard slips off without your knowing it.

The all-important thing is to lather well, and to hold the razor easily, with the handle tilted so the blade just engages the beard.

INTERBORO WORKERS HINT AT FALL TIEUP

Say Subway and Elevated May Be Shut Down Unless Fares and Wages Rise.

APPEAL TO SERVICE BOARD

Call on Mayor and Get Assurances That Any Advance in Rate Will Be Opposed.

A hint that the Interborough subway and elevated lines would have to shut down in the Fall for lack of men was made yesterday by seventy-five men of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes at a conference with Chairman Straus of the Public Service Commission. John A. Phelan, President of the brotherhood, spoke for the delegation.

A few days ago representatives of the New York Railways Company men made a similar suggestion. Both organzations asked Mr. Straus to aid the companies in getting a six-cent fare rate so they could raise wages. The first delegation called at the City Hall to ask the Board of Estimate to modify the franchise of the company so that the Public Service Commission could authorize the higher fare. President Dowling of Manhattan did not understand why the employes should assist the company to get more money, and said the men should not be interested in the company's revenue. Mr. Phelan resented this and told Mr. Straus it would be a poor official who would give similar advice to a city employe.

Mr. Straus replied that he did not want to hear criticisms of public officials. He felt sure, he said, that if the matter were properly put before the Board of Estimate the committee would get a sympathetic hearing. After leaving Mr. Straus, the delegation had a short talk with the Mayor, after which it was unofficially announced that the Mayor had convinced the delegation he would oppose any plan to increase fares.

Mr. Phelan told Mr. Straus that there were 15,000 members of the brotherhood, all employed on the Interborough, that the first draft had taken 2,000 employes, and that the next one would further weaken the company's man power. Also, he said, inducements in other industries were taking men away, and the scarcity of men, after Sept. 1, when the present agreement with the company ended, might result, he thought, in greatly crippling the service, if a complete shutdown did not follow.

He said the company was paying the men more than the agreement between them called for, but that the additional pay did not keep pace with the increase in living costs. To make up the difference, he said, the men had to work overtime.

Mr. Straus explained that the Court of Appeals had held that the commission lacked jurisdiction unless the Board of Estimate first modified the agreement with the company which called for a five cent fare.

DECRIES WAR CRITICISM.

British Colonel Praises Wilson's Policy—J. M. Beck Speaks.

"Less criticism and more action" was the keyword of an address delivered by Colonel Fraser Hunter of the British Army at the luncheon of the Pennsylvania Society in the Bankers Club yesterday. James M. Beck, President of the society, presided and introduced Colonel Hunter with a few remarks on racial and political ties which hold France, England and the United States together.

"Institutional America," Mr. Beck said, "owes its parentage to England as the father of its statecraft and political ideals, and to France as the mother of its love of freedom and liberty. Between the three nations there is a substantiality of character that means for one."

Colonel Hunter began his address by calling the attention of his hearers to the fact that the "captains of industry" before him were "fellow soldiers," and that the war was a "business proposition."

"We've got to get down to brass tacks," he said, "and see just what we have got to do. There are only two classes in this great fight. Germans and those who are fighting against them. Wherever there is a German, there is a field of war.

"Don't criticise unless your criticism is constructive, for if you can't accept autocracy from Washington you'll have to accept it from Potsdam. Be sure of your facts before you begin to pull down people. If you don't pull together you ought to lose. Your President and your Government represent the great ideals we are fighting for."

Gaston Liebert, the French Consul General here, expressed the belief that the Allies would soon feel the beneficial results of a unity of command under General Foch.

U-BOAT CREW BROUGHT TO UNITED STATES

Arrive as Prisoners on Same Ship As Baker and Will Be Sent to Internment Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The captured crew of the German submarine U-58, the members of which were brought to an Atlantic port today on the same steamer which brought Secretary of War Baker back from Europe, will be sent to an internment camp in this country. Plans for the disposition of them have not been completed. Secretary Daniels said tonight he would take the matter up with Admiral Benson, Chief of Naval Operations.

Prisoners of war captured by the American naval forces will all be brought to the United States. This has been determined, but as to the detailed disposition of them nothing has been decided.

The crew of the U-58, after having been captured by the American destroyer Fanning, were sent to England. They will be brought to the United States because it was feared that, if left in England, the German Government, on the plea that we were not taking care of our own naval prisoners of war captured from the Germans, might send to Turkey the American naval prisoners of war, not very numerous, now in German prison camps.

The disposition to be made of Germans taken prisoner by General Pershing's forces has not been finally determined, but, as they are expected to be numerous, and it would be impossible, even if desirable, to bring them all to the United States, probably they will be placed in prison camps in France. As General Foch is Commander in Chief of all the allied armies in France, and as the Entente forces there are to be handled as one large army, it is not believed that any good purpose would be served by treating German war prisoners taken by our army forces any differently from those taken by the British and French forces.

The German war prisoners held in this country are to be put to work. Orders were issued today by the War Department to the officers commanding the prison camps at Forts McPherson and Oglethorpe, Ga., to use the 1,370 inmates in building a new system of roads about the posts.

MASSES JURY FILLED.

Government Opens Conspiracy Suit Against Eastman.

After questioning scores of talesmen a jury to try Max Eastman, who was the editor of the publication known as The Masses, and his five co-defendants, was completed late yesterday afternoon. William H. Cochrane, a tea merchant of Mount Vernon, is foreman of the jury which will decide whether or not the editors and contributors to The Masses entered into a conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the military laws of the United States. Morris Hillquit, who with Dudley Field Malone, represents the defendants, questioned prospective talesmen.

Mr. Barnes made the opening address for the Government. He said that the Government expected to prove that Eastman and the other defendants entered into a conspiracy to defeat the purposes of the selective draft law, conviction for which crime, under the Espionage act, might result in a maximum term of twenty years in the penitentiary for each of the accused.

The first witness called for the Government was E. E. Wonderly of the McConnell Printing Company of 226 William Street, the company which printed the August, September, and October, 1917, issue of The Masses. The circulation of the August number he said was about 25,000 copies, the September about 20,000, and the October about 28,000 copies.

Excerpts from various articles which appeared in the magazine were read into the evidence. Several cartoons which appared were also placed in evidence. A poem which was read into evidence was a tribute to Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the convicted anarchists.

The trial will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

SAFETY EARNINGS RESALE VALUE

Safety depends on length of service and whether the maker continues in business and stands behind his trucks.

Earnings depend on whether the truck is suited to the work required, its speed and carrying capacity and its uninterrupted service.

Resale value depends on the reputation of the truck which determines the price it will bring second hand.

PIERCE-ARROW

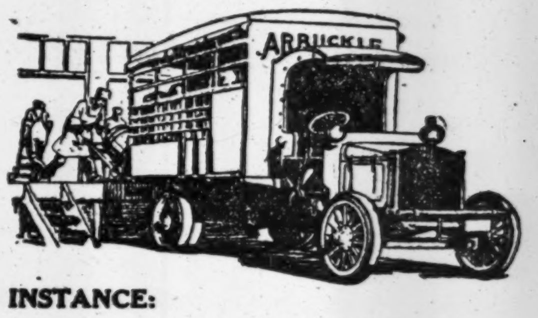
are sound investments and can be demonstrated on all three scores from the actual experience of owners. The first 100 Pierce-Arrows in commercial use are all running today and have averaged over 75,000 miles. No Pierce-Arrow has ever worn out or become obsolete.



FOR INSTANCE:

The first Pierce-Arrow sold July 11, 1911 to Arbuckle Bros. was sold two years ago to Brainerd Bros. who operate it daily and say it is as good as new although it has run over 100,000 miles.

Arbuckle Bros. bought five in 1917 and twenty-five since. They now operate 29.

The greater speed of the Pierce-Arrow enables it to carry a larger aggregate load in a given time, make more trips than any other truck.

FOR INSTANCE:

The output of Gera Mills, near Passaic, N. J., is hauled daily to their showrooms in New York. A 5-ton Pierce-Arrow makes 3 trips daily in 9 hours, hauling 15 tons each way. It replaced 3-ton trucks which required 2 hours longer for three trips, carrying 9 tons. It does 90% more work in the same time and effects a big saving.

Rarely can you find a Pierce-Arrow truck on the second hand market. Occasionally trucks bought for emergency work are sold when the operation is completed. Sometimes unusual conditions force a sale. When a Pierce-Arrow is offered it is instantly snapped up at a good price.

Sid Says:

Now that the Kaiser is here—how do you like him?

By John M. Siddall, Editor of the American Magazine

TAKE another look at Emperor William. We are beginning to see a good deal of him. It seems to me that I run into him everywhere I go. And whenever I see him I find that he has a lot of new instructions to give me—orders to hand out—things that I shall or shall not do.

A few weeks ago I thought I would go up to the golf club and get a little exercise. When I got there I found that this bird had preceded me and closed up the place. The clubhouse looked like Belgium, cold and desolate. No more coal until further notice—by order of German Willie.

It's the same way at home—heat turned off, lights turned down, sugar nearly gone And the Emperor at the bottom of it all. If it weren't for his ambitions, things would be back where they were.

At the restaurant where I eat my lunch, William has taken charge of the kitchen and the dining-room. He tells me what I can have and what I can't have—mostly what I can't have. He has lowered the quality of the food, raised the prices, and fixed it so that I have to yell my head off to get anything at all. Aside from that, he's a perfect host.

The old boy follows me to the office. Say, William, have a heart! It would require a couple of hundred thousand words to describe the help he is to me in my business—with all that he is doing to upset the mails, the railroads, and the processes of manufacture and delivery. On the whole, it is more fun these days to sit at home and shiver than to go down to business and sweat.

Yes sir, the Emperor is with us every waking moment. It took quite a long time for him to get over here, but he has arrived, bag and baggage. And he has established personal relations with each one of us. We are having extensive dealings with him, and we are not finding the relationship very satisfactory. He's a domineering, dictatorial nuisance. He's also extravagant. His present schemes have cost about seventy-five billion dollars and four or five million lives. He is the bull-headed promoter type that gets in wrong—and hang the expense! There's nothing to be done but to get rid of him. If we let him have his way now, he will go right on rocking the boat. He loves authority, likes to boss. Give him rope and there will be more wars—and plenty of them.

Uncle Sam has set out to fire this man. And we agree that the thing must be done. So rake and scrape every penny you can find and put it in toward finishing up the job. Buy Liberty Bonds and take some of the arrogance out of this would-be guardian of the world. You will get all your money back—with interest at 4¼ per cent.

All join in the chorus—W-E D-O-N-T W-A-N-T T-H-I-S G-U-Y! We have had a taste of him—and we don't like his work. We may have been monkeys once. The scientists tell us we were. But let's not allow this kind of a specimen to make monkeys of us again.

The Liberty Loan Committee liked this page from the April American Magazine so well that it has had hundreds of thousands of copies of this editorial printed and distributed. To help the Third Liberty Loan we are giving it further publicity by printing it here.

GROCERS CONVICTED OF NOT USING LABELS

Federal Food Board Presses Cases Against Those Who Fail to State Prices.

HEAVY FINES ARE LIKELY

New York Clubs Join Hotels in Establishing a Wheatless Program.

The Federal Food Board began yesterday its prosecution of grocers who have violated the label rule of the Food Administration, which requires grocers to label their goods as to grade, quality, and price before placing them on sale. A dozen cases were heard by Magistrate Appleton yesterday, one of them being a complaint involving a branch of the James Butler chain of stores at 337 Lenox Avenue. James Butler, Jr., appeared as representing the defendant in this case. He was found guilty of the charge of violating the label rule. Sentence was postponed until April 23.

The most severe penalty inflicted was that which Magistrate Appleton imposed upon Max Yadoff, a grocer of 167 Lenox Avenue. Yadoff denied that he had violated the rule, but the testimony proved the contrary, and Magistrate Appleton fined him $100, with the alternative of spending ten days in jail. This is the first penalty inflicted in court in this State for a violation of the Food Administration's label rule.

The other defendants in court on similar charges were Morris S. Levy, Samuel Schutzmann, Joseph Shapiro, F. Turner, Leopold Oppenheimer, Harris Shotlander, Samuel Finkel, Francis Gill, John Tornatori, and Angelo Montuori. Shapiro, Oppenheimer, and Schutzmann pleaded guilty.

In considering the question f sentence Judge Appleton criticised the law under which a violator of the label rule became liable to punishment, because that law was so framed as to compel the court to impose either a fine of $100 or one of $1,000. Citing a case before him of a poor woman grocer and comparing it with the Butler case, Judge Appleton said:

"Those who draw up these laws take all the discretion away from the Judge. How can a poor woman be expected to pay as hgh a fine as a rich corporation like James Butler? One dollar to her means more than a thousand dollars to James Butler. There are only a few James Butlers, but there are a multitude of these poor people."

More than 200 clubs in New York City will put into effect on April 25 a wheatless program similar to that adopted by the hotels. Among these are the following:

Knickerbocker, Union League, Union, Yale, Harvard, University, Colony Manhattan, Republican, Democratic, Catholic, New York Athletic, City Athletic, Hamilton, Crescent Athletic, Engineers, Downtown Association, India House, Bankers, Harmonic, Whitehall, Phi Gamma Delta, Calumet, Century, New York Yacht, Columbia, Cornell, Cosmopolitan, Friars, Lambs, Lawyers, Lotos, Midday, New York Press Club, Racquet and Tennis, Railroad, Players, The Brook, New Metropolis, Stock Exchange Luncheon, York, and Woman's University.

The Federal Food Board began yesterday a series of formal hearings against 174 bakers charged with using insufficient quantities of substitutes in their bread. Twenty-seven cases were heard yesterday, and in nineteen of them the owners were ordered to close their places for three days, April 22, 23, and 24. They were the following:

Biliello, 2,271 Pacific Street, Brooklyn; Jos. Cerbone, 618 Morris Avenue, Brooklyn; A. Nomiatto, 618 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn; F. R. Staffo, 648 Morris Avenue Bronx; R. Napolitano, 2,233 First Avenue; M. Serrapico, 61 President Street, Brooklyn; C. Fengert, 134 Norman Avenue, Brooklyn; S. Bicoli, 246 Mulberry Street; G. Caragana, 232 East Twenty-ninth Street; C. F. Barthell, 1,690 Broadway, Brooklyn; S. Eichelbaum, 342 East Eighth Street; S. Venechanos, 54 Cherry Street; E. Konecky, 112 Walton Street, Brooklyn; S. Centenze, 35 Hamburg Avenue, Brooklyn; S. Safina, 231 Trautman Street, Brooklyn; B. Lucari, 2,355 Pacific Street, Brooklyn; D. Minkes, 408 Cherry Street; C. Aiello, 2,034 Second Avenue; A. Anostasio, 148 Mulberry Street.

DRIED FOODS ON EXHIBITION

Fruits, Vegetables, Meats, and Fish at League for Woman's Service.

An exhibition of dehydrated fruits, vegetables, meats, chicken, and fish is to be given in the building of the National League for Woman's Service at 257 Madison Avenue, near Thirty-ninth Street, between April 17 and 24, by a committee of women headed by Miss N. J. White. The object of the exhibition is to encourage the drying of fruits and vegetable and other foods by housewives as a conservation plan.

Miss White points out that conservation plans in Germany were aided greatly by a system of preserving foods by drying them. She said that before the war there were 400 public drying plants in Germany, and that the need of saving all foods and of putting them into small spaces for transportation to the fronts caused the establishment of hundreds more. The drying of foods eliminates waste and allows greater quantities to be stored and transported in a small space.

ASSAILS 'SMUG AMERICA.'

German Press Criticises Treatment of Late Mrs. Beyersdorff.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 16, (via London.)—German papers take up the case of the wife of Beyersdorff, an engineer of the North German Lloyd, who died in February in America. They call this an example of "smug American phariseeism." One paper says that Americans love to cry with a megaphone, "Lord, I thank Thee that I am not like others, especially like German publicans." It declares that everything Germany has done was considered proof of her barbaric Kultur.

"Searching of female spies at the frontier and shooting of British spies brought the Yankee hypocrisy to a boiling point," the paper continues. "America would never be brutal to a woman, but since the war we have seen how America treats women."

The papers assert that Mrs. Beyersdorff's death was due to the fact that after she lost her son she had a nervous breakdown in America and was just recovering when her husband was interned, and that in spite of the doctor's and the Swiss Ambassador's protests he was not released, and his wife became worse and finally died.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung compares Mrs. Beyersdorff to Edith Cavell who, it says, acquired a saintly halo, but it explains that this case is lacking in dramatic quality and that the tragedy lies too deep for sensation mongers. The paper accuses the American Government of allowing the case to last three-quarters of a year until the woman died.

"Where is the big American heart?" it asks.

Governor Signs Bill Extending Prohibition to State Soldiers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Whitman today signed the bill making it unlawful to sell, serve or give away liquor to any man in uniform, which will include the National Guard, in any bar, restaurant, cafe or similar place.

The bill of Assemblyman Bourke of New York amending the civil service law by establishing a separate eligible list for persons on a civil service list for appointment, who voluntarily enlist or are drafted into the military service, also became law with the Governor's signature.

Mill Street Synagogue Celebration.

The Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, rabbi of the Congregation Shearith Israel, at Seventieth Street and Central Park West, has announced that services to commemorate the establishment of the old Mill Street Synagogue, would be held in his synagogue tonight at 8:15 o'clock. His temple is called the Second Mill Street Synagogue, because the traditions of the first synagogue have been carried on through several generations of congregations of this temple, first established in 1664.

MITCHEL MADE NO CHARGE.

Official Denial of the San Diego Story of a Plot to Imperil Fliers.

A comprehensive denial of the truth of a news item printed by most of the newspapers on March 22 to the effect that Major John Purroy Mitchel, former Mayor of New York, had uncovered at the aviation camp at San Diego, Cal., where he is now stationed, a plot on the part of manufacturers of aviators' goggles to supply articles which were a menace to the wearer, has been sent to THE TIMES by Captain M. H. Ray, Executive Officer of the camp, who writes:

"The connection of Major Mitchel's name with this matter is a great injustice to him. I beg to advise you that Major Mitchel has never been connected with any board authorized to investigate aviators' goggles, and that he has never—officially or unofficially—made any recommendations or suggestions concerning aviators' goggles.

"It can be stated without reservation that the only part of this story which has any possible foundation is the fact that Major Mitchel is stationed here."

Trucks on Good Roads Help in Crisis

The combination of good roads and motor trucks has done much to relieve railroad freight congestion. Motor trucks have taken a heavy burden off the railroads; their use will grow with the improvements of highways. W. H. Hauck, truckman, New York, makes 120 mile runs in a day to Patchogue, L. I., and back.

"My Autocar goes loaded both ways, carrying raw material to a factory and the finished product on the return trip," he says. "All through the winter the Autocar followed this route, without missing a day. The Autocar is the most reliable, workable truck I ever used."

TAMMANY MAY ACT IN HEALTH INQUIRY

Leaders Said to be Aroused by Protests Against Hylan's Secret Methods.

MATTER BEFORE ALDERMEN

Democrats and Republicans Expected to Support Resolution Offered by Socialists.

NO ACTION BY GOVERNOR

Says Commissioner Has Full Authority—More Expressions of Condemnation.

Spurred to activity by the silence of Mayor Hylan and by the continuation of the Mayor's Health Department investigation behind closed doors, a number of civic and medical organizations yesterday adopted resolutions and issued statements calling attention to the need for the bureaus of the Health Department at their present state of efficiency. The resolutions also urged that public hearings be held by the Civil Service Commission and the Commissioner of Accounts, who are conducting the investigation on orders from the Mayor.

Among the organizations to protest was the Public Health Committee of the Academy of Medicine, which made public a resolution calling upon "all those interested in public health to oppose the dangerous disintegration of the present organization of the Health Department."

Other organizations that presented the importance of the bureaus of the Health Department with which they have come into contact were the New York State Consumers' League, of which Jane Pincus is Secretary; the Cooper Union Forum, and the New York Child Labor Committee, of which Mornay Williams is Chairman.

The day was replete with developments. The Socialist Aldermanic delegation, headed by Alderman Algernon Lee, at a meeting of the board yesterday, introduced a resolution calling for a special Aldermanic committee to investigate the organization and activities of the Health Department. The resolution set forth that "the secrecy which attends the investigation now being conducted by the Municipal Civil Service Commission and the Commissioner of Accounts renders it impossible for the Board of Aldermen and the people of New York to be advised of a matter which vitally affects their lawful jurisdiction under the charter and the welfare of the city's inhabitants."

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules, and it was observed that the Republicans and some of the Democrats took interest in the proposal. It was thought probable at the City Hall that many Republican and some Democratic members would vote with the Socialists on the resolution.

Tammany Feels Alarm.

Alfred E. Smith, President of the Board of Aldermen, returned to town after several days' vacation, and was asked if it were true that he would look into the Mayor's investigation. Mr. Smith replied laughingly that all he had time to do was to shake hands, but it was said in other quarters that he views with no unfriendly eye the demands of medical and civic bodies that the bureaus of the Health Department, as at present constituted, remain undisturbed. It was believed by some political experts that certain Tammany members of the Board of Aldermen and other influential Democrats in various quarters were becoming alarmed at the repercussion aroused in the minds of working people and the general public with regard to Mayor Hylan's proposal to abolish the seven bureaus of the Health Department.

Casting their eyes toward the Fall election, some members of Tammany Hall are beginning to wonder in what repute their organization will be for the Gubernatorial fight if Mayor Hylan persists in "economizing" at the expense of what medical authorities and important civic organizations term the city's health and bodily welfare. The protests of the labor organizations against the disintegration of the Board of Health have begun to be felt at the City Hall, and it was thought that the person most likely to take the mater up with the Mayor was President Smith of the Board of Aldermen. Mr. Smith is one of the high consulting powers of Tammany Hall, close to Charles F. Murphy, and also an adviser to a certain extent, of Mayor Hylan. It was pointed out yesterday that if Tammany decided to speak in plain terms to the Mayor with regard to the panic he caused among the large elements in the city when he announced his plans for an investigation leading to a reorganization of the Health Department, the logical man to broach the subject to him would be President Smith.

Some persons yesterday prophesied an open break between the Mayor and President Smith before the end of the week on the Health Department investigation. It was President Smith who was reported as suggesting last week to the Mayor that he refrain from "scolding" the heads of the city departments. This was denied at the Mayor's office, and soon afterward Mayor Hylan wrote a letter to Corporation Counsel Burr saying that many of his assistants were of "the old school" and requesting that he rid himself of these men. If, as predicted, an open break should come between Tammany and the Mayor, or if relations between the two became strained, it would be because of the Mayor's insistence on continuing the Health Department investigation and because of the attitude in other matters which has already begun to alienate from him many persons and organizations whose support he could, in the opinion of Democrats, have continued to possess had he acted otherwise.

Dr. Frankel's Letter Astray?

Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Chairman of the Committee of Twenty-One, chosen last Saturday at a meeting of fifty representatives of civic and social service organizations, got no word from Mayor Hylan in response to his request, made in a letter to the Mayor, for a meeting with the committee upon the investigation. At 6 o'clock last night Grover Whalen, Secretary to the Mayor, said that up to that time Dr. Frankel's letter had not been received. He said it was not the disposition of the Mayor to delay his reply to Dr. Frankel.

When Dr. Frankel was informed that the Mayor had not received his request for an interview he said that he would write again. He said he had mailed the letter personally at the Madison Square Post Office between 5 and 6 o'clock on Monday evening.

The hearing continued yesterday behind closed doors in the office of the Civil Service Commission, with Lucius P. Brown, Director of the Bureau of Food and Drugs, as the only witness. It was reported that Harry Klein, Assistant to Commissioner Hirschfield, had taken part in questioning the witness. In some quarters it was pointed out that recalling Mr. Brown twice since his original examination, seemed to point to a drive against his department. It was said that evidence existed that the investigators, having possibly abandoned their initial intention to "reorganize" the Bureau of Child Hygience, of which Dr. S. Josephine Baker is head, and the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, of which Dr. Louis I. Harris is Director, had turned their attention to another bureau to "save their face."

In this connection it was recalled that for several days after the announcement of the Mayor ordering the investigation, nothing was said of "irregularities," but that "economy" and "reorganization" were discussed. No mention of graft was made until vigorous protests had been entered by various citizen organizations, particularly the Central Federated Union.

The resolution adopted by the Public Health Committee of the Academy of Medicine, and made public yesterday, follows:

Whereas, The city administration has officially expressed its opinion that seven of the nine bureaus in the Department of Health, namely, the Bureaus of General Administration, Preventable Diseases, Laboratories, Child Hygiene, Food and Drugs, Public Health Education, and Hospitals, have been illegally instituted, and also have been wasteful of public funds, and should therefore, upon one or both of these grounds, be abolished; and,

Whereas, The Law Department of the City of New York has, on two separate previous occasions, once during the administration of Mayor Gaynor, and again during the administration of Mayor Mitchel, declared the existence of the functional bureaus in question to be in full compliance with the law; and

Whereas, in the opinion of the Public Health Committee of New York Academy of Medicine the Health Department of the City of New York, under its present form of organization, has rendered most efficient service to the city; and,

Whereas, the proposed hasty and ill-considered reorganization of the Health Department would inevitably result in a lessening of the high quality of the present personnel and would impair the administrative efficiency of the department; and,

Whereas, under the present war conditions, it is of paramount importance to conserve public health; and,

Whereas, decreased efficiency of the Health Department will result in a greater amount of sickness, particularly among those least able to bear its consequences, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Public Health Committee of the New York Academy of Medicine opposes, and calls upon all those interested in public health similarly to oppose, the impending dangerous disintegration of the present organization of the Department of Health of New York City.

Among the well known physicians on the committee are John S. Billings, Nathan E. Brill, Robert J. Carlisle, Floyd M. Crandall, Charles Loomis Dana, Lewis Fox Frissell, Arpad G. Gerster, John A. Hartwell, Thomas W. Hastings, L. Emmet Holt, Abraham Jacobi, Howard Lilienthal, James Alexander Miller, Walter N. Niles, Bernard Sachs, Thomas W. Salmon, Frederic E. Sondern, W. Gilman Thompson, Frederick Tilney, Philip Van Ingen, Karl M. Vogel, George B. Wallace, and Herbert B. Wilcox

In the resolution adopted by the Cooper Union Forum at a meeting in Cooper Union last night it was recalled that the elaborate machinery of public health in this city had been built up gradually during twelve years at a cost of nearly $50,000,000 and that it was estimated that due to the work of the department probably 500,000 lives had been saved.

The resolution also called the attention to all citizen bodies, public forums, taxpayers' associations, and parents' associations to the danger "that careless hands be laid on a public work that affects the well-being of young children and unborn babies of industrial workers and mothers," and all citizens were urged to "pay immediate and vigorous attention to the critical situation which has been precipitated through these investigations from which the citizens of New York have been barred."

Lucius P. Brown's Record.

The report that a drive had been started against the Food and Drug Bureau by the investigators caused nonpartisan inquirers to look into the record of that department yesterday. Lucius P. Brown, the director of the Bureau of Food and Drugs, it was learned, came here from Tennessee, where he had been State Commissioner of Food and Drugs for about five years. He obtained his position in the Health Department as the result of a competitive civil service examination in which he led the list of a dozen competitors in 1914.

In addition to his present place with the city, Mr. Brown is also Chairman of the Section on Food and Drugs of the American Public Health Association, a member of the Federal Milk Commission and of many other public health bodies.

In the administration of Mayor Mitchel, when Commissioner of Accounts Wallstein investigated conditions at the Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn, slaughter house, following which a number of persons were found guilty of bribery, it was Mr. Brown who requested the Health Commissioner to have the Mayor make the investigation. As a result of Mr. Brown's co-operation, it was reported that the evil-doing on the part of several persons was uncovered.

Mr. Brown has been active in the prosecution of fake patent medicine manufacturers, and it was said that it was due to his efforts that the city's markets have been rid of many quack products. The Bureau of Food and Drugs attends to cases of drug addicts who apply at the Board of Health for relief rather than at the Magistrates' Courts. The bureau is also charged with watching all ice cream manufactories, and the present staff under Mr. Brown has perfected a system of inspection of these places. That food shipments to this city are clean and well packed is said to be due to the pressure from the Food and Drug Bureau. Authorities assert that in this respect the New York City Bureau of Food and Drugs is a model for other cities.

The bureau inspects all country killed meats, and it is asserted that its inspection of slaughter houses is more vigorous than that of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry.

In regard to war activities, the bureau made surveys for the Department of Agriculture in August and December, 1917. Periodical reports are made to the Federal Food Commission regarding the quantity of food on sale. In addition, the bureau reports all violations of law to the Federal Food Administration, which is thus enabled to carry on its manifold activities with a small force. About 100 violations a day are reported to the Federal Food Commission.

Since Jan. 1, it was said, the bureau saved 2,000,000 pounds of food for animal consumption and 200,000 pounds of food for humans was saved in the last six months of 1917.

Other duties of the bureau include control of the egg market, milk inspection, surveys of waste and garbage and establishment of women's war canning kitchens.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Whitman refused today to say anything about the investigation of alleged graft in the New York Department of Health, except that the Commissioner of Accounts had full authority to inquire into the department. The Governor denied that he had called the case to the attention of District Attorney Swann on the ground that a crime had been alleged.

WILL ASSIST IN RELIEF

Comprehensive Plans Made for Aid of Inhabitants Who Have Suffered Under Turkish Rule.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—A commission of about sixty members, headed by John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education of New York, is to be sent to Palestine, it was announced today at Red Cross headquarters, to study the needs of the people of the Holy Land and assist in their relief.

The Red Cross has made comprehensive plans for the relief of the people of the Holy Land, who for centuries have suffered under Turkish rule and who recently were rescued through the British conquest of Jerusalem.

"For some time," said an announcement, "the American Red Cross has had under consideration the best way to relieve conditions in Palestine. All reports indicate that they are peculiarly deplorable. Famine and disease have enacted heavy toll. Typhus and cholera were and are epidemic. In no part of the world into which the war has been carried is the condition of the civilian population worse than in the land of the Bible.

"Dr. E. St. John Ward of Springfield, Mass., Professor of Surgery in the American University at Beirut, Syria, in an exhaustive report submitted a plan of relief. The War Council appropriated $390,000 as a beginning. The work is to be done in connection with the British Syria and Palestine Relief Fund and the American Armenian and Syrian Relief Committee, which already have been doing what they could.

"The initial work of the Red Cross Commission will establish in Palestine four medical units to combat typhus, cholera and other diseases."

Others of the commission besides Dr. Finley who are well known include Dr. Ward, Theodore Waters, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Jesse K. Marden, Boston; Charles E. Clark, Elyria, Ohio; William S. Dodd, Montclair, N. J.; Harry C. Hurd, Indianapolis; Harry Warren Carson, Danville, Ill.; Giles S. Pease, Worcester, Mass.; Julius A. Brown, Hartsdale, N. Y.; James H. Nicol, Auburn, N. Y.; B. Barter Millikin, Roselle, N. J.; A. Edward Kelsey, Portsmouth, R. I.; Arthur A. Bacon, Geneva, N. Y.; William C. Groeniger, Columbus, Ohio; Jacob Norman, Malden, Mass.; Frank H. Williams, Portsmouth, Ohio; Montgomery Ogden, Orange, N. J.; J. Milton Vance, New York City; Graham C. Hunter, Riverside, Cal.; Edmund B. Chaffee, New York City; Ethan O. Jago, New York City; Samuel Edgar, Greeley, Col.; R. Livingstone Anthony, Beaver Falls, Penn.; Harry S. Huntington, Jr., Roselle, N. J.

Dr. Finley was in the city last night on his way to Washington to confer with the officials of the Red Cross upon the request that he head the Palestine Commission. He said at the Century Association that he had nothing to add to the announcement already given out.

Dr. Finley has been proposed as a candidate for City Superintendent of Schools here, and he returned only a few months ago from an official mission to France, where he went to study the schools and colleges during wartime.

Service League to See 'Over the Top'

Twenty-five hundred pupils of the Patriotic Service League of the Manual Training High School, Brooklyn, will see "Over the Top" at the Lyric Theatre as guests of Arthur Guy Empey, who is featured in the film production. Mr. Empey was a student at the Manual Training High School. Last year he helped to organize the Patriotic Service league, which is out to sell $1,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds and do other patriotic work that comes to hand. Half the students will see the performance this afternoon and the other half will visit the theatre tomorrow afternoon.

Marcia Van Dresser Sings.

Marcia Van Dresser, soprano, at her matinée in Aeolian Hall yesterday, sang a song in Italian by Haydn, arranged by Pauline Viardot; groups in French by Debussy and Faure; and American pieces by Spross and Fiske, as well as a pair by her accompanist, Richard Hageman. She has before now been praised for many excellencies as an artist, for warmth and breadth of phrase in simple airs, and for sincerity in accents of dramatic expression.

Close Philadelphia Opera Series.

The Metropolitan stars closed their Philadelphia series last night with a double bill, "L'Oracolo" and "Coq d'Or," which ended a double day in the Quaker City, a special matinée of "Trovatore" being given in place of a performance cancelled on the first of the "coalless" Tuesdays last January.

Stars to Aid Duryea War Relief.

A program to be given at the Cohan Theatre a week from tomorrow afternoon will have the Duryea War Relief as its beneficiary, and will enlist the services of Percy Grainger, E. H. Sothern, Julia Marlowe, George M. Cohan, and Viola Allen (Mrs. Peter B. Duryea). Tickets are obtainable at the office of the War Relief, 9 East Thirtieth Street.

VESTRY TO ACT ON FLAG.

Indignant Astoria Residents Wait for Its Decision About Rector.

So great was the indignation of prominent residents of Astoria over the taking down of an American flag from the Church of the Redeemer at Crescent and Temple Streets on last Sunday by the Rev. Leigh R. Urban, rector of the parish, that yesterday they demanded that a mass meeting be held to express the sentiments of the community. It was decided, however, to wait until action is taken by the vestry of the church at a meeting tonight. The Department of Justice has been notified and an investigation promised. The Rev. Mr. Urban is reported to be visiting his father in Norristown. The complaint to the Department of Justice was made by Henry C. Johnson, Jr., Secretary of Local Draft Board 172, acting for the board.

Mrs. Urban, wife of the rector, said: "Mr. Urban has talked the matter of having a flag in the church over with the vestry, and all supported him in his decision not to have a flag in the church because it stands for war. Last Saturday night some boys got into the church and they hung the flag from the ceiling. Mr. Urban saw the flag as he was conducting services, and after the service he took it down, assisted by one of the vestrymen. He carefully folded the flag and laid it away, and he still has it. He would not tear the flag down any more than any one else."

When Harry T. Weeks, member of the vestry and one of the closest friends of the Rev. Mr. Urban, was asked about Mrs. Urban's statement, he said:

"Unfortunately, Mrs. Urban is misinformed. Every member of the vestry has had a talk with him, and not one of them agreed with him. We devoted one whole meeting of the vestry to a discussion of the subject with him, and told him our views collectively. He stated that he was opposed to having the flag in the church, and that his decision was controlling under the canon law."

HIRSHFIELD'S RELATIVE OUT

Mayor Demands Resignation of Alexander Grant.

At the request of Mayor Hylan, Alexander Grant, brother-in-law of Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield and an examiner of accounts in Mr. Hirshfield's office, resigned yesterday. Grant was appointed by Hirshfield on Jan. 2, at a salary of $3,060 a year. For a time he was acting director of the Central Purchasing Committee, but was transferred last Friday to do work as a stamper of vouchers in the Commissioner's office. Controller Craig, a few days ago, held up bills for some of Grant's purchases.

The Mayor demanded Mr. Grant's resignation yesterday and promptly received it. The request led to rumors that the Mayor and Hirshfield were not getting along very well together. Hirshfield has been credited with being the "discoverer" of Mayor Hylan and with having persuaded John H. McCooey, Democratic boss of Brooklyn, to back his candidacy for Mayor. Recently Hirshfield organized a league in Brooklyn to promote the candidacy of William R. Hearst for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

SUCCOR FOR STEFANSSON.

Doctor Begins 300-Mile Journey to Aid Stricken Explorer.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 16.—A messenger arrived at Fort Yukon, Alaska, yesterday from the Arctic Ocean with word that Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, who is wintering at Herschel Island, is suffering from typhoid fever, and is very low. Dr. Burke, a Fort Yukon Mission physician, started immediately over the 300-mile snow trail to the explorer's base. By taking five dog teams and using them in relays and by "mushing" day and night the doctor hopes to reach Herschel Island in ten days.

From Fort Yukon the trail runs up the Porcupine River and across the continental divide through the Rat Portage. Alexander Allen, a former member of Stefansson's party, accompanied Dr. Burke.

MUSIC NOTES.

Louise Homer, Jr., will sing Friday for the Brooklyn Music Settlement's benefit at the Ethical Culture Rooms, South Oxford Street, Brooklyn.

Lucy Gates and George Barrere will take part in a concert of the Women's Committee on National Defense in City Hall Park on Saturday afternoon.

The Community Chorus will give its third performance of "The Messiah" this evening at Morris High School, in the Bronx.

The Italian division of the International Music Festival Chorus will hold a concert this evening in Carnegie Hall.

Ethel Leginska, pianist, gave a recital last evening at Carnegie Hall under the auspices of the Humanitarian Cult.

ORPHANS' CIRCUS DAY.

More Than 7,000 Children Made Glad by Afternoon in Wonderland.

The Barnum and Bailey Circus entertained at a special performance in Madison Square Garden yesterday morning 7,283 orphan and crippled children of New York. The children came from eighty-three New York City institutions, and represented practically every race and nationality in the world.

The largest group represented the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, who came 700 strong, headed by their brass band of seventy-five pieces. The Rev. Father M. J. Fitzpatrick said that 324 graduates of the institution are now in the active military or naval service of the United States.

This morning at 10 o'clock the circus, that is a big part of it, will go to Bellevue Hospital to entertain the more than 1,000 convalescent patients in that institution. The performance will be given in the open square in front of the main pavilion.

The circus ends its 1918 season in New York Saturday night. On Monday it goes to Brooklyn for a week, and then starts on a transcontinental tour.

Florence Cole-Talbert Appears.

Florence Cole-Talbert, a soprano introduced by the Association for Promotion of Negro Talent, appeared in Aeolian Hall last evening in Italian airs from "Sonnambula" and "Rigoletto," one in French from "Herodiade," "The Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance, and a song of the Anglo-African, Coleridge-Taylor. She sang these and others with a voice of refined natural charm, not without racial touches of deep feeling and of humor. Daisy Tapley accompanied, and there were 'cello solos by Leonard Jeter.

Toast Opera Ushers in War Service.

Liberty bonds were given as prizes at the annual dinner of the Metropolitan opera ushers last evening at the Roma Restaurant, where Al Irwin led the toasts to those who had gone to war. The twenty-three ushers have furnished thirteen men to the army and navy, five of them already in France

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1918.

FOCH WILL NOT FAIL HAIG.

The capture of Bailleul by the Germans is not a tragical event for the British, but the enemy has occupied an important town to which wagon roads come in from every direction, and which has a station on the Armentières-Hazebrouck railway. Moreover, from Bailleul runs a highway northwest to Caestre, seven miles distant, on the Hazebrouck-Ypres railway. Caestre is five miles above Hazebrouck. As a purpose of the Germans is to get possession of junctions on railways that supply the British line in the Ypres section, it is pertinent to quote a passage from Field Marshal HAIG's report on the operations of his forces from April 9, 1917, to the conclusion of the Flanders offensive in November of that year:

> The positions held by us in the Ypres salient since May, 1915, were far from satisfactory. They were completely overlooked by the enemy. Their defense involved a considerable strain on the troops occupying them, and they were certain to be costly to maintain against a serious attack, in which the enemy would enjoy all the advantages in observation and in the placing of his artillery. Our positions would be much improved by the capture of the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge and of the high ground which extends thence northeastward for some seven miles and then trends north through Broodseinde and Passchendaele.

From the British official report issued last night it appears that the Germans have taken Wytschaete, and a small town north of Neuve Eglise, showing that they are pressing on in the northern sector of their offensive. In the Flanders offensive of 1917 the British drove the Germans from the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge and captured the long Passchendaele Ridge north of Ypres. In their drive for the supply railways the Germans are not now neglecting the first summit. The possession of Wulverghem, closer to the ridge on the west, gives the Germans another base. They had to have it in their forward movement, because it dominates their right flank, and in case of failure to get astride of the supply railways and hold them the Germans would have no choice but to retreat east of Armentières. They cannot be sure of attaining their objectives in the Ypres sector, although they talk boastfully of success. Therefore they were forced to go on assaulting the ridge on their right flank, however costly the enterprise might prove.

The general offensive from the terrain of the present "drive" to Montdidier and Noyon in the south is not difficult to understand, although the front is more than 100 miles long, when the railway centres still in the possession of the Allies are noted on a map. The capture of those junctions is necessary to the German plan of isolating the French from the British Army, or breaking the British Army in two, and putting large bodies of the Allies out of the campaign, with the Channel ports, Boulogne, Calais, and Dunkirk, as final objectives. The Germans are making a powerful lunge at Amiens because it is the greatest railway centre in northwestern France, as a base of supply being of the first importance to both the French and British armies. It has railway connections with Abbéville, near the mouth of the Somme, and with Boulogne and Calais. Lines run from Amiens up to Bethune, southwest of Armentières, and to Hazebrouck, for which the Germans are aiming from Merville and Bailleul. With Arras, Bethune, and Hazebrouck in their hands, they could compel the evacuation of Ypres by the British Army and its retreat to the coast. The British Army divided would have to retrieve its fortunes by a stand in the north, or be dependent upon the triumphant strategy of General FOCH south of Albert.

But the British Army is still intact and is in touch with the unbeaten French Army. The Germans are far from a decision in any part of the field. General FOCH will soon be heard from. It is now four days since Field Marshal HAIG announced to his troops in the Ypres sector that "the French Army is moving rapidly and in great force to our support." Mr. LLOYD GEORGE has assured the people of the allied countries that the Germans are not numerically stronger than the French, British, and Americans on the western front. General FOCH has a reserve army at his disposal. He is in constant communication with Field Marshal HAIG and General PETAIN.

It may be conjectured that General FOCH's base is not far from the battleline. His transportation facilities are adequate for any demand upon them. General FOCH is a practical soldier as well as a consummate strategist. Any moment the sound of his guns may be heard. He will not allow the British to be beaten back to their supporting railways without striking a timely blow to turn the tide of battle.

THE WAR AGAINST EXPERTS.

Tammany's assault upon "experts," a little too silly for even a municipal campaign, threatens the safety of the community. It is the "experts" of the Health Department who have so strikingly diminished the sickness rate among the children, the children especially of poor parents; have reduced materially the general death rate, and in particular the death rate of children; have made great gains against tuberculosis, robbed diphtheria of its old terrors, curtailed enormously the ravages of cholera infantum, made typhoid fever, long so common and so dreaded, an infrequent malady.

Experts, following or bettering the instructions of other experts, have made the milk and the water supply safe, have protected the health and added to the years of the city's children, of the community. "It is fair to assume," say four of the most distinguished physicians of New York, uniting in a protest against the Tammany war on the experts of the Health Department, "that the labors "of the New York City Health De- "partment have been the principal "agency in preventing 65,000 deaths "and 650,000 cases of serious illness "in the city" in 1917. That estimate is founded on the number of deaths that would have occurred in 1917 had the death rate in that year been the same as the average rate for 1888-93, and reckoning ten recoveries from grave illnesses for each death.

Is it because of legal scruple, so natural to the tender Tammany conscience, is it for the sake of that "economy" which Tammany never practices, that the labors, so productive, so beneficial, so indispensable, of the Board of Health are to be interfered with, checked, lessened? Is Tammany to get a few jobs at the expense of the public health?

The public peril which Tammany has forgotten in its ignorance or scorned in its impudence is too serious for the people of New York to contemplate without alarm. Let us remember those fortunately few cases of cholera brought to this port from Hamburg in 1892. An imperfect quarantine, a neglected isolation or disinfection, failure to boil the drinking water, rigidly to inspect ice, milk, and fruit, might revive among us the panic horrors of the great cholera years. It is by the abhorred race of "experts" that we are protected from infectious diseases. Yet bacteriology, for instance, seems to the engaging Hylanians a sort of sorcery, a forbidden art of the "art," or science, "artists."

The Hylan administration cannot afford to attack the health of the city, to invite disease, to kill off babies, to put a bounty on death. That is what this assault upon the Health Department would bring about, if carried through. The Mayor must, as best he can, get out of a bad business, of which the wiser heads of Tammany are weary, which even Socialist Aldermen cannot stomach.

THE SMALLER BOND SUBSCRIPTIONS.

It cannot be too much or too often insisted upon that it is the duty of individual buyers of the Third Liberty Loan bonds to hasten and complete the subscription. Men of much wealth, the banks, the great corporations have either already made subscriptions in millions and tens of millions, or they are, properly and wisely, husbanding their resources for use at the last moment in assuring the success of the loan. It is not the wish of the United States Treasury, it is not well for the Government or for the cause, that these bonds should be taken by great institutions or by the very rich. Mr. MCADOO has expressed the hope that there be 20,000,000 subscribers. It is the people's loan, for it is the people's cause. There is not a man or a woman in the United States, above all there is not a child, for the happiness of the coming generations is deeply involved in the issue of the war, who has not a direct and personal interest in seeing to it that the Government is provided with funds to make victory sure. The taking of the entire loan in small sums by a great multitude of individual Americans would be the best possible evidence that the people understand what our soldiers are fighting for.

The Chicago Federal Reserve district offers a good example for imitation. At the opening of the work for the loan in that district yesterday morning, $143,166,050 had been subscribed, representing 465,512 bond buyers, a little over $300 each. For a Reserve district with a large city like Chicago that is a good ratio, but it is to be hoped that when the subscription is complete the average individual investments may be less even than $300, for at that rate the $3,000,000,000 of the loan would be held by only 10,000,000 Americans. It is reported that employés of Western railroads to the number of 172,250 have subscribed for $13,021,185 of the loan, or a little less than $80 each.

It is an immense undertaking to place $3,000,000,000 of bonds in the hands of small subscribers; necessarily the process takes time. But subscriptions must come in more rapidly, otherwise too much will be left for those who subscribe in totals of millions. The money advanced to the Government for these bonds should come so far as possible, from current earnings, money that can be put aside for the purpose by wage-earners and persons of moderate incomes, supplemented by the proceeds of loans for which the bonds are used as collateral security, which is merely a way of pledging income yet to be earned. Resort should be had to borrowing, however, only when the borrower can see his way clear to pay off the loan in regular installments within a reasonable time. From the wages and incomes the people are now receiving the whole loan can be taken without serious sacrifice and with advantages which every intelligent American who understands the objects for which the Allies are fighting will perceive.

Subscribe, subscribe now. Every person who is in a position to take a bond at all can take it as well today as he can next week, and there are urgent reasons why subscriptions should come in more rapidly, far more rapidly than they have up to this time. The banks and large buyers will do their share, there need be no fear about that. But that is not the question. The interests of the Government and of the cause are best served, not by leaving the last half of the loan to be paid for out of large accumulations of money, but by getting as many as possible of the bonds into the hands of the people.

CONGRESS AND THE PEOPLE.

Within a few weeks, in different parts of the country, the work will begin of making nominations for a new House of Representatives, and it will continue through the Summer and early Fall. In November we shall elect not only this new House, but one-third of the Senate. Is it not time that American citizens should give some thought to the kind of Congress they are going to elect? With the mighty problems that will lie before the nation's lawmakers, problems that we cannot even foresee, is it either sensible or patriotic to nominate and elect the members of the next Congress in the happy-go-lucky, oh-what's-the-difference way in which from time immemorial we have elected their predecessors?

This time, if never before and never again, it is the duty of American citizens to see that men are nominated and elected who are not insignificant nobodies. This next Congress should have in its membership men of power and strength, fit to cope with the great tasks that it will have to shoulder. Whatever may have been our gains in other directions, there is no denying that of late years the general average of ability in Congress has not been increasing, but has been steadily lessening. The men who are to be elected this time will have a share either in the saving of liberty from destruction or in the remaking of the world after it has been saved. It is a task for giants, and it has not been our practice to elect giants to Congress.

The work of naming candidates for Congress who shall not only be of proved patriotism but of strength and standing should begin immediately throughout the country. With shame and sorrow we confess that it is well-nigh useless to address any such appeal to the City of New York. Nothing, not even this war, we fear, will arouse the people of this city, save in a few districts, to prevent the selection of the usual run of machine dummies. Our appeal is to the rest of the Union, to those States which in times past have shown themselves willing and able to elect their best men to Congress; and our appeal to them is to resume the practice which most of them, in late years, have abandoned.

This is a thing calling not for pious aspiration, but for organization and work, and the work will have to be carried on until all the primaries have been held and then continued to Election Day. There should be no question of partisanship. Where a capable and patriotic Republican is nominated against an insignificant and unmeaning Democrat, the Democratic voters should vote for the Republican, and the Republican voters should act in a similar way where the situation is reversed. Where one of the candidates is of doubtful loyalty, or subordinates his loyalty to other things, there should be a nonpartisan coalition against him. It would be idle to hope that an entire Congress of marked ability can be chosen, but enough can be to make sure that the destinies of this nation in its great crisis shall not be intrusted to the mercies of men of merely average intelligence. This is a great and patriotic duty resting on the people of the nation.

THAT SHALL BE KING HEREAFTER.

In State Service Mr. WILLIAM GORHAM RICE, who had experience in secretarial service in the Executive office at Albany from 1883 to 1889, writes of New York nominees for President. No article in any magazine, current or uncurrent, will be read more eagerly and pondered more studiously by the present Governor of New York. Ten times a Governor or former Governor of New York has been nominated for President, five times elected President. "No New York State man," Mr. RICE tells us and the Governor, "has ever "been elected President of the United "States unless he has previously "served as Governor. It would seem, "also, that, without exception, such "successful candidates have shown in "the office of Governor characteris- "tics which appealed definitely to in- "dependent political sentiment outside "of party lines."

Doubtless Governor WHITMAN is the exception that history, breathless, waits for. Or is attachment to the direct primary a definite appeal to independent sentiment?

AUSTRIA'S FINANCES EXPLAIN ITS POLICIES.

Austria's desperate need of recuperation in its finances attests and explains the good faith of its Emperor's pressure for peace, even at a high price. Its debt and its currency have been so unmanageable that it suppressed its reports from the beginning of the war until last December, and presented an unbalanced budget to Parliament in September of last year. The Federal Reserve Bulletin for April gives the best information on this hidden weakness of Germany's failing partner. The deficit of the most recent Austrian budget is 17,975,580,790 crowns, of 20 cents each nominally. The exhaustion of resoures is so great that it was proposed to cover the deficit by credit operations. But already the gold and silver cover for both deposits and currency is only 1.1 per cent., having fallen almost to disappearance from 63.4 per cent. Even German finances are thought to be embarrassed, yet Germany's cover for its currency and deposits is 18.3 per cent.

It would seem cruel and impracticable to ask further advances from the Austro-Hungarian Bank. Already the bank has advanced to Austria 9,040,000,000 crowns, or above 13,000,000,000 if the advances to Hungary are included. The bank and the empire are in the same boat, and would seem to be solvent or otherwise together, according to the fortunes of the war. The alternatives suggested by Austrian experts are either victory and indemnity, or peace followed by a loan from the conquerors or neutrals. This is the best statement which can be made on authority. There are unofficial reports of Treasury notes being outstanding which are not included in the published accounts, and which are disbursed at paper values, although bearing the promise of payment in gold.

In Vienna a quarter of the population are living on the rations of the public kitchens, and the city deficit for the year was 37,500,000 crowns. Austria's funded loans number seven, for a total of 82,073,000,000 crowns. In addition, there are seven Hungarian loans for 14,264,000,000 crowns. The quality of Germany's benevolence to its ally appears from the fact that the bareness of the Austrian Treasury chest is due to its being emptied by Germany when it began making advances. At least, that is the suggestion of the decrease in the Austrian gold fund from 1,337,879,000 crowns to 264,190,000, accompanied by a sudden bulge in the German gold holdings.

The situation in Austria is worse than that in Germany, for reasons which do not appear on the face of the figures. German industry was of a sort and in a condition to grow under war demands. The conditions are not stable or enduring in Germany, but the accounts do reflect a certain sort of feverish prosperity. Austria financed itself, not by stimulation of production, but by pledge of property in exchange for currency. Austrian banks accordingly hold illiquid assets, which are mortgaged for more than they will sell for. That is true even of the existing conditions, and is still more true of the conditions if the currency were to be valued at anything like its nominal worth by currency reform. Accordingly, the Austrian banks are more concerned in maintaining the balance of their accounts in depreciated currency than in putting conditions on a more solid basis, with the result of collapse in the market price of their assets. German banks hold the State securities which they took more or less willingly, but the Austrian banks to a considerable extent preferred overvalued properties to depreciated State obligations and currency. Their deposits are great, and their accounts nominally balance, but the civil servants even are petitioning for shoes, clothing, food, soap, and other necessaries, without which they told the Emperor they could not find strength to do their work. These are the reasons why Austria wants a "democratic" peace, meaning a peace which will give Austria access to resources available here in particular. A Pan German peace would mean "hunger for generations." Germany shows its desperation by a last offensive, but the partner Emperors are thinking alike, although they act differently.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Explaining National Blindness. Professor WILLIAM HERBERT HOBBS, in an article contributed to The Tribune, declares it to be "one of the most amazing, as it is one of the most tragic, of all the facts connected with this war," that it was not foreseen by the "intellectuals"—the statesmen, historians, and philosophers—of the nations now allied against Germany.

He makes exception, among members of this class, only of the late Professor CRAMB, but "Germany and England" attracted attention only after Professor CRAMB's death and after the war had begun. Lord SALISBURY did, indeed, as early as 1900, warn his countrymen of the German danger. So did FREDERICK SCOTT OLIVER, and, most of all, Lord ROBERTS. Not only were their warnings unheeded, but they were all more or less sternly rebuked for not taking the common view that a great war was impossible in modern conditions, and they were accused of trying to disturb an otherwise unthreatened peace among nations.

Yet, as Professor HOBBS says, Germany had made no secret of her intentions, and her purposes would have been as plain to all then as they are now, except for some mysterious veil that had been drawn over the eyes of the very men whose business and profession it was to know the future from the past and to see what is hidden from common folk. This fatal blindness Professor HOBBS ascribes chiefly to the overdeveloped and wrongly developed tendency of these men to keep what they called "open minds"—to see both sides of every question and actually to be proud of never reaching a definite decision as to which side was wrong and which right. Some of the "intellectuals," too, had for years been engaged in spreading wide the poison of pacifism, and he mentions among the workers at this ignoble task DAVID STARR JORDAN and NORMAN ANGELL as particularly influential in corrupting the popular mind.

Another reason why the war was not foreseen could be found in the prevalence in circles far too wide of the theory of which Christian Science was only one, though the best-known, because most obviously harmful, product. It was the theory that undesirable things are created by admitting their possibility, and that they can be avoided or prevented by denying their possibility. There was no end of that before the war—and the Germans profited by it.

Such Action Would Be Inexcusable. Over in France there is a young American soldier whose home address can be indicated with sufficient definiteness by stating in the fashion so loved by those most naïve of mortals, the military censors, that it is "an Atlantic port." To this young man the immediate members of his family have taken pains, ever since he sailed away, to send, or rather to post, three letters every week. He, in turn, ever since his arrival on the other side, has mailed one letter each week to one or another member of his family.

Now, it is a fact that of all these letters, only one in a month or six weeks has reached its destination at either end of the line of communication, and both this fact and the approach to something like regularity in it were a puzzle to the family in question until there arrived from France another young American who is a friend of the soldier still abroad, and he gave the, or at any rate an, explanation of the mystery.

He said that the censor in France, being unable to read all of the great number of letters passing through his hands, simply destroyed the majority of them, but in doing this he had a system—he kept a chart and passed upon one letter a month for each soldier!

Though this statement was made in perfect sincerity—though the maker undoubtedly believed it, that is—to accept it as true is difficult, and one cannot but hope that it is false. To conduct the censorship in that manner would be outrageous—would be nothing less than criminal, and certainly it would be quite without excuse. If the officers detailed to act as censors cannot do the amount of work imposed upon them, two remedies for that situation are conceivable, both legitimate. One, and the better if practicable, is to increase the number of those officers. The other, to be adopted in case of actual need, is to make public announcement of the situation with respect to mail and of the necessity to limit family correspondence to one letter a month each way.

That would be a hardship, but we are all getting used to hardships, these days, and they are not resented if their endurance helps in the conduct of the war. But to let people go on writing such letters as these, only to be destroyed—that is, or would be, intolerable.

Their Grief Has Its Consolation. It well illustrates the magnitude of this war that already, though of the American forces more cannot be said than that they are beginning in a small way to take part in the operations at the front, nearly 2,000 of our men have lost their lives in France, and the total "casualties," including dead, wounded, and missing, number close to twice as many. This is a grim beginning, but we knew what was in store for us when we decided to take part in the great conflict, and as to one family after another there come from the War Department messages announcing the death or injury of an absent member, the knowledge is turned into the realization we have been slow to reach.

But already, too, there is accumulating evidence that here, as in France and England and Italy, these announcements are received with something more than the grief they necessarily must cause. With that grief there is joined the feeling expressed by the mother of WINTHROP RODEWALD, Corporal in the 165th Infantry, to whom had come the cruelest of news. As quoted in THE TIMES yesterday, when seen at her home in East Orange, she said: "Of course I am heartbroken, but I am proud to be the mother of a boy who died for our flag."

That is pride in its noblest form. It does not make bereavement easy to bear, but it gives the strength required for the bearing and precious consolation for the patriot soul—the consolation known only to the patriot soul. Our participation in the war is only begun. On days that are before us other lists, far longer than any yet printed here, will have to be read by those at home in defense of whom the men abroad are risking and sometimes losing their lives. But there should be as much of appreciation as of sorrow.

After all, the fate of these "boys" is not an unhappy one. They do not show any more of regret than of fear, when they go under fire, and the great majority of them went to war gladly, as a high privilege, and though they may not live long, they will live more than any who are left behind.

'FIRST HERO' SENDS CROSS TO MOTHER

Major Simmons Tells Colonel Roosevelt of Mission Given to Him by Sergeant Givens.

FIRST AMERICAN DECORATED

Major Saw Archie Roosevelt and Says He Will Have No Mark Left by Wounds.

Colonel Roosevelt was visited yesterday by Major George W. Simmons, Division Manager of the Southwest District of the American Red Cross, just back from France. The Major had with him the citation and the Croix de Guerre of a young noncommissioned officer who is known, he said, in the hospital where he is slowly winning back to health as the first American hero. The Colonel picked up the decoration and as he turned it over he said with pride: "And my boy has received one like that."

The Major said that at one of the hospitals the surgeon asked him if he wanted to see "the F. A. H." On inquiry he was told the initials stood for "the first American hero."

The wounded soldier told him he wanted above all else to have his mother receive his decoration. When the Major promised that he would personally do this the lad broke down and cried. His mother lives in Florance, Ala., and the presentation, Major Simmons says, will be made in the largest hall there and before the most prominent persons who can be gathered in it.

The young hero, he continued, was Corporal Homer Givens. At 2 o'clock in the morning of Aug. 2 the Corporal with several other men was in a listening post in a shell crater in advance of the American lines. There had been heavy artillery fire from the Germans when they began to come over the top. Givens's companions started back to the trenches, but the Corporal did not run. He turned his gun on the Germans and killed three before he was hit and rolled back into the shell hole. One German kicked him and remarked "dead" as he placed his foot on Givens's chest as a lift to clamber out of the hole.

Much later in the morning a Second Lieutenant and a squad came out and brought him in. When examined at the field hospital it was found that he had twenty-three pieces of shrapnel in his body. Now this number has been reduced to eleven pieces, and it is thought he will recover. The wounded soldier is confident he will, for he said, "I am going to wait until I get another chance at Fritz." Givens is now a Sergeant.

When the Major saw Captain Archie Roosevelt on March 22 the latter was also hoping he would soon be back into action. The Captain's left arm was broken in two places and his left knee joint was broken. Three years ago that would have meant lameness for life. Major Simmons said that now science is doing such wonders that the Captain will have no mark left to tell of his wounds.

While inspecting one hospital Major Simmons saw a young fellow from a Western artillery regiment. In one of the attacks that preceded the drive this lad served his gun until a bullet entered his left breast just under the heart. The surgeons looked upon his case as hopeless. The wounded soldier was perfectly conscious and was tossing about on his cot. After the surgeon dressed his wound, he said gravely:

"You have only one chance for life. If you lie perfectly quiet for eight days you may recover."

For eight days that soldier did not move even to eat. He has now passed the critical stage.

"I did it," he told Major Simmons, "But it was hell." The Major offered to take any message back to the United States he wished to send.

"Tell my Aunt Sarah in St. Louis that you saw me and not to worry, as I am getting well."

"Give me your name?" said the Major.

"All right," replied the patient, "Take out a pencil and pad. Here it is: VON (with a small V), HOLTZENDORF—Gee, wouldn't the Huns be tickled if they knew they had wounded a man by that name."

CHAMBERLAIN FOR CABINET.

London Times Suggests He Is About to Join War Body.

LONDON, April 16.—The committee which is in charge of the drafting of an Irish Home Rule bill, says The Times, includes J. Austen Chamberlain, former Secretary for India. This, it adds, is a "fact which suggests that he already is or is about to become a member of the War Cabinet."

The same paper prints an appeal from Unionist members of Parliament urging the immediate introduction of a measure of home rule "as generous as can be devised by the light of the recent discussions of the Irish convention and in harmony with the ultimate goal of Federal devolution."

The appeal is signed by Laurence Hardy, J. F. Mason, Arthur Shirley Benn, George R. Lane-Fox, Leslie O. Wilson, and George Lloyd.

THE NEED OF THE HOUR.

"Force to the utmost."—Woodrow Wilson.

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
The force of right,
The force of might,
The force to help our brave boys fight,
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
Heaven help us now
To keep that vow
Nor to the weakling's gods to bow.
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
Our men are there,
To do and dare
They need—more than our pious prayer—
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
The call is strong,
Delay is wrong,
Arise, and stand where you belong.
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
The hour is here,
The issue clear,
Our Father's sons can feel no fear.
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
Hark to the cry!
If need be, die!
Our country's crucial hour is nigh.
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
Oh, let this be our righteous boast,
We gladly give what costs us most.
Be this our only wartime toast,
Force to the utmost, Force!

Force, Force, Force,
Force to the utmost, Force!
Regardless of the price we pay,
Regardless of the joys we slay,
Regardless—and we'll win the day.
Force to the utmost, Force!

COURT-MARTIAL FOR SPIES.

Chamberlain Bill Would Take Sedition Cases from Criminal Courts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Under a bill offered today by Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, sedition would be punished by court-martial, instead of by the criminal courts. The Oregon Senator, backed by a majority of the Military Affairs Committee, urged the passage of the measure as a means of dealing swiftly with German spies.

Senator Chamberlain offered his bill as an amendment to the Sedition act passed last Summer. He explained, in a subsequent statement, that he felt that spy operations could not be handled expeditiously under the existing law. By putting spy activities in the hands of the military, he said, there would be assurance of speedy disposition of offenders. Under the existing law, he pointed out, those charged with spy work are allowed the privilege of bail. Under the bill offered today no bail is allowed.

"Allowing bail to individuals accused of spy work merely gives the accused—if he wants to take advantage of it—the opportunity to pursue his activities," said Senator Chamberlain. "It has been shown in many instances that the privilege of bail has been used in furthering spy plots. The Government ought to deal swiftly with spies, and the quickest method is by military process."

Text of the Bill.

Here is the bill as offered by Senator Chamberlain:

> A bill to subject to trial by court-martial persons who endanger the good discipline, order, movements, health, safety, or successful operations of the land or naval forces of the United States by acting as spies in time of war in the United States, and for other purposes.
> Be it enacted, &c., that, owing to changes in conditions of modern warfare, whereby the enemy now attempts to attack and injure the successful prosecution of the war by the United States, by means of civilian and other agents and supporters behind the lines spreading false statements and propaganda, injuring and destroying the things and utilities prepared or adapted for the use of the land and naval forces of the United States, thus constituting the United States a part of the zone of operations conducted by the enemy, any person, whether citizen or subject of the enemy country, or otherwise, who shall anywhere in the United States, in time of war, endanger or interfere with, or attempt to endanger or interfere with, the good discipline, order, movements, health, safety, or successful operations of the land or naval forces of the United States (a) by causing or attempting to cause insubordination or refusal of duty by any member of such land or naval forces, or (b) by delivering or transmitting, or causing to be delivered or transmitted, to any member of such land or naval forces, any written or printed matter which shall support or favor the cause of the enemy country or of its allies in the war, or which shall oppose the cause of the United States therein, or which shall contain any false reports or false statements intended to interfere with the successful operation of such land or naval forces, or (c) by printing or publishing any such printed matter, or (d) by performing, or attempting to perform, any act made an offense against the United States by Section 1 (a), Section 1 (b), Section 1 (c), Section 1 (d), or Section 2 of Title 1 of the act entitled "An Act to Punish Acts of Interference with the Foreign Relations, the Neutrality, and the Foreign Commerce of the United States, to Punish Espionage, and for Other Purposes," approved June Fifteenth, Nineteen Hundred and Seventeen, as amended, or (e) by performing or attempting to perform, any act made an offense against the United States by the act entitled, "An Act to Punish the Destruction or Injury of War Material and War Transportation Facilities by Fire, Explosives or Other Violent Means and to Forbid Hostile Use of Property During Time of War and for Other Purposes," approved April —, Nineteen Hundred and Eighteen, or (f) by performing, or attempting to perform, any act made an offense against the United States by Section 12 or Section 13 of the Act entitled, "An Act to Authorize the President to Increase Temporarily the Military Establishment of the United States," approved May Eighteenth, Nineteen Hundred and Seventeen, shall be deemed to be a spy and be subject to trial by general court-martial, or by a military commission of the army, or by a court-martial of the navy, and, on conviction thereof, shall suffer death or such other punishment as said general court-martial, or military commission, or court-martial shall direct.
> Section 2. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to repeal the provisions of Sections 1,342, as amended, 1,343, and 1,624 of the Revised Statutes.

The Case of Berger.

The anomalous spectacle of Victor Berger, indicted for sedition and at liberty on bail, running for election to the United States Senate from Wisconsin, was cited by one of the proponents of the Chamberlain bill as an instance of the necessity for such legislation. It was argued that, under the Chamberlain measure, Berger would be under control of the military authorities and in durance peding adjudication of the charge against him.

"The moral effect of one man arrested and tried by court-martial for spy activity would be worth a hundred convictions in the criminal courts," said Senator Chamberlain. "The one feature of allowing bail makes the criminal courts unfit to handle war crimes. Under the law as it is now we indict a man for making seditious speeches and he is quickly released and is free to go ahead with his seditious work. We need instant action. If a man is guilty of sedition he ought to be brought at once to trial and in the meantime kept under lock and key, so he cannot keep up his work. All spies and seditionists ought quickly to be brought to trial. If we fail to do it we are allowing treason to run riot."

SABOTAGE BILL PASSED.

Senate Adopts Conference Report, Minus Anti-Strike Clause.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Sabotage bill, carrying penalties up to thirty years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 for injuring war materials or interfering with war industry, was made ready for the President's signature late today when the Senate accepted a conference report eliminating provisions designed to punish strikers on war contracts.

The conference report was adopted after a lengthy debate, in which Senators Sherman of Illinois and McCumber of North Dakota asserted that the labor situation was getting beyond the control of labor leaders and that Congress should take action.

Senator Hollis of New Hampshire defended the loyalty of labor, declaring that strikes in this country today were "inconsiderable." He said the passage of legislation to prevent peaceable strikes would not increase labor's efficiency. He denied that labor was responsible for the delay in the airplane program, declaring that capital was at fault.

"You can't make men work by passing laws," Senator Hollis said. "I concur in the opinion of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor that if Congress passes a law to prevent peaceable strikes that law cannot be enforced."

Senator McCumber said that never had there been so many strikes in the history of the country as since the United States entered the war.

STOPS ENEMY PATENTS.

President Also Revokes Permission to Register in Enemy Countries.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson today stopped the issuance of patents and copyrights to enemies and revoked the authority given Americans to apply for patents in enemy countries.

By executive order the President revoked authority previously vested in the Secretary of the Treasury to issue licenses to enemies to take out of the country papers, pictures, or communications relating to letters patent, copyrights, or registration of trade marks. At the same time the Federal Trade Commission was prohibited from granting licenses to American citizens to prosecute patent applications in enemy countries.

The licensing authority revoked was granted by the President on Oct. 12, 1917.

CALL FOR WOMEN AS NURSES' AIDS

Dr. Goldwater Says Hospitals Must Prepare for 150,000 Additional Patients.

MOST OF THEM FROM FRONT

Training Schools Unable to Turn Out Enough Graduates for Army Needs.

Declaring that within two years the hospitals of America would be compelled to receive at least 150,000 additional patients and that present plans for providing an adequate force of graduate nurses to care for them had been a failure, Dr. S. S. Goldwater, Director of Mount Sinai Hospital and Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Hospital and Medical Facilities, in a statement yesterday advocated the immediate training of a large number of volunteer nurses' aids. His statement follows:

"The Mayor's Committee on Hospital and Medical Facilities recently instituted an inquiry to ascertain what preparations the hospitals of the city were making to offset the shifting of graduate nurses from civil to military practice and to provide against other contingencies in the nursing field arising out of the war.

"Efforts to enlarge the training schools have not yielded substantial results. There seems to be a growing conviction that the nursing crisis can be met promptly and effectually only by the training of a large number of volunteer nurses' aids. Hospitals in New York City which have undertaken this training are Bellevue, Brooklyn, German, Mount Sinai, Post-Graduate, Presbyterian, Roosevelt, St. Luke's, and the Staten Island. Reports from these institutions show that a total of 411 aids have completed their theoretical and practical training.

Red Cross Requirements.

"The general requirements laid down by the Red Cross for the training of volunteer nurses' aids are the following:

> That candidates for admission should not be under 23 years nor over 50.
> That a paid instructor be appointed for this special work, who shall preferably be an enrolled Red Cross nurse, selected by the Superintendent of Nurses, and her appointment approved by the Red Cross Nursing Service.
> That the number of persons admitted to classes in theory should not exceed 20, and that for practical work not more than 10 should be admitted to any hospital at any one time for training.
> That the usual uniform for volunteer aids be worn during the training, but that the insignia of the Red Cross be allowed only when upon satisfactory completion of the course the aid is detailed to regular duty.
> That students entering for training as volunteer nurses' aids should be enrolled by the Red Cross Nursing Service, and that examinations be conducted and certificates awarded through that service.
> That a suitable fee be charged for the course of instruction, of which 50 cents per capita be sent to the Bureau of Nursing Service at Washington.

"In the opinion of Dr. Goldwater, the time has come for the training of volunteer nurses' aids in large numbers. It is not intended, however, to interfere in any way with the various measures that have been wisely adopted and which should be vigorously pushed, for increasing by every possible means the number of regularly enrolled pupil nurses.

"Within the next two years, the hospitals of the country, civil and military, will doubtless be called upon to care for 150,000 additional patients. There seems to be no possibility of enrolling in the training schools a corresponding number of pupil nurses. For this reason, and for this reason only, hospitals everywhere are now urged to undertake the training of nurses' aids."

Dr. Goldwater pointed out that the course he advocated was not only designed to meet a critical situation, but it was likewise calculated to keep nursing up to its present high standard in America both during and after the war.

Situation Near a Crisis.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the situation is becoming a crisis where nursing is concerned. With the demands of the army on the hospitals of the country we are likely to find ourselves facing an actual shortage of nurses in spite of the good work done by the training schools. Do you realize that if there should come over right away any large number of sick and wounded men to New York we would be hard put to find enough beds and enough nurses to care for them.

"Now, there are three ways that have been advocated for providing nurses for both civil and military needs. One, and that has been tried and found wanting, was by relying on graduates of nurses' training schools. We have been trying that for a year now, and it must be confessed little has been accomplished.

"Another way suggested has been to lower the requirements for graduate nurses and to shorten the course of training, making it easier to get a large number of women into the nursing profession. My objection to this is that it tends to lower the standards of nursing and that the influx of these new nurses will keep the standard lowered when the war is over and the need has become less acute.

"The third plan is one that has been adopted with the utmost success in England and France and has been tried out on a small scale in America, and that is to train a large number of volunteer nurses' aids, who will take up the very vital work of helping out in our civil and military hospitals during the war. I want to see this training of aids standardized and put under medical control, with a view of selecting only competent women, those best fitted for the care of patients."

At the Red Cross headquarters here yesterday it was said that the course prescribed for volunteer nurses' aids consisted of twenty-five lessons of about an hour and a half each, giving instruction in first aid and in home care of the sick. Then the prospective aid is sent to a hospital for a three months' finishing course.

CLEAR FIELD FOR NELSON.

Minnesota Democrats Not to Oppose the Republican Senator.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Senator Nelson of Minnesota announced today that he would be a candidate at the June primaries for the Senatorial nomination. He said it had been intimated that he would be unpatriotic if he did not seek re-election at this time.

"I was not a slacker in 1861 and I do not want to be a slacker in this far greater war," he said. "If reelected I shall continue to aid our Government to the best of my ability in the great task of prosecuting the war to a successful issue."

ST. PAUL, April 16.—The Democratic State Central Committee announced today that it will not place a candidate in the field to oppose Senator Nelson. It is not known whether any Democrat will find nomination papers without indorsement of the committee.

The Democratic Committee previously indorsed Senator Nelson's war policies.

BAKER RETURNS, EAGER TO RESUME

War Secretary Spurred to Renewed Energy by What He Saw at Battlefronts.

HURRIES TO THE CAPITAL

Expresses "Confidence in the Achievements of American and Allied Armies."

PERSHING'S WORK AMAZING

Secretary to Adhere to Present Plan of Giving Out Casualty Lists from France.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Steeled to the work ahead of him by personal knowledge of conditions at the battlefronts in Europe, Secretary Baker returned to his desk at the War Department tonight from his trip abroad, prepared to concentrate every energy on expediting the movement of American fighting men to France.

The War Secretary, it is understood, is not inclined to underestimate the peril that further German successes in the present onslaught against the allied lines might involve. There is no doubt, however, that he believes adequate measures to checkmate the German effort will come out of the pooling of all allied and American resources under command of General Foch.

Mr. Baker had little to say for publication. Whatever direct information the War Secretary may have as to the plans of General Foch will be for the ear of President Wilson alone.

There have been many reports that Mr. Baker went to Europe to urge unification of the allied armies under a single commander. He had no comment to make on this point. Officials familiar with the circumstances of his conferences with the British and French authorities and with Generals Bliss and Pershing, however, regard it as a most fortunate thing that he was on the scene when the German blow was struck. His presence served to expedite greatly the decision to pool allied resources in men and munitions in order to meet the new peril.

The prompt action of General Pershing in placing his men at General Foch's disposal is known to have met with Mr. Baker's hearty approval. The French General made a deep impression upon the Secretary, who is known to share fully President Wilson's belief that victory can spring only from a unified command under such a leader.

Saw Great Battlefront.

During his trip Mr. Baker visited England, France, and Italy and saw the battlefronts all along the line. As he sailed for home, the thunder of the British and German guns on the Picardy battlefront was still in Mr. Baker's ears. While that struggle was in its opening stages, his party passed along the whole British line, covering 200 miles in two nights and a day of motoring. During all that time the British guns were drumming constantly in their ears a steady, terrible roar of destruction that was with them awake or sleeping. The German bombardment was drowned by the nearer tumult of the British reply, although the shell bursts of the enemy joined in the chorus.

Later Mr. Baker saw another phase of war. In Italy he visited Venice. He found it a deserted city; its streets and canals, flanked by palaces and art works of priceless value, were deserted. An occasional soldier and here and there a lingering civilian were the only people of whom the party caught sight. Only one store, a lace shop, was noted by the party as being open. To the few persons who remain in Venice, the American Consul has become guide and helper. The American Red Cross is caring for them through him.

Mr. Baker sailed for Europe on an American cruiser. He returned on a famous liner, formerly German, but now an American transport. The trip over was rough, but on the way back calm weather prevailed, and the only incident was a radio call from a burning steamer, which the transport changed her course to answer. Otherwise the party would have landed twelve hours sooner.

When he reached France the War Secretary placed himself in the position of an American soldier just arrived at the goal of his ambition "over there." He wanted to know exactly what preparations had been made for the care of the men from the time they arrived. He knew what the Government was preparing to do on this side, but of the great matters across the water he had only cold official reports or the inadequate descriptions of returning officers.

Beginning at the debarkation ports, Mr. Baker and his party, under the guidance of General Pershing's officers, followed the life of an American soldier in France step by step until they arrived in an advanced listening post in front of the American lines. Turning back, the party followed the wounded men through the dressing stations, over the ambulance paths, and into the vast network of American hospitals that have been erected. There probably 80 per cent. of all those wounded in action will be restored to such an extent that they will return to duty. It is only the remaining 20 per cent. who will be sent home to be cared for and re-educated by the Government, not to be returned to civil life until they are fully able to support themselves and places have been found for them.

Amazed by Vastness of Work.

The whole vast project of American operations was mapped out before the Secretary. It represents one of the greatest undertakings any nation has ever engaged in, and even to the man under whose hands have passed all the plans it was amazing because of its bigness and the thorough, workmanlike way in which General Pershing and his officers are doing their great job. The figures of the task are astounding. Those who went with Mr. Baker over the whole complicated system that is being set up say that its size cannot be grasped except when it is actually seen. In the single item of warehouses for American supplies in storage behind the lines an almost unbelievable project is being rapidly completed. If all the warehouses were strung together they would stretch from Washington to New York as one vast vault of war materials in reserve.

Hundreds of miles of railway have been laid, docks and jetties constructed until today transports have made the round trip to France in sixteen days against the sixty or seventy days it took so often during the Winter.

Mr. Baker returned more than ever confident of the capacity and judgment of General Pershing for the burden of responsibility he is bearing. The American commander is said to be developing and broadening even as the army he is building is expanding.

During his visit to the American sector Secretary Baker spent some time at an artillery school where American gunners are being trained. The party witnessed a trial attack on a trench beginning with a machine-gun barrage where bullets pattered down on the hypothetical enemy position like rain, running into a light howitzer and trench mortar bombardment before which ground was torn and twisted by lighter shells, and culminating in salvos from heavy trench mortars aimed at the destruction of machine-gun nests or other local strong points that might check an advance. When it was over the party explored the bombarded position. They found that the big shells had torn holes 40 feet across and 17 feet deep wherever they landed.

Welcomed by the French.

No doubt was left in the visitors' minds of the stimulus given to French spirit by the arrival of American fighting forces in France. Mr. Baker noted repeatedly the degree of comradeship that has sprung up between the American and French soldiers, and the Americans and the civil population among whom they move daily. Differences of languages have not hindered this friendship in the least. In trains, or street cars, in barracks, in rest rooms, Mr. Baker saw for himself the cheery greetings and the complete understanding between them. France has taken the Americans to her heart and they are responding in kind.

When he went to Europe, Mr. Baker put the War Department routine from his mind. It will take some days to catch step fully with what has gone forward in his absence. He is expected, however, to face his problems with a new perspective, and officials here believe that the result will be shown in the nature of his decisions, for to a man filled with the spirit of the army in France there is no room for petty obstacles or considerations in the job ahead.

The only question on which the Secretary exercised his authority as head of the War Department during his absence related to the publication of information concerning the troops in France and their activities. He cabled instructions that all such information should be given out from the headquarters of the expeditionary forces. Mr. Baker went abroad convinced that the publication of casualty lists in the form originally used was harmless. He was quickly convinced, however, by the wisest military advisers in Europe that valuable information could be furnished to the enemy in this way, and it is very evident that General Pershing's will is to govern hereafter all that is given out about the activities of the troops in France.

Mr. Baker did not go to the White House tonight, but reported his return to the President over the telephone. Later he had a long conference at the War Department with Major Gen. March, Acting Chief of Staff, and Provost Marshal General Crowder.

On leaving his office Mr. Baker said he would see the President tomorrow, and that his story of the trip probably would be given to the public in chapters from time to time.

He said that the present system of giving our casualty lists would be continued, adding that he had learned a good deal about the subject in France, and regarded the problem as a comparatively simple one.

Returns Full of Confidence.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 16.—Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, arrived from Europe today. The Secretary was accompanied by Major Gen. William M. Black, Chief of Engineers; Colonel M. M. Brett, Ordnance Department, and several civilian attachés of his office, all of whom accompanied him when he left Washington about six weeks ago. Soon after landing from a great military transport Mr. Baker and his party started for Washington.

"I return with a sense of pride and confidence at the achievements of the allied and American troops abroad," said Secretary Baker, "and I may add that what I have seen would justify many trips across the Atlantic. I may have something more to say later, but that will be after I have arrived in Washington."

The Secretary appeared to be in the best of physical condition, and it was said he would immediately tackle the problems of his office on his return to the capital.

JEWS PROTEST TO BAKER.

Louis Marshall Files Formal Complaint of Army Discrimination.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—A protest against alleged "continuous unjust, unfair, and discriminatory treatment" of Jews in the army was filed with Secretary Baker today by Louis Marshall of New York, head of the American Jewish Committee. Mr. Marshall asked that the alleged discrimination immediately be stopped or that the officers responsible for it be brought to trial.

One of the chief complaints is that not a single Jew among the large number with the expeditionary forces in France has been commissioned from the ranks, although many commissions have been awarded.

Haven't Given Up Hope for Cyclops

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Although no word still had come today as to the fate of the big navy collier Cyclops, missing since March 14, the Navy department refused to give up all hope of her safety and will continue its search for some clue to solve her disappearance.

Daniels Flies Over Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Secretary Daniels was a passenger today with Lieutenant Doherty, a naval aviator, in a twenty-minute flight over the Capital. A service hydroaeroplane was used.

GOVERNMENT CALLS FOR 12,000 WORKERS

Skilled Volunteers Needed in Seventy-two Necessary Occupations.

PLACED WHERE QUALIFIED

Applicants of Draft Age Will Be Inducted Into Service Immediately.

The "Nation's Want Column" was issued by Provost Marshal General Crowder last night. The "want column" lists seventy-two professions and industries from all of which men are immediately wanted for induction into the military service. The list is the longest issued by the War Department since Congress declared war on Germany. The number of men who are immediately needed is about 12,000.

The call for these men, as given out last night by Draft Director Martin Conboy, is as follows:

> Skilled men within the draft age will have an opportunity to be inducted shortly into the branch of work for which they are fitted. The Government has issued a "Want Column" for the following:
> Airbrake inspectors; angle-iron smiths; general, engine, magneto, or ignition automobile mechanics and helpers; bargemen or boatmen; blacksmiths and helpers; boat builders and helpers; boilermakers and helpers; railroad brakemen, flagmen, or conductors; bricklayers; buglers; ship, bridge, house, and general carpenters, joiners, or patternmakers; caulkers; automobile, truck, or tractor chauffeurs; chemists; railroad or general clerks; cobblers; commissary storekeepers; concrete foremen or workers; cooks; cranemen; hoistmen, pile drivers, or shovel operators; crusher operators; engine dispatchers; general, surveying, machine design, or topographical draftsmen; civil, electrical, railroad, or computing engineers; locomotive engineers and firemen; general electricians; armature winders or wiremen; shipyard floorhands; bridge, building, earthwork, ship, or railroad construction foremen; gyratory or jaw crusher foremen; acetylene, hydrogen, oxygen, poison, illumination, or compressor gas plant workers; gunsmiths or operatives in gun factories; locomotive hostlers; railroad car inspectors; locomotive inspectors; engineering, optical, or electrical instrument makers and repairmen; telegraph or telephone linemen; general, bench, lathe, or railroad machinists and helpers; general mechanics; meteorologists or physicists; mine or quarry workers and helpers, drill runners, foremen, powdermen, or pumpmen, motor cyclists; molders; painters; photographers; plumbers or pipe fitters; forest rangers; car repair men; bridge, building, or ship riggers; saddlers or harnessmakers; sailmakers; ten makers or other canvas workers; railroad section hands; steersmen; sheetiron workers and helpers, solderers, or tinsmiths; stenographers; topographic or railroad surveyors, levelmen, and transitmen; tailors; teamsters; telegraph operators; telephone operators, and especially those who can speak German; timber cruisers; wagonmakers; acetylene or oxy-acetylene welders; wireless operators; yardmasters or switchmen.

"This call," said Mr. Conboy, "is for men fitted for general military service. Application must be made prior to April 27 to the local boards. If the application is accepted, he will be notified and immediately inducted into the service."

The United States Naval Reserve enlisted 156 men in New York yesterday. A drive for 2,000 recruits for the tank service was started yesterday. The tank units are now being recruited to full war strength, and the men as fast as recruited are sent to the tank training camp, on the Gettysburg battlefield. Tractor, auto-truck, motor cycle men, radio operators, and gas men are among those needed by the tank organization. The recruiting office for the tanks is at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue.

The Quartermaster Corps has also issued an appeal for men for the stevedore regiments.

EXPELS PROF. THOMAS.

Chicago University Drops Sociologist Arrested with Woman.

CHICAGO, April 16.—William Isaac Thomas, Professor of Sociology at the University of Chicago, who was arrested at a hotel last week with Mrs. R. M. Granger, the young wife of an army officer now serving in France, was dismissed from the university Faculty today.

This action was taken at a secret session of the Board of Trustees upon recommendation of President Harry Pratt Judson. Professor Thomas was not present and, it is understood, made no defense.

Although Professor Thomas's dismissal closes the case so far as the university is concerned, Federal and civil authorities continue their investigations into the movements of the professor, who is 55 years old, and Mrs. Granger, who is 24. On Friday Professor Thomas will be called before the Morals Court to face a charge of disorderly conduct. A warrant has also been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Granger on the same charge, but has not been served because of her illness.

Mrs. Thomas, wife of the professor, who has been nursing Mrs. Granger, said today that she was still very ill. Mrs. Thomas has called her husband's actions those of a "silly boy." Mrs. Granger still refers to Professor Thomas as "Daddy."

Meanwhile Federal agents, having traced the movements of the couple from New York to Chicago, via Washington, have submitted new evidence against them to the Department of Justice.

MISS OGDEN BETROTHED.

New York Girl to Wed Capt. H. G. W. Bradley of Grenadier Guards.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MARY PICKFORD PAYS A RECORD INCOME TAX

Same Lawyer's Clerk Hands In Douglas Fairbanks's Check, Also Reported in Six Figures.

Mary Pickford, the movie actress, yesterday found time in the midst of Liberty Loan campaigning to file her income tax return with an accompanying check which startled the cashier in Internal Revenue Collector Mark Eisner's office at 1,150 Broadway. Douglas Fairbanks also filed his return and paid the accruing tax to Collector Eisner through the same lawyer's clerk. Both stars had received extensions within which to file their returns which, under a ruling by Internal Revenue Commissioner Daniel C. Roper, had to be accompanied by remittances to pay the tax.

While Collector Eisner said the rules of the Internal Revenue office made it impossible for him to divulge the amounts paid the Government by the two stars, it was said on good authority that Miss Pickford's tax was the largest thus far taken in by the Government representing income earned by any stage favorite. It was said further that both Miss Pickford's and Mr. Fairbanks's payments were so greatly in excess of any other professional income taxes received to date that no comparison was possible. It was asserted that both checks were written in six figures and almost touched the seventh. Enrico Caruso paid a tax of $59,000 and John McCormack's tax was reported at $75,000.

Mary Pickford, accompanied by her mother and attorney, Denis F. O'Brien, appeared before two Supreme Court Justices yesterday. In one case she began her examination before trial in a suit of her former manager, Cora C. Wilkenning, to recover $110,000 for services. Before Justice Mullan she aided in the selection of a jury to hear a suit of a lawyer to recover $5,000 for services. Miss Pickford's attorney declined to comment on a telegram from California regarding the intentions of Owen Moore, her husband.

REV. DR. J. MAGRUDER DIES AT TELEPHONE

Baltimore Minister, in War Camp Service, Found Dead, Standing in Harvard Club Booth.

The Rev. Dr. James Magruder of Baltimore, a Methodist minister and a division manager of the War Camp Community Service, was found dead in a telephone booth in the Harvard Club yesterday by an employe of the club, who noticed the body standing upright. Dr. Calvelle of Bellevue Hospital said death had probably been due to heart disease. Dr. Magruder became a guest of the club a week ago. He was to have been one of the speakers yesterday at a luncheon of department heads of the War Camp Community Service held in the Civic Club.

For the last ten years Dr. Magruder had been Secretary of the Federated Charities of Baltimore, and for eight years was a member of the Faculty of Goucher College there. Before joining the War Camp Community Service he had been Associate Director General of the Civilian Relief of the American Red Cross at Washington. Dr. Magruder was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University and Drew Theological Seminary. He had also studied at the University of Cambridge in England. Not long after ordination he was professor of political economy in Ohio Wesleyan University. He had held pastorates in Springfield, Ohio; Cincinnati, and Portland, Me. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa fraternity.

SENATOR JAMES IN HOSPITAL

Kentucky Democrat Undergoes Examination—Operation Probable.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 16.—Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky came to Baltimore today for a physical examination at Johns Hopkins Hospital. Dr. Llewellyn F. Barker made the examination, and within a few days will give the Senator a report on his condition.

Senator James was accompanied by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, physician to President Wilson. Dr. Grayson, who has been attending Senator James for some time, gave Dr. Barker particulars concerning the ailment.

At his hotel Senator James said he was feeling quite well and was not at all alarmed over what he termed his slight ailment; but, he said, he desired certain small physical irregularities to receive immediate attention. He said he probably would remain here a few days.

It is believed by friends of the Senator that an operation will be necessary.

2,000 MEET STONE CORTEGE.

Throng at St. Louis Station—Body to Lie in State at Capitol Today.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 16.—The train bearing the body of Senator William J. Stone, who died Sunday in Washington, reached here tonight en route to Jefferson City, where the body will lie in state at the Capitol tomorrow. The cortege then will move to Nevada, Mo., where funeral services and interment will take place on Thursday.

A regiment of home guards, uniformed mail carriers, policemen, and a civil escort of 100 Missourians met the train. The immediate survivors, Mrs. Stone, the widow; Judge Kimbrough Stone, the Senator's son; Miss Mabel Stone, daughter; Mrs. John W. Parkinson of St. Joseph, Mo., and a niece, Miss Margaret Winston, did not leave the private car.

The Senate Committee, headed by Senator Reed, and the House Committee, headed by Speaker Clark, were taken to the St. Louis Club for dinner.

Speaker Clark received a telegram calling him to Washington on important business, and planned to depart for the capital tonight.

More than 2,000 persons crowded about the station when the train arrived.

Eugene Goadby.

Eugene Goadby, a real estate broker who had been active until several days ago in the campaign for Liberty Loan subscriptions, died yesterday from pneumonia at his home, 21 West Thirty-fifth Street, in his fifty-seventh year. Mr. Goadby turned his real estate office over to the Liberty Loan Committee and enrolled his office staff as voluntary solicitors to sell bonds. He left his aged mother, with whom he made his home, and two brothers, William H. and Arthur Goadby. Mr. Goadby was a member of the Racquet and Tennis Club.

BERGOUGNAN TIRES

OVERHEARD

"Hello, is this Columbus 7288?"

"Yes. What can we do for you?"

"What is the price of your 34 x 4 Non-skid?"

"$40.75."

"That's fair enough if the tire is all right. What's the guarantee on it?"

"We guarantee it for a minimum of 5,000 miles, but if you are a careful driver and don't try to do any Steeplechasing, you probably will get seven or eight thousand miles out of it."

"I never got any such mileage out of any tire I ever used, and I've tried a dozen makes. What do you put into yours to make them any better than the rest?"

"Well, perhaps we have more experience than most. We have been twenty years learning how to make them, and that counts."

"I thought it was a new tire."

"No, indeed. We changed the name, that's all. They used to be sold under the name of Gaulois Tires. The Etablissements Bergougnan began making them in Clermont-Ferrand, France, in 1897. Another thing we put in Bergougnan Tires is care and time. Bergougnan workmen are not paid according to the number of tires they make, but according to the number of mistakes they don't make. They make fewer tires, but each tire is perfect when it leaves the factory."

"Well, that sounds reasonable enough. My friend Jones told me about the tires, and he praised them so extravagantly that I thought I'd look into it. Send me two. I'll put them on opposite two new ...... tires I just bought and see which tires give me the best mileage."

"That's fine. We always welcome a test of this character. That's how we make permanent customers."

"All right. By the way, how do you pronounce that name of yours? It certainly is a jaw-breaker."

"It's not so bad when you know how. Just say:

"BEAR—GOO—NIAN."

"BEAR—GOO—NIAN?"

"That's it."

"Oh. Very well."

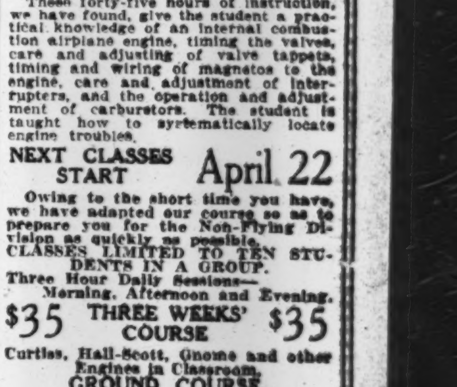
INSTRUCTION.



Airplane Mechanics

TRAINED MEN will be needed by the thousands. While awaiting your turn in the draft we can fit you for any kind of work in connection with the NON-FLYING DIVISION of the AVIATION CORPS and AIR-CRAFT INDUSTRY.

OUR COURSES give the student the knowledge and training needed by an AIRPLANE MECHANIC or aviator student before entering the GOVERNMENT GROUND SCHOOL.

Special Aero Engine Course
3 Weeks Period of Three Hours Daily

Practical instructors carry the student through every essential phase of airplane engine work. Technical details are explained in terms so simple that any novice can understand them.

These forty-five hours of instruction, we have found, give the student a practical knowledge of an internal combustion airplane engine, timing the valves, care and adjusting of valve tappets, timing and wiring of magnetos to the engine, care and adjustment of interrupters, and the operation and adjustment of carburetors. The student is taught how to systematically locate engine troubles.

NEXT CLASSES START April 22

Owing to the short time you have, we have adapted our course so as to prepare you for the Non-Flying Division as quickly as possible.

CLASSES LIMITED TO TEN STUDENTS IN A GROUP.

GIANTS BEGIN ANOTHER CHASE FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT WITH VICTORY OVER DODGERS

30,000 FANS GREET BASEBALL'S RETURN

General Mann, General Uproar, and General Delight Present as Giants Beat Dodgers.

PLAYERS RECEIVE CHEERS

Doyle and Young Especially Selected for Applause in Contest Which Brooklyn Loses, 6 to 4.

The Giants inaugurated a new baseball season at the Polo Grounds yesterday and gave a crowd of 30,000 spectators a feeling of ticklish delight by bumping the Brooklyn Dodgers to defeat in the midst of a patriotic spectacle which was full of color and martial enthusiasm. Such an outpouring of fans has not attended an opening at the Polo Grounds in many years, and the mammoth matinée showed that the folks of Gotham are anxious to see baseball in war time.

The spanking of the ball players from the other end of the subway by McGraw's frisky team was only one happy incident of an entertaining afternoon. General William A. Mann, who led the Rainbow Division to France, was there, and threw out the first ball. General Uproar and General Racket, to say nothing about General Delight, were also out enjoying the finest bit of Spring weather that has been on tap this year. It was something of a happy thrill to sit in the warm sunshine and watch the players gambol on the greensward, for it was the first absolute proof any one has seen that Winter has gone for good and all.

There was plenty of cheering to put the crowd in a joyous mood long before the game began. The Naval Reserves from Pelham Bay and the boys in khaki from Fort Slocum headed by their drum corps and brass band marched around the field with the ball players. The players, of course, were out of step as the parade wound its way about the park to centre field, where the colors were raised on the tall flagpole.

All Sing National Anthem.

It was something of an impressive picture just before the game when the band assembled at the home plate and played "The Star-Spangled Banner." The great crowd stood with bared heads and joined in the chorus.

Many of the familiar fans were missing, but their seats were filled up by older fans. There were many prominent New Yorkers oin the boxes and in the crowded tiers of seats were well-known characters who form a part of every large gathering in Gotham. Boosters for the Liberty Loan worked diligently, and after the game there was speechmaking entreaties to buy bonds and support the many fans who have gone to France.

The ball players on both clubs were as nervous as débutantes. The pitchers showed that they haven't quite rounded into shape for the season's campaign yet, and the Dodgers did a lot of butter-fingered fielding which showed that Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the Dodger boss, hasn't quite got his youngsters broken to facing big crowds yet. Uncle Wilbert's team has been pretty well shot to pieces because so many of his boys have gone to the front, but he smiles just the same and will do the best possible with the talent he has on hand. Uncle Wilbert still casts the largest shadow in baseball, and if he has religiously followed the ten commandments of Herbert Hoover he does not look it.

All the Giants got a warm greeting, but none as flattering as the applause which greeted Laughing Larry Doyle. He's back again at his old post at second base and slapped out a couple of hits just to give the lie to the gossips who have predicted that he was on his way to the old men's home. Cordial was the greeting which came to Ross Young, the new sensation of the Giants' collection. Young is planted in right field, where Robertson used to inhabit, and when McGraw said last Fall that Young was the fastest lad who has broken into the big baseball circus in many years, he evidently knew what he was talking about.

Young is a bundle of springs and bounds around the bases like an acrobat. He can everlastingly pound the ball, and he got two healthy hits yesterday. Hi Myers ran almost to the centre-field fence for a sensational grab which robbed Young of a glittering home run.

The two pitchers who started the game, Tesreau for the Giants and Rube Marquard for the Dodgers, both fell by the wayside, Marquard being hammered out of the box in the first inning. Both twirlers showed better condition on the Spring trips than their teammates, and they were given the honor of pitching the opener. Ross Young peppered the first ball Marquard tossed at him in the first inning for a single to centre. That was the place that General Uproar woke up and began to enjoy the game. There was an Indian chief at the game boosting the Liberty Loan. He came from the Broadway Reservation, and his name is Chief No-Place-to-go-after-1-o'Clock. He danced the war dance of the famous old tribe of the Cabarets when Young got his first hit.

Marquard Chased Quickly.

Marquard was throwing them up like tossing a bean bag in that first inning, and one after another the Giants spilled the ball all over the outfield. After a cloudburst of four hits Uncle Robby sent Marquard to the club doctor to get a shot of nerve steadier. Larry Cheney, the old lifesaver of the Dodgers, came over the horizon and lasted until the fourth, when he was shelved to make room for Clarence Mitchell to pose as a pinch hitter. Mitch lifted a rocket to Benny Kauff and Burleigh Grimes finished the game for Brooklyn.

Tesreau looked like ready money for three innings, but in the fourth the Dodgers' bats got in the way of everything he threw. Fred Anderson came out of the warming-up pen in centre field and the Dodgers got only two hits after that.

Heinie Zimmerman's past was erased by his friends from the Bronx, who sat over back of third base and they have now dropped the Heinie and call him Henry. Johnny Cook, the leader of the Zimmerman Admiration Guild, had the distinction of wearing the first straw hat of the season. That is, he wore it during the first few innings, but after that the hat looked like a bouquet of shredded wheat.

Young Starts Scoring.

Young started with a single off Marquard in the first and went to third on Kauff's rap to right. Burns sent Young home with a single and Kauff went to third. Zimmerman rolled to O'Mara and Kauff died at the plate. Larry Doyle celebrated his re-entrance in New York society by nipping a single to centre which Myers fumbled and Burns raced home and Zim went to third. That was all for Marquard, and with Cheney pitching Captain Arthur Fletcher rolled to O'Mara and Zim was run down between the bases. Holke singled to left and coaxed Doyle home.

The Dodgers got one in the second. Myers singled along the carpet to Kauff, but Benny's hands were slippery and Hi went to second. He tallied on Hickman's Texas Leaguer to short centre. The Brooklyns got another in the third when, with one out, Cheney singled through second, went down on Olson's single, and scored on Jake Daubert's drive to right.

In that same third round the Giants got another. Burns was safe on Olson's fumble, went to second on Zimmerman's out at first, proceeded to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Doyle's sacrifice fly to centre. Myers displayed a new way of trying to cut off a sacrifice fly by throwing the ball around the lot instead of trying to throw it to the plate.

Still one more came to the Dodgers in the fourth. Johnston and Hickman both singled off Tesreau, and then Anderson took up the pitching job. He fanned the Brooklyn recruit Schmandt for a starter, but Johnston scored as Miller was being expunged at first by Doyle.

The Giants made victory certain in the fourth. Holke lifted a fly to centre, and Myers came racing in for the ball. The ball nestled coyly in his outstretch hands, but, instead of squeezing it, the ball bounded out of his paws. A wild pitch by Cheney pushed Holke to second, and McCarty walked. Anderson then laid a bunt along the third-base line, which Grimes fielded, but threw to third to get Holke, and was half an hour late. Young tore off his second hit to centre, and Holke tallied. Kauff whacked a sacrifice fly to Myers in deep centre, and McCarty trotted home.

Brooklyn's last run was harvested in the eighth, when, with one out, Daubert smashed a double to left. He went to third when Doyle fumbled Myers's grounder, and scored when Fletcher went over near the boxes to get Johnston's foul fly. He made a great catch, but was in no position to throw, and Daubert scored.

ONE HIT OFF SCHNEIDER.

Cincinnati Pitcher Starts Season with Shutout Victory.

CINCINNATI, April 16.—Schneider's superior pitching, combined with costly errors by the visitors, enabled Cincinnati to win the opening game of the season here today from Pittsburgh by a score of 2 to 0. One hit was all that Pittsburgh obtained off Schneider, and there was never a time during the game when it seriously threatened to score.

Cooper also pitched good ball, allowing only three hits. He stumbled at first base in the seventh inning while covering a throw, fell and wrenched his ankle so severely that he had to be carried off the field.

Cincinnati's two runs were scored when Groh reached first on Caton's wild throw, went to second on L. Magee's sacrifice and scored on Roush's single. Roush took second on the throw-in, went to third when McKechnie dropped a throw and scored on Chase's out.

RALLY BY SENATORS TRIPS YANKEE TEAM

Bunched Hits in Eighth Inning Tear Victory from Grasp of Huggins's Clan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The Yankees had ten bases on balls handed to them here this afternoon, but all this generosity was not enough to carry them to victory. The Senators, battling from behind most of the way, finally came through with a big drive in the eighth inning and took away a game that had all the early marks of a Yankee success. The score was 7 to 6.

The score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Yanks when the Senators took their turn at bat in the eighth. Foster lined hard to Baker, and was an easy out. Milan beat out a bunt along the first-base line, Pipp making a dive to tag him, but in vain. This innocent little roller started all the trouble which broke up the ball game. Shanks followed Milan with a drive to deep right for three bases, cutting the Yankees' lead in half and putting the tying run on third base.

Huggins, walking out from the bench, beckoned Caldwell to come in, and waved Russell into the game.

A second guess is that Caldwell might have gone along as well as his successor did. Judge greeted Russell with a single to centre, and Shanks walked in with the tying run. Morgan's roller slipped away from Peck as he ran in to make a quick play, and after Lavan flied to Miller for the second out, Ainsmith drew a pass, this filling the bases. With a pitcher at the plate, the Yankee cause did not seem entirely hopeless, but the little pitcher, George Dumont, made it so. He drove a double into left field and two runners came to the plate.

The Yanks made a bid to take the lead again in the ninth, but the rally ended in a strike-out by Hugh High, batting for Russell. Pipp walked, Baker was called out on strikes, and Bodie singled through short, sending Pipp to second. After Peck had fouled out to Ainsmith, Hannah hit a long single to right, scoring Pipp and sending Bodie to third. Huggins sent Ruel in to run for Hannah and High to bat for Russell. Ruel stole second and made it possible for High to put his team ahead with a single, but Hughie fanned ingloriously, watching the third strike flit past.

Harry Harper was Griffith's original pitching choice, but he walked five men of the nine who faced him and he gave way to Ayers in the second inning. After three passes had filled the bases in the opener Baker chased Gilhooley in with a sacrifice fly to Shanks. In the third Pratt, Pipp, and Baker greeted Ayers with successive singles, the first-named scoring.

The Senators tied things up in the same inning on a pass to Ainsmith, a sacrifice by Ayers, and singles by Shotten and Milan. In the fifth Bodie drove in a run with a single after Pipp and Baker had drawn passes, and Ayers forced Baker home by handing out two more passes.

In the Senators' seventh Judge walked and was forced by Morgan. The latter reached third on Lavan's single and scored on a clean hit by Frank Schulte, making his American League début as a pinch hitter for Ayers. A single by Gilhooley and Miller's double gave the Yanks a run in the eighth, and then came the Senators' rally.

VICTORY GREETS PHILLIES.

Mayer's Pitching and Hitting Humble Braves, 5 to 2.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Mayer was Philadelphia's star performer today in the season's opening game, which the home team won from Boston 5 to 2. He allowed two singles, one of them an infield scratch, in the first seven innings, and in the seventh he started the batting onslaught which clinched victory for his team.

He tripled to deep centre with one out, scoring on Bancroft's single. McGaffigan followed with a single, and Stock drove both home with a double to centre. Conway threw wild trying to catch Stock going to third, and the latter scored the fourth Philadelphia run of the inning.

ALEXANDER LOSES GAME.

St. Louis Cardinals Beat Cubs' Star Pitcher, 4 to 2.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 16.—St. Louis opened the National League season here with a 4 to 2 victory over Chicago. The locals hit Alexander for nine hits, for a total of seventeen bases, while Meadows held the visitors scoreless until the ninth, when a rally netted two runs.

Manager Jack Hendricks, who appeared as a major league pilot for the first time, received an ovation. Charles Hollocher, a St. Louis boy, now with the Cubs, was presented with a watch as a gift from local friends.

ALEXANDER MUST JOIN ARMY

Draft Board Refuses Pitcher's Request to Enter Navy.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 16.—There is little chance for Grover Cleveland Alexander, twirler for the Chicago National League baseball team, to enter the navy instead of going with the April draft quota from Howard County, Nebraska, the pitcher's home, according to a statement made here today by Captain Walter L. Anderson, representative in Nebraska of Provost Marshal General Crowder. Unless Alexander is able to secure permission to join the navy from military authorities at Washington, he will have to go with his contingent from St. Paul to Camp Funston.

"Alexander had all Winter to join the navy if he wanted to," Captain Anderson said. "Our general orders are to release no registrants to the navy after they have been called for duty in the army, and there is no reason why Alexander should be taken out of his present quota."

KILLIFER SUBJECT TO CALL.

Alexander's Battery Mate Placed in Class 1-A.

KALAMAZZO, Mich., April 16.—William Killifer, battery mate of Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs, who has been drafted, was placed in Class 1A, subject to immediate call, by the district draft board here late today. Killifer was originally placed in Class 4A by the local board at Paw Paw. The Government appealed the case, and upon investigation the board found that Killifer was a man of property; that he had been employed for at least ten years as a baseball star at $5,000 a year, and that his wife was able to care for herself. Killifer was married last October.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS BEATEN BY BROWNS

Former Yankees Help to Defeat White Sox by a Score of 6 to 1.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The American League season opened here today with a 6 to 1 victory for St. Louis over Chicago. The visitors pounded the world's champions' pitchers freely to all parts of the field, Gedeon leading the attack with four hits, which included a double and a triple. After the game, Owner Phil Ball gave each of the players $50 as a reward for their good start.

Lowdermilk held the locals to four scattered hits and might have scored a shutout except for a base on balls and an error, which were followed by a single.

Manager Rowland used four pitchers, incuding his world series pair—Cicotte and Faber—in an attempt to check the slugging of Jones's men.

A crowd estimated at about 18,000, including a number of soldiers from Fort Sheridan and some jackies from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, witnessed the game. A parade by the jackies and soldiers and the purchase of $25,000 worth of Liberty bonds by members of the Chicago team, preceded the game. A service flag with eight stars flew from the flag pole in right field.

C. C. N. Y. GAME CANCELED.

Manhattan Contest Abandoned Because of Few Candidates.

Because Manhattan College cannot muster a baseball team it has notified the College of the City of New York that it is forced to cancel the scheduled game for this afternoon. The 'Varsity team at C. C. N. Y. has had bad luck in the first part of its schedule. Columbia's match was called off and Cathedral could not play on account of bad weather.

FORDHAM TO MEET TUFTS.

Maroon Nine to Open Home Baseball Season Today.

Fordham will open its home baseball season this afternoon with the Tufts nine. The Maroon coach supplanted Keough at centre field with Abbott yesterday and sent Dwyer to shortstop to fill the gap caused by the injury to Lucey. Jim McQuade will twirl.

COLUMBIA PLAYS TODAY.

Changes Made in Lineup for Game with Swarthmore.

Several changes in the lineup of the Columbia baseball nine will mark the team's meeting with Swarthmore on South Field this afternoon. Coach Coakley has put Johnny Ackerman, who has been playing first base this season, into right field. Goodman will take Ackerman's old position at first. Houlahan, a football man, will probably start today in left field instead of Weinstein.

SCHAEFER BEATS COCHRAN.

Makes Average of 60 in Beating His Rival, 300 to 53.

Playing remarkably clever billiards, young Jake Schaefer scored another victory over Welker Cochran last night at Maurice Daly's Academy, the score being 300 to 53. Schaefer established the best average that he has made since he came East, running out his string in five innings for an average of 60. Until the fifth inning Cochran was still in the race, although he was trailing somewhat behind his rival. With the ivories under fine control, Schaefer clicked off the points rapidly and with precision until he ran out his string with a cluster of 187, the highest run which he has made in Eastern play.

Cochran got in only one run of any sizable proportions, when he put together a count of 41 in the third inning. His fourth inning gave him not a point; and at the start of the next inning Schaefer began his run which was to clinch victory. The defeat is one of the most decisive that have been registered against Cochran in match play. His average was only 13¼.

Schaefer was really a double winner on the day's play, for in the afternoon he vanquished Koji Yamada in a more evenly contested match by 300 to 259. In this case his average was 33. Schaefer's grand average for the 600 points that he played during the day was 42 12-14.

The scores:

A.A.U. MEETINGS SCHEDULED

Plans for Junior Track and Field Championships to be Arranged.

Two committee meetings of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. will be held within the next week. On Friday the New Jersey State Boxing Committee will hold a session to decide on plans for the annual championship tournament, which will be held in Hoboken April 23 and 25.

Monday night there will be a joint meeting of the Junior and Senior Track and Field Championship Committees to decide on dates and places for the holding of the annual outdoor games. Jake Stumpf, of the Grace Club, is Chairman of the Senior Committee, and Gerald Norman, Alpha P. C. C., is at the head of the Junior Committee.

Horse to be Auctioned at Annual Brooklyn Exhibition.

Many novel features are on the program of the Brooklyn Red Cross Horse Show which will open tonight at the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club. Chief among these will be the auctioning of a horse which has been presented by Miss Elizabeth Tousey. The auctioneer is to be Lieutenant Stanley S. Nicholas of the 5th Australian Light Horse. An auction block will be set up in the ring for this purpose. Yet another horse has been donated to this show, and he will be raffled off, subscriptions being $1 each. This second horse is the gift of David B. Rintoul of Oyster Bay.

Never was there a horse show of such unusual features before. Along with the Red Cross activities the show will be a notable one from the saddle and the jumping standpoint, and as a special event a mounted police drill has been listed for tomorrow night.

Chajes Regains Chess Lead.

Oscar Chajes, New York State chess champion, once more assumed the lead in his match with D. Janowski, champion of France, at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday when he won the fourteenth game of the series after forty-five moves. The opening was a Double Ruy Lopez, in which Chajes had the white pieces. The State champion adopted the variation, in which both of the white bishops, after being developed, are retreated to their home squares.

TEA CADDY VICTOR AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Campaigner Defeats Favorites in Opening Handicap of Maryland Track.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 16.—Thoroughbreds which have been campaigning throughout the Winter crowded the stars of the turf out of the limelight in the Harford Handicap, the inaugural feature of the Havre de Grace Spring racing season here today. M. Shea's 5-year-old Tea Caddy proved the strongest in the field and won the event in a driving finish, in which three so-called outsiders swept past the leading lights of the race and finished noses apart.

With such animals of prestige as Jack Hare, Jr., High Cost, Tumbler, and Kohinoor in the race, it was not thought that Tea Caddy, Phillipic, and Hauberk would have much of a chance, but the trio, all cast-offs of the August Belmont stable, finished in the order named. It was only in the last few strides that Tea Caddy and Hauberk got up to score. Phillipic and High Cost set the early pace, with Jack Hare, Jr., close up. In the last furlong Phillipic, which was out in front, faltered, and with him went High Cost and Jack Hare, Jr., each of which quit badly, as if short. Hauberk came on with a rush and would have won in a few more strides.

Ideal weather and a large crowd made the opening auspicious. All the events were well contested, and close finishes were the rule, as in the handicap.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; selling; five furlongs. King Worth, 117 pounds, (Molesworth,) $5.50, $3, and $2.60, won; Murphy, 117, (Troxler,) $2.90 and $2.70, second; Scarpia II., 106, (Doyle,) $10.80, third. Time—1:01. Weather clear; track good.

NO FATHER AND SON GOLF.

Annual Sleepy Hollow Tournament Has Been Abandoned.

One of the entertaining golf fixtures of the metropolitan district, which in the last three years has grown steadily in interest, will be abandoned this year, according to an announcement made by the committee in charge of tournaments at the Sleepy Hollow Country Club. This is the annual Father and Son Tournament, which in the past has attracted entries from all over the country.

No reason for the cancellation has been made, but golfers believe that it is a war issue, regardless of the fact that Sleepy Hollow has scheduled an invitation tournament of three days, to be held during the latter part of June.

GARFIELD CO. BALKS AT FEDERAL CONTROL

Worsted Mills Refuse to Co-operate with Alien Property Custodian.

CHARGE HE HAS BEEN UNFAIR

All Other Passaic Concerns Agree to Turn Their Operations Over to the Government.

A. Mitchell Palmer, the United States Alien Property Custodian, in concluding the conferences in this city by which he has arranged to have the Government take control of the worsted mill industry of Passaic, announced yesterday that the Garfield Worsted Mills, in which 48 per cent. of the total stock was owned by enemy aliens, had refused to permit the Government to have a fair representation on its Board of Directors and had declined, furthermore, to adopt the resolution by which all the other Passaic mills had agreed to turn over their entire operations, so far as mechanical facilities permit, to the production of Government material.

Mr. Palmer stated that the Garfield Worsted Mills was the first American corporation involving so large a proportion of enemy interests to refuse the Government the privilege of exercising a voice in the Board of Directors. He expressed himself as being keenly disappointed with the attitude of the Directors, and intimated before leaving for Washington last night that the Government would not permit itself to be "balked" by such a policy, and that further pressure would probably be brought to bear upon the Garfield Directors in the near future. Mr. Palmer issued this statement:

All In but Garfield Mills.

"The Garfield Mills refused to hold a meeting of their Board of Directors to elect representatives on the part of the Alien Property Custodian, and to pass resolutions similar to those passed by the other companies.

"The effect of this action on the part of these several companies is that the enemy interest in all the Passaic mills, except the Garfield Worsted Mills, has come under the control and management of the Alien Property Custodian, and every available loom of all these mills, except the Garfield, will be employed in making goods for Government use. Except in the case of the Garfield Worsted Mills, all of the Passaic companies, through their executive managers, have shown every disposition to co-operate with the Alien Property Custodian, and the Government, to the fullest extent possible."

When the foregoing statement was brought to the attention of E. T. Lamprecht, head of the Garfield Worsted Mills, he characterized it as a "most remarkable perversion of the fact," and declared that the differences between the Directors and Mr. Palmer were due entirely to the custodian's determination to impugn the loyalty and patriotism of the managers.

"We would have been glad and eager to give him all the co-operation he could have desired," said Mr. Lamprecht, "if he had approached us in a right-minded and intelligent way."

Henry M. Earle of 24 Broad Street, counsel for the Directors of the Garfield Mills, answered Mr. Palmer's statement as follows:

"Mr. Palmer's statement is a continuation of his former misstatements of facts in connection with the Garfield Worsted Mills. We have not refused to give him representation on the Board of Directors, but we have refused to do so, until we are certain that he will abandon his policy of advertising the Garfield Mills as a German-owned enterprise, and causing it great damage by so doing. The contention between the custodian and this corporation is based solely on the fact that he has repeatedly given out to the newspapers statements reflecting seriously upon the corporation and upon its management, namely, that the corporation was a part of the German woolen kartel, when its management as a matter of fact is made up entirely of American citizens.

Calls Palmer's Policy Offensive.

"In his anxiety to take a great deal of credit to himself for bringing these mills under Government control he has assumed a policy that must be offensive to every right-minded American, and we will have nothing to do with him under those circumstances. Whenever Mr. Palmer stops playing petty Pennsylvania politics in the capacity of Alien Custodian, we will co-operate with him, and do so most gladly.

"The patriotism and loyalty of our Directors are not to be impugned. The Garfield Mills are, and have been, co-operating with the Government and the War Board in every possible way. Even before Mr. Palmer came on the scene the mills were making as much material as the orders required and were working for the Government up to about 35 per cent. of their capacity. They would be working for the Government up to 100 per cent. of their capacity if the proper material was available."

Mr. Earle pointed out that the "advertising" which Mr. Palmer had given to the Garfield Worsted Mills as a German-owned enterprise has prejudiced the trade seriously against the mills, and has shown its effect in the growing feeling, especially among the trade in the West that the Garfield concern was a German corporation and one with which American buyers should have no dealings. As an indication of the willingness of the Garfield corporation to accept Government representation on its Board of Directors, Mr. Earle cited the fact that one of Mr. Palmer's representatives, Andrew B. Duvall, has already been elected a member of the board, and that the proportion of representation which Mr. Palmer required, would probably be allowed, if the custodian would only approach the managers of the mill from a different angle.

Mr. Earle said that the Directors came to the Alien Custodian's office at 111 Broadway, yesterday with the fullest intention of co-operating with Mr. Palmer, but that the Custodian made such co-operation impossible by refusing to permit the Directors to be accompanied at the conference by their counsel. In view of the "unfair" attitude which the Custodian had previously assumed toward the Garfield Directors, Mr. Earle said it was thought advisable that their counsel should be present, and this being prohibited by Mr. Palmer, the Directors declined to confer.

Directors for Government.

Mr. Palmer conferred with the directors yesterday of the New Jersey Worsted Spinning Company, the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company, and the Gera Mills. In each of these a majority of the Board of Directors has been chosen representing the Alien Property Custodian who has taken over the enemy-owned stock in each. The directors representing the Alien Property Custodian are Andrew B. Duvall of Washington, Mark A. Sullivan of Jersey City, Thomas J. Kitson of Stroudsburg, Penn., and Robert P. Hooper of Philadelphia, Penn. Each board chose an Executive Committee of four members, three of whom are directors representing the Alien Property Custodian with the usual powers of an executive committee. Each company passed the following resolutions:

> Resolved, That from this date no additional orders for the manufacture of yarn, worsted, or other fabrics for civilian or commercial purposes shall be taken without special authority of the Board of Directors first had and obtained; and that every availabe spindle and loom shall be put upon work for the United States Government, to the end that the total output of the mills shall be placed at the disposal of the United States Government; and that the President and Superintendent are hereby directed to see that this plan is put into effect forthwith.
> Resolved, That the Board of Directors of this company appoint a committee of one to confer with a like committee appointed by the Board of Directors of each of the following companies: Botany Worsted Mills, Forstmann & Huffmann Company, New Jersey Worsted Spinning Company, Passaic Worsted Spinning Company, Garfield Worsted Mills, Gera Mills, for the purpose of selecting an experienced woolen mill executive to act in a supervisory capacity under the direction of the several Boards of Directors of said companies, to see that the policy of the Government of the United States, with respect to the operation, management, and production of said mills, shall be carried out.

The Botany Worsted Mills and the Forstmann & Huffmann Company adopted substantially the same resolutions at the meeting held by the Directors of these concerns in the Alien Property Custodian's office on Monday. With the exception of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company and the Garfield Mills, all of the Passaic mills were enterprises in which the enemy aliens controlled the majority of the stock. The Forstmann & Huffmann Company was 81 per cent. enemy owned, and the Alien Property Custodian was allowed a representation of two members in the Board of Directors. In view of the fact that the Garfield Mills were 48 per cent. enemy owned, the Alian Property Custodian required that four members represent the Government on the Board of Directors.

Park Bank Club's Dinner.

The fourth annual dinner, entertainment, and dance of the Park Bank Club, composed of employes of the National Park Bank, was held last evening at the Hotel McAlpin. More than 200 members of the bank's staff were present, including officers and Directors of the institution. W. W. Major, President of the club, acted as toastmaster. Richard A. Delafield, President of the bank, made a brief address on good-fellowship.

SELL LAND FOR SHIP PLANT.

Jersey City to Transfer 25 Acres to Federal Government.

As the result of a unanimous recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of City Commissioners of Jersey City yesterday afternoon decided to sell to the Federal Shipbuilding Company, a subsidiary concern of the United States Steel Corporation, now building ships for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, some twenty-five acres of city property for the purpose of enlarging its present plant. Before presenting their petition to the City Commissioners the officers of the Federal Shipbuilding Company met with the members of the Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon. By an overwhelming vote the Chamber of Commerce went on record as favoring the sale of the property to the shipbuilding company as a patriotic duty. F. J. Faulks of New York, general attorney for the Federal Company, presented the petition for his clients. Mr. Faulks stated that the Federal Shipbuilding Company was ready to spend several million dollars in developing Jersey City's western waterfront, and particularly in establishing and maintaining a deep water channel through the mouth of the Hackensack River, which will add to the capacity of the Port of New York.

PORT IMPORTS DROP AGAIN FOR MARCH

Collector's Figures, However, Show Gain of $4,000,000 Over February.

JAPAN'S ENTRIES TREBLED

Value of Shipments from Europe Decreases $24,442,190, as Compared with Last March.

Another big drop in imports was recorded yesterday when Collector Byron R. Newton made public the entered values of foreign merchandise received in the Customs District of New York in March. The Collector's tabulation showed that whereas in March, 1917, imports here from all the world had a value of $147,901,883, they fell last month to $98,344,252, a decline of $49,557,631.

European imports, which had been steadily declining for many months, touched a new low level in March, their value being returned at only $21,593,985 against $46,036,175 in the corresponding month last year, this representing a loss of $24,442,190 compared with a year ago. Imports taken as a whole gained $4,000,000 over February, but this increase was due chiefly to heavier shipments received here in March from Asia, Japan having nearly trebled its imports compared with March, 1917. There also was a slight gain in entries from Oceania, this division covering Australia, New Zealand, and the Philippine Islands. Heavy declines were registered in entries from North and South America and Africa, from all of which the United States has been drawing an unprecedented volume of raw materials for conversion into manufactured products urgently needed for the successful prosecution of the war. The withdrawal of vessels from these trade routes in order to rush troops and supplies to France had the effect of making receipts here of wool, hides, coffee, nitrates, ores, crude oil, sugar, foodstuffs, and other products, the lowest in many months.

Italy Only Ally to Show Gain.

March entries from England were about the lowest recorded in the memory of the oldest employe at the Custom House, their value being $9,804,095 against $25,504,827 in the same month last year. Imports from France were less than one-half those of March, 1917, last month's valuation being $4,139,502, compared with $9,275,762, twelve months earlier. Italy was the only member of the Entente Allies to show a gain in entries at New York, the figures for last month being $2,393,063, and in March of last year $1,590,017.

Shipments from Russia in Europe were negligible in March, their value being $187,928, or one-third of the value returned in March, 1917. Russian imports from Asia were down to $83,500. Belgian entries were put down at $831, against monthly averages of $3,000,000 before the war. Netherlands shipments were $869,254, and those from Switzerland $944,096. Imports from Spain, Portugal, and the Scandinavian countries were far below those of March, 1917, although those from Greece showed a gain. The Custom House tabulation showed blanks for Germany, Austria, Turkey, Siberia, and Montenegro.

Cuban Sugar Shipments Fall Off.

Although Collector Newton's report dealt only in values, without reference to commodities, it was apparent that receipts of sugar from Cuba were far below those of one year ago, the March Cuban importations having a value of but $22,208,482, compared with $22,548,098 in March, 1917. Tobacco imports from the island were also thought to have been less than one year ago. Canadian products received here by the water route totaled $1,040,991, or just double those of March of last year.

The withdrawal of shipping from the South American trade was reflected by a drop in the March imports to $26,223,233, compared with $43,726,983 the same month of 1917. Japan rushed goods here in March in anticipation of the absolute embargo just made effective by the American Government on many lines of merchandise ordinarily figuring in shipments from Nippon. Japanese imports here, of which raw silk and silk manufactured goods predominated in value, reached $12,077,962, against $4,111,760 twelve months earlier. British India's shipments were less than in March, 1917, while imports from the Straits Settlements increased. African imports, which one year ago last March totaled $4,636,768, were down to $1,008,054 last month.

Alfred R. Conkling, lawyer, who was killed on Sept. 18 last by a fall from a window in his home at 157 East Seventieth Street, left an estate appraised yesterday at $215,638. His wife, Mrs. Ethel Johnson Conkling, from whom the decedent had been living apart for several years, got $48,564, as her dower interest in his real estate, valued at $235,500, and declined to accept a bequest of one-third of the personal property as well. His three daughters received $36,944 each. His brother, Howard Conkling, got $27,436, and his cousins, Alfred C. Cox, Jr., and Mrs. Catherine A. Stebbins, received $20,000, while $5,000 went to Mrs. Claire A. Samuelson, a cousin. He gave $8,000 to his butler and $1,000 to his coachman.

Fractional net gains were registered in a majority of the active issues at the close of the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Other issues were unchanged and a few had net losses. Trading in the final moments of the session was in good volume. Stocks were reactionary in the last hour. The high quotations around midday, when a pronounced rally wiped out earlier losses and registered substantial gains, were forced down before the close. This reaction was due to a heavy volume of profit taking by those who purchased on the upturn.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Irregular After Early Decline—Cotton Breaks, Then Rallies—Bonds Firm.

Sentiment toward stocks was less buoyant yesterday for obvious reasons contained in the morning's war dispatches, but after a moderate recession to take account of the less favorable aspect of the overseas news, prices recovered in most cases and the list closed irregular, with losses generally small. Capture of Bailleul by the Germans naturally created some alarm, owing to the fact that the enemy drove the defenders from sections of high ground which it was thought the British could hold against all assaults. The tone of optimism in which Secretary Baker spoke on his return from a personal inspection of the battlefronts and news that the British had begun a counterattack of considerable importance against the Germans at Neuve Eglise served to offset the earlier news and in some issues prices went to new high levels for this move.

The fluctuations on the Cotton Exchange continue to indicate a violent change is taking place, which has pretty thoroughly undermined the speculative market, that reached record high prices a short time back. There was another sharp break in futures at the opening, with prices off from 100 to 140 points, but the reaction was followed by better buying, which extinguished most of the day's declines. For the first time in the slump of the last few days strong support was brought into play by prominent interests in the trade yesterday. It appears that a great many traders, some of them cotton growers, overstayed a market which was bound to come toppling down as soon as the professional operators found how weak the foundations for the last part of the advance had become.

Liberty bonds maintained their improved position yesterday, the 4s moving through a much narrower arc, although transactions were rather large. The New York City issues were weaker. Call money loaned at 3 per cent. for renewals.

TRADING QUIET IN LONDON.

Military Developments Curtail Transactions on Stock Exchange.

LONDON, April 16.—Money was plentiful today. Business was quiet, owing to the military developments. Transactions in discounts were small.

On the stock market gilt-edged securities, especially consols, were firm, apparently owing to a short supply. Spanish 4s developed fresh strength, but later eased off. The mining shares received considerable attention, moving in favor of the holdees. Cornish, however, sold off on profit-taking. Elsewhere the market was quietly steady.

Trading Active on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, April 16.—Trading was more active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 59f. 35c. for cash. Exchange on London, 27f. 16½c. Five per cent. loan, 88f. 55c.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Peseta Exchange Rises Sharply.

Foreign exchange bankers appeared to take little interest yesterday in news that Senator Owen had consulted with President Wilson over measures to stabilize Spanish exchange. For some weeks the bankers in close touch with the peseta market have said that the demand for exchange on Madrid was so moderate that it was hardly necessary for governmental action to be taken to improve the position of the dollar in Spain. It has been pointed out that the decline of the dollar has not been the result of an unfavorable trade balance of the United States in Spain; on the contrary, the balance has favored the United States, and the primary factor in the situation is the depreciation of sterling at Madrid, which has been reflected in the dollar market. Because of the scarcity of peseta exchange here, the rate has been rising sharply of late under light bidding. Yesterday cable transfers were quoted as high as 31 cents per peseta, compared with a normal value slightly in excess of 19 cents, and a gain of more than 1 cent over Monday's closing prices. This meant a premium of more than 62 per cent. above normal. Dispatches from London on several occasions have hinted at the arrangement of a large British credit soon to be completed at Madrid. If this should be done, the bankers say, the dollar would quickly share with sterling in the recovery which would follow.

The Short Sales Tax.

While Stock Exchange members are seeing to it that the payment of stamp taxes on stocks borrowed and returned is being made on current business, inquiry yesterday indicated that little has been done in the way of collecting the taxes incident to short sales put through prior to the recent ruling by the Attorney General. The brokers are waiting for the possible result of negotiations between the special committee appointed to consider tax matters last December, and the Internal Revenue Department. While no ground appears to exist for it, a hope is discernible that the application of the law in its new light will yet be ameliorated. If the statute is made strictly retroactive to Dec. 1 last, the brokers say they will be put to it in collecting taxes due on short sales made by customers who have closed out their accounts. Where the taxes cannot be collected, the brokers feel they may be held responsible for payment to the Government of the amounts due as disclosed by their books.

Government Construction First.

The decline of general building operations since the Government began to absorb more and more of the country's steel, is displayed in the March reports on operations in the fabricating shops. The Bridge Building Society reports that the March sales of fabricated structural material amounted to 84,547 tons, equal to 47 per cent. of the nation's shop capacity. In February orders for structural steel equaled about 55½ per cent. of capacity, and in March last year they were equal to 68 per cent. Of the tonnage booked in March last practically 75 per cent. was on Government contracts.

Cotton and Human Nature.

As usually happens when there are unusual fireworks in any market, the cotton market these days of excitement is showing some queer quirks in human nature in the gossip around the ring. There were to be heard there yesterday: the persistent and untameable bull who explained away a total drop in quotations of 650 points by the machinations of a few bear operators on the floor; the equally persistent bear who accounted for the same event as a moral retribution for the sins of the men who had sought to make excessive profits out of the agony of the world by holding cotton for 40 cents a pound; the opposing sets of statistics, one proving that the market must immediately turn around and go up to higher levels than ever, and the other proving that the break is only beginning, and, finally, telegrams from indignant Southerners, who two weeks ago were fiercely repelling suggestions of a Government-fixed price of 30 cents as an interference with the sacred law of supply and demand, and who now are hinting that that identical price is needed to save the poor Southern farmer from the wicked speculators.

Supreme Court Won't Interfere.

By refusing on Monday to issue a writ of certiorari in the case of the Equitable Trust Company against the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, the Supreme Court of the United States put the final quietus on the legal side of the long, entangled dispute which began back in 1902 when the Denver & Rio Grande guaranteed the Western Pacific bonds. As it stands now, the Equitable Trust Company's judgment in favor of the Western Pacific bondholders for around $38,000,000 cannot possibly be upset, and the reorganization of the Denver's affairs must wait on the receivership, with possible assistance from Mr. McAdoo.

Look Hopefully Toward Washington.

Since Mr. McAdoo's revolving fund revolved so beneficently to help the New Haven out of its most pressing troubles, a number of other railroad men, to judge from their conversation, would not be displeased at being the subjects of a similar demonstration. At least tables of maturities are being studied with care. They do not reveal an yother issue falling due this year comparable in size with the New Haven, but the New York Central has some $10,000,000 in notes to meet in the near future, and there are various smaller issues concerning which the men upon whom falls the responsibility of payment feel more hopeful since the New Haven precedent.

Shipping Market Narrower.

Another twist has been given the noose about the neck of the open shipping market in this country by the adoption by the Shipping Board of a further advance in their policy of absolute control of all shipping available. The latest step is the chartering, on time, of practically all loose tonnage, which means neutral steamers, as everything else has disappeared from the open market long since. This step was taken in order to obtain control of berthing rates, which hitherto have been beyond the reach of the board, and have given opportunity for some flagrant profiteering by small neutral owners. Since the seizure of the Dutch ships, however, they have learned the meaning of the right of angaria, and are rapidly being persuaded to turn their ships over to the Shipping Board on long time charters. Of course these ships do not reappear in the market, but are allotted to American firms to operate for Government account. The business is being handled by the Shipping Board's Chartering Committee, which has added to its duties in chartering review those of active chartering agent of the Government.

BANK ELECTS PRESIDENT.

William F. H. Koelsch Chosen Head of the New Netherland.

William F. H. Koelsch, Vice President and Director of the Bank of United States since its organization in 1913, was elected yesterday President of the New Netherland Bank of New York, 41 West Thirty-fourth Street. He succeeds J. Adams Brown, who resigned from the Presidency to accept an office with another institution.

Directors of the New Netherland Bank at their meeting yesterday added to their board E. D. Flannery of A. Steinhardt & Co., Charles R. Henschel of Knoedler & Co., and Charles Lotte of the National Silk Dyeing Company. Mr. Koelsch was also elected a Director.

Mr. Koelsch is 43 years old and is a native of New York City. He has been in the banking business since 1890, when he started in as a messenger in the office of the Metropolitan Trust Company. After spending thirteen years with that institution he went to the Mutual Alliance Trust Company as Secretary and Treasurer. Later he became manager of the credit department of the Guaranty Trust Company, and was also active in the foreign and commercial departments. Mr. Koelsch was among the first to advocate the acceptance method of commercial financing, and is one of the original members of the American Trade Acceptance Council.

Do Yourself This Favor

You do not think you are giving away your money or doing somebody else a big favor when you buy a house, or an automobile. You are doing YOURSELF a favor—you are putting your money into something you want, and believe is worth all it costs.

Neither are you giving away your money or doing anybody a big favor when you buy Liberty Bonds.

You are investing your money for your own benefit, putting it into something you OUGHT to want—the securities of the United States Government.

You will get your money back again, with interest, and you ought to be glad of an opportunity to become a bondholder in that great corporation—the United States of America.

—Buy— Liberty Bonds

because the money you invest will be used TEMPORARILY to win the war, shorten the war, and save the lives of American soldiers.

—Buy— Liberty Bonds

because it is the safest and surest investment you can possibly make.

THREE NEW RULINGS ON TAX QUESTIONS

Decision to Control Assessment of Additional Impost on Corporation's Undivided Profits.

EXEMPT PROMISSORY NOTES

Collectors to Present Monthly Blanket Claim for Abatement of Taxes Erroneously Assessed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Decisions on questions arising from the interpretation of the War Revenue act continue to come from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and three were announced today in connection with incorporation and income taxes and the stamp tax on promissory notes.

The following ruling was made to control the assessment of additional tax on undistributed earnings of corporations:

"Section 10 (b) Added by Section 1206 of the Act of October 3, 1917, provides as follows:

" 'In addition to the income tax imposed by subdivision (a) of this section there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid annually an additional tax of ten percentum upon the amount remaining undistributed six months after the end of each calendar or fiscal year, of the total net income of every corporation, joint stock company or association, or insurance company, received during the year * * *

" 'The tax imposed by this subdivision shall not apply to that portion of such undistributed net income which is actually invested and employed in the business or is retained for employment in the reasonable requirements of the business or is invested in obligations of the United States issued after September first, nineteen hundred and seventeen * * *'

"Section 31 (b) Added by Section 1211 of the Act of Oct. 3, 1917, provides in part as follows:

" 'Any distribution made to the shareholders or members of a corporation, joint stock company, or association, or insurance company, in the year 1917, or subsequent tax years, shall be deemed to have been made from the most recently accumulated undivided profits or surplus.'

"The effect of this section is dealt with under Regulations No. 33 Revised, Article 107, in Treasury Decision 2,659 and Treasury Decision 2,678. Under these rulings the burden is upon the corporation seeking to establish a distribution in the current year of profits of the preceding taxable year to show that all the earnings of the current year have been first distributed.

"In determining the source of earnings from which a particular distribution is made, a corporation is, however, permitted to treat the undivided profits and surplus of the current year as reduced by payments for income and excess profits taxes or, if keeping its accounts upon an accrual basis, by proper reserves for such taxes, although such payments or reserves are not deductible in computing the income of the corporation for income and excess profits taxes.

"The restrictions as to the distribution of earnings of previous taxable years resulting from the presumption that all current distributions are from current earnings do not apply to the use of earnings for investments by corporations. There is in the statutes no limitation or restriction as to the source from which may be taken earnings used for this purpose. Amounts invested in obligations of the United States issued after Sept. 1, 1917, may thus be treated as made from such earnings as the corporations may designate."

The Commissioner holds that promissory notes issued on or after April 6, 1918, secured by United States bonds and obligations issued after April 24, 1917, are exempt from internal revenue stamp tax. He says:

"All promissory notes issued and delivered on or after April 6, 1918, and secured by the pledge of any bonds or obligations of the United States issued after April 24, 1917, and all promissory notes issued and delivered on or after April 6, 1918, and secured by the pledge of a promissory note which itself is secured by the pledge of United States bonds or obligations issued after April 24, 1917, are exempt from said stamp tax. The bonds mentioned herein include Liberty bonds as well as other United States bonds and printed obligations.

"It should be noted that the above exemption from stamp tax applies only where the par value of said United States bonds or obligations so pledged shall equal the amount of the promissory note."

In cases of erroneous assessment hereafter Collectors will present once a month a blanket claim for the abatement of taxes coming within the following classes of taxes erroneously assessed:

1. Duplicate assessments.
2. Cases where specific exemption has not been taken on the taxpayer's return and the assessment has accordingly been excessive to the extent of the tax assessed because of failure to take exemption.
3. Cases of excessive assessment caused by mathematically erroneous calculations of tax by the taxpayer upon his return.
4. Fifty per cent. additional taxes where a tentative return has been filed within the time required by law, but where the fact of such filing has been overlooked in the Collector's office and an assessment of 50 per cent. additional tax has accordingly been made, and is unquestionably erroneous. In all other cases of 50 per cent. additional tax assessments, a claim must be presented by the taxpayer as at present.

SILVER BULLION BILL REPORTED TO SENATE

Committee Increases to $350,000,000 the Amount to be Melted Up.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—After an all-day meeting the Senate Banking and Currency Committee late today decided to report favorably the Silver bill introduced by Senator Pittman of Nevada, after amending it so as to provide for the withdrawal from the Federal Treasury and the melting into bullion of $350,000,000 in silver dollars, instead of $250,000,000, as originally proposed. This bullion is to be used in meeting foreign trade balances.

The bill provides that as the silver dollars are withdrawn from the Treasury the Secretary shall withdraw an equal amount of silver certificates, to be replaced by Federal Reserve Bank notes. To replace silver dollars, the Director of the Mint would be authorized to purchase silver at $1 an ounce, which supporters of the bill declare will have the effect of stabilizing the silver market, as well as stimulating production.

NEW HAVEN PROFITS.

Net Income $2,404,095, Less Than Half the Total for 1916.

The annual report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company for 1917, published yesterday, shows a net income for the year, after all deductions, of $2,404,095, less than half the total for 1916, the amount of the decrease being $3,150,881. The income for 1917 was equivalent to 1.53 per cent. on the 1,571,179 shares of capital stock outstanding. The gross operating revenue increased in the year by $5,352,726, to a total of $85,784,892, but operating expenses increased by $7,598,031, to a total of $61,970,059. Meanwhile taxes increased by $331,874, non-operating income fell off by $27,491, and rentals, interest charges, &c., increased by $545,959.

President Pearson in the report, however, strikes a hopeful note, remarking of the terms of the Railroad Control bill that "these provisions seem to assure the company of an annual compensation from the Government of $17,000,000 or more, and of at least $8,000,000 above all charges." He also reviews the story of the arrangements for refunding the company's outstanding $48,964,000 of one-year notes, which fell due April 15 and were taken up by the Government.

New Haven stock, the report shows, continues to be very widely distributed, there being altogether 25,343 stockholders, as against 25,245 a year ago, and of these 11,632 individuals hold no more than ten shares apiece, while 20,836, or more than 80 per cent., hold less than fifty shares. There are only 164 shareholders owning more than 1,000 shares of New Haven.

There is to be a special stockholders' meeting of the New Haven at New Haven today, to consider a proposal to authorize the issue of $16,658,000 of debentures, to take up a like amount of Providence Securities Company debentures. C. H. Venner has brought suit in the New York Supreme Court to restrain the company from taking such action, but this will not interfere with its consideration by the stockholders.

Chile Copper Output Increases.

Stockholders of the Chile Copper Company at their annual meeting yesterday learned that production in March had amounted to 10,192,000 pounds, an increase of 3,265,488 pounds over the February total. In January the mines turned out 7,912,000 pounds, and the December output was 8,872,000 pounds. C. K. Lipman, Secretary, said that the low production of February was due to a shortage of fuel oil, caused by the requisition of the company's fuel-carrying ships by the Government, and also by the company's difficulties in transporting sufficient materials from this country to Chile. Production during the Spring and Summer months, he added, should be between 9,000,000 and 10,000,000 pounds a month.

PAPER EARNINGS REACH $8,180,787

International Company Reports Gain of $3,060,060, or Nearly 60 Per Cent., in 1917.

TOTAL INCOME $12,932,173

Year's Production 532,589 Tons, of Which 390,179 Was News Print Yielding Small Profit.

The International Paper Company reports a year of exceptional profits in 1917 in terms of the stock, the balance for dividends amounting to $8,180,787, a gain of $3,060,060, or nearly 60 per cent. more than the corresponding result in the preceding year. After paying the regular preferred stock dividends, the earnings available for disbursement to common stockholders was $6,719,687, equal to more than 34 per cent. on the shares, and a sum $2,378,195 larger than in 1916.

In respect to the amount of capital invested in the business, P. T. Dodge, President, asserted in his statement to stockholders yesterday that the year's return was moderate. This capital, Mr. Dodge said, was equal to more than $75,000,000 actually invested in property of steadily enhancing value.

The company's total income was $12,932,173, an increase of $4,406,346 over 1916. The management set aside $2,500,000 for taxes, of which the bulk were Federal war income and excess profits imposts, and reserved $1,524,682 for depreciation, compared with $1,518,117 the year before. From the $22,958,430 aggregate surplus a total of $7,506,245 "stock and cash dividends paid and reserved for payment in settlement of deferred cumulative dividends on the preferred stock" was taken, leaving the net profit and loss surplus at $15,452,185.

"The total production of all grades of paper was 532,589 tons," Mr. Dodge said, "of which 390,179 tons represented news print and the balance paper of higher grades in great variety. The manufacture of this vast quantity of paper—nearly three times as great as that of any other organization in the world—required the consumption of 705,343 cords of wood, in addition to great quantities of other materials and supplies. Although under normal conditions news print paper constitutes about two-thirds of the company's tonnage, the profit per ton is much less than on other papers, and of the profit of the last year substantially one-half was derived from paper other than news print.

"When this fact is considered, the absurdity of the statements made in the halls of Congress and elsewhere, alleging extortionate profits on the company's news print paper, is apparent. As a matter of fact, the profit on news print paper, after tax deduction, was about $7.50 per ton, a moderate and really unsafe return considering the dangers and uncertainties which exist because of war conditions."

The report said the company had made steady progress in various directions during the year. The adjustment of the greater part of the deferred dividends on the preferred stock was referred to in this particular, the accumulation being paid partly in stock and partly in cash. Bonds to the amount of $4,448,000 have been retired in recent months. The balance sheet showed a $12,762,692 inventory, compared with $7,499,255 a year ago, and cash amounting to $2,426,428 against $2,668,521 at the close of 1916.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,817 packages. The tone of the market on high-grade fresh creamery is still very firm. Hardly enough fancy butter in to supply pressing trade requirements, but with considerable delayed stock still out and some nervousness as to the influence of the recent advances on consumption, there is a general disposition in most stores to move the stock promptly on arrival. The reserve from recent accumulations in stores here is being further reduced. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 45½@46¼c; extras, (92 score,) 45@45½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 42½@44¾c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 39½@41½c; thirds, 38@39c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 46½@47¼c; extras, 45½@46c; fine, 43@45c; seconds, 40@42c; creamery, held, as to quality, 36@43c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 44½@45c; good to prime, 41@44c; common to fair, 36@40c; renovated, extras, 40c; firsts, 38@39c; lower grades, 34@37c; imitation creamery, firsts, 35½@36½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 34½@35c; seconds, 33½c; lower grades, 32@33c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 33½c; No. 2, 32½@33c; lower grades, 29@32c.

EGGS—Receipts yesterday, 40,962 cases. Trading continued fairly active up to the close, but is quieter, the continued liberal receipts weakening the confidence of buyers to some extent. There is a generally steady holding, and the range of values shows very little change on the trading reported. The market for dirties and checks is quiet and easier, with outside quotation for dirties more extreme. Nearby white eggs cleaning up a little better, and tone of the market is fairly firm as quoted. Occasionally very close selections of extra fancy quality may exceed our top quotation, but most receivers report no business at any higher prices. Fresh-gathered extras, a dozen, 38½c; storage packed firsts, 37@38c; regular packed extra firsts, 36¼@37c, regular packed firsts, 34½@36c; second and poorer, 33@34½c; fresh-gathered dirties, No. 1, 32@33c; No. 2 and poorer, 30½@31½c; fresh-gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 30@31c; undergrades, 25@29c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 39@40c; ordinary to prime, 37@38c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 37@39c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 36@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 37½@39c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 35@37c; duck eggs, 37@55c.

CITY HEADS SPLIT OVER PIER LEASE

President Smith Criticises Sinking Fund Board for Award to Low Bidder.

There was a conference yesterday in the office of President Alfred E. Smith of the Board of Aldermen at which was discussed the action of the Sinking Fund Commission last Thursday in voting to approve the request of Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert to lease Pier 69, North River, to the Hudson Dock and Terminal Corporation over the protest of the Occident Dock Company, the present lessee, which offered $30,000 a year for the lease for a period of ten years, or $5,000 more than the Hudson company.

At the conference, besides Mr. Smith, were the Mayor, Corporation Counsel Burr, Dock Commissioner Hulbert, and Controller Craig. The whole matter was discussed at length, but no action was reached. Nothing regarding the conference was given out by any of those present, but it was learned that the members were not in accord with the action of the Sinking Fund Commission. In fact, it was said that President Smith frankly criticised the action of the commission. Mr. Smith was not present at the meeting of the commission, his place being taken by Vice Chairman Moran of the Board of Aldermen, who refused to vote when the matter came up.

The Sinking Fund Commision will not meet again until a week from Thursday, unless a special meeting is called in the meantime. On Friday the hearing on the application of the Occident Dock Company for an injunction restraining the city officials from giving the lease to the Hudson concern will come up before Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court. At yesterday's conference, some of those present, including the Mayor, it was said, advised that the Sinking Fund Commission take no action until the matter had been settled in court.

It was said that between now and Thursday of next week the Hudson company would increase its offer to $30,000 to meet the offer of the present lessee, and thereby remove all criticism that the city would stand to lose $5,000 a year if the company's original offer was accepted. The question of having the lease of the pier put up to competitive bidding was opposed by Commissioner Hulbert, and the Mayor, it was said, on the ground that the matter has now gone too far. It is likely that another conference on the matter will be held today or tomorrow.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

Interest in the wheat market at the present time is divided between the question of providing enough supplies to keep up with the Food Administration's program of exports and the outlook for the new crop. Receipts at primary points continue small, and American consumers are being urged to even greater economies than they have yet practiced in order to make the steadily decreasing stocks last throughout the season, and not to in any way curtail shipments to our soldiers in Europe or to our allies. The outlook for the new crop is most promising. In fact, a prominent member of the Food Administration has expressed the belief that on the present acreage this year's crop is going to be so large that many of the restrictions which have been imposed during the last year on the distribution may not be necessary in the coming season.

RYE.

The local rye market was featureless and nominal. In the Northwest, prices were 3c lower at Minneapolis, which was quoted at $2.55, and 2 cents lower at Duluth, at $2.52.

CORN.

The corn market was again under pressure, and prices closed near the bottom, with net losses of ¼c for the May position and 2⅝c for July. The country was said to be consigning corn more freely, and was apparently hedging in the new contract. In the local cash market kiln-dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $1.75; No. 4 yellow, $1.69; No. 3 white, $2.05, cost and freight New York.

OATS.

The oats market was feverish, but after an early decline and a subsequent rally prices eased off and closed at the lowest, with net losses of 1@1¼c. Exporters were said to have made large purchases on Monday, and were again in the market yesterday, but offers were liberal, and apparently in excess of the demand. Operations in the new contract in Chicago are expected to start today, and it was predicted that the price for the July position will be around 75 cents. The local cash market was weak; natural quoted at $1@1.01; clipped white, $1.01@1.04, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

An easier undertone prevailed in the provision market, and prices were slightly lower. Hogs were barely steady and sentiment was influenced also by a bearish semimonthly statement of stocks in Chicago as well as by the weakness in grain. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 26,000; estimated for Wednesday, 28,000; Kansas City received 9,000 and Omaha 22,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

Yesterday's coffee market was inactive and price changes unimportant. The opening was steady, unchanged, to one point lower, and the market closed at net declines of 2 to 8 points. There was some buying of March early, believed to be for European account, but the demand was supplied by scattered local sellers. The local spot market was in very poor demand with quotations not quotably changed. Rio 7s were held at 9c and Santos 4s at 11¼c.

The Brazil cable to the Exchange reported Rio spots 50 reis higher, with Santos unchanged. Santos futures were unchanged to a decline of 25 reis. Receipts at the two ports were 24,000 bags, against 21,000 bags a year ago. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

A private cable from the Philippine Islands reports shipments of 23,000 tons of Philippine Island sugar to San Francisco. This sugar will be used in the West, and will not, it is believed, reach Eastern refiners. In the local market some refining interests have started up again owing to the arrivals of raw supplies, and while some are oversold and although the Government is taking large amounts of sugar, it is thought deliveries to the trade will from now on be more regular. The weekly Cuban statistics show a heavy increase in receipts at the ports there, and while exports are not quite as large as a week ago, nearly 50,000 tons came to United States Atlantic ports north of Hatteras. Purchases reported through the International Sugar Committee amounted to 72,000 bags Cuban raws, April shipment, at 4.985c, cost and freight.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Reorganization Committee for Kerr & Co., the Stock Exchange firm which suspended operations a few months ago, announced yesterday that the house would resume business at 71 Broadway this morning.

R. W. Pressprich & Co. have received an award of $250,000 tax anticipation bonds of Bergen County, N. J., due Dec. 31, this year.

Willard C. Fitch, formerly with Edward B. Smith & Co. and Livingston & Co., has been appointed general manager of the Stock Exchange firm of Thomas M. McKee & Co., 36 Wall Street.

The Sapulpa Refining Company declared yesterday the usual quarterly dividend of 6 per cent., payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 19.

The Hedley Gold Mining Company had a profit of $238,004 in 1917, a decline of $10,523 from the total in 1916. The report issued yesterday showed a profit and loss surplus of $441,782, and total assets of $1,641,752.

COTTON FLUCTUATES AFTER BIG DECLINE

Market Closes Firm, with Little Change from Monday, After Nervous Session.

VOLUME OF TRADING SMALL

Solid Substratum of Trade Buying Orders Now Evident—Prophets Are Silenced.

The local cotton market was a nervous and excited affair yesterday, but seemed to have more than the usual difficulty in deciding what to do. It opened down upward of 100 points; it rallied more than 140 points in some months, going well above the Monday close; it slumped off some 80 points, came back again, and finally wound up firm, with quotations ranging from 1 point higher to 10 points lower, virtually where it was the night before.

The volume of trading was very much smaller than on Monday's sensational slump, which continued the sole topic of conversation. The big plungers and small fry alike seemed afraid of the market and uncertain what it would do, the violence of the drop having torn every one loose from preconceived ideas, and left even the most venturesome unwilling to commit themselves heavily on either side. Opinions heard around the ring were of the most contradictory nature, and the usual prophets seemed much more willing to talk of the day before than to make any audible guesses about the day following.

One definite fact was ascertainable—the rally from the low of the morning was not merely due to short covering, but had a solid understratum of trade buying orders, even though in considerably less quantity than in the days of the big bull movement. Another interesting point was made by one market observer regarding the effect on markets in this country of trading restrictions in Liverpool. The trading limits in New York allow a maximum fluctuation of 300 points in a single day, and after this is reached all trading must stop. The limit in Liverpool is only 100 English points, roughly equivalent to 200 here.

It happened both Monday and yesterday that the break in Liverpool exceeded the 100-point limit long before the market there would normally have closed, leaving an immense amount of selling orders unexecuted. These orders, or equivalents, were naturally immediately cabled here and to New Orleans and helped to flood the market here. The resilience of the local market yesterday, in the face of this abnormal pressure, was commented on as likely to prove significant when Liverpool regains its balance. The big Southern spot markets also were steadier yesterday, and there was much speculation as to the ability of Southern holders to hang on to their cotton in the face of the stampede.

The surprises of the decline have been the amount to which Liverpool appears to have been long in both markets, and the extent to which local men seem to have underestimated the actual amount of cotton in the South which had not come on the market. There are reports that much of this cotton is doomed to rejection at the mills as unworkable, but these are still to be verified.

Regarding Liverpool, it was the opinion in some quarters that the selling from there represented, in greater degree than appeared on the surface, inability to get cotton overseas in the face of the crying need of space for men and munitions for France. There was also talk of a revival of domestic trade buying as soon as the rush to the front has eased off. Exports yesterday amounted to 6,929 bales.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

WABASH RAILWAY COMPANY.
120 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, N. Y.
April 5, 1918.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF WABASH RAILWAY COMPANY:

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Stockholders of Wabash Railway Company will be held at the office of Leonard, Rose and Zollars in the People's Trust Building in the City of Fort Wayne, Allen County, State of Indiana, on Monday, May 20, 1918, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of electing Directors of said Company for the ensuing year and of transacting such other business as may properly come before said meeting, including specifically the approval and ratification of all action of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee since the last meeting of the Stockholders.

You are also notified that there will be presented at said meeting the matter of the taking over of the possession, use, control, and operation of the railroads and property of this Company by the Government and the compensation therefor and in particular the matter of the agreement which the President of the United States is authorized to enter into with this Company under the Act of Congress approved March 21, 1918.

The Stockholders will be requested to authorize the Board of Directors, in any contingency arising from such Federal control and from the said Act of Congress, to act on their behalf in preserving the integrity of the existing organization so far as, in its judgment, their interests may from time to time require and to the intent that the property may be restored to its owners in a state of unimpaired efficiency; and they will be requested to authorize the execution of the agreement with the President of the United States required or contemplated by said Act of Congress, or to ratify the same if, at the time of the meeting, it shall have been already executed.

The transfer books for the transfer of all classes of stock of the Company will be closed at twelve o'clock noon on April 27, 1918, and will be reopened at ten o'clock A. M. on May 21, 1918.

By order of the Board of Directors.
W. H. WILLIAMS,
Chairman of the Board of Directors.
J. C. OTTERSON, Secretary.

Dry Goods Retailers to Meet.

The Spring meeting of the National Retail Dry Goods Association is to be held in Chicago at the Hotel Blackstone on May 27, according to an announcement from the association's offices in this city made yesterday. The meeting will be attended, it is expected, by from three to four hundred merchants from all over the country, and many matters of great importance to the trade as a whole will come up for discussion. Many of the most prominent merchants of the country will address the meeting on the various problems of the day and will express their opinions as to how best to readjust business to meet the abnormal conditions now prevailing.

Less Activity This Week.

Manufacturers and jobbers in the local ready-to-wear trade report that buying is slowing down somewhat this week. Their show rooms are not as crowded with buyers as they have been all season, and the few that do come around seem more inclined to look than to place any very large orders. Obviously the inclement weather of last week with the consequent slow movement of retail stocks is having its effect on the wholesale market. But, taken as a whole, the Spring season has been very active, it is said, and sellers are not complaining.

More Attention to War.

"Government business and the business of war," said a large manufacturer of coats and suits for women yesterday, "are occupying the attention of the whole country more and more every day. Women are not paying as much attention to clothes as they used to, reports from here and there to the contrary notwithstanding. They are more concerned with the war and with war work, and it is right that they should be. The sooner we all buckle down and devote all our attention and energies to prosecuting the war, the sooner Germany will be beaten. Then we can all do more business than ever."

Garment Makers Organize.

The first meeting of the Conference Council of Garment Wholesalers and Retailers, which was held yesterday afternoon in the Waldorf-Astoria, was devoted principally to the work of perfecting the organization. Two chairmen were selected to sit alternately, one representing the manufacturers the other representing the retailers. They are I. M. Getskay of the Cloak, Suit, and Skirt Manufacturers Protective Association, for the manufacturers, and P. F. O'Connel of the National Garment Retailers' Association for the retailers. Mr. Getskay acted as Chairman yesterday. The meeting was attended by the appointed representatives of the seven largest manufacturers' and retailers' associations in the city.

Weather Lessens Coal Receipts.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that the unexpected return of Winter weather last week not only hampered distribution of hard coal, especially in the tidewater trade, but created a small buying flurry, which represented current needs of domestic users. This was only a flash in the pan and easily handled, but the interruption of steady receipts, caused by tows being delayed and the piers being unable to stand the usual tonnage during the three-day storm, has caused dealers to fall behind on their bin-filling schedule. Time lost now is gone beyond recovery, for there is no prospect of a Summer lull which will give the trade a chance to overcome Spring delays.

Do Not Look for Lower Prices.

Sellers of printcloths, sheetings, and other unfinished cottons in the local market do not look for any recession from the present record price levels on this class of merchandise as a result of the very sharp decline the staple has suffered in the last several days. It was pointed out yesterday, for instance, that for many months the price of cotton has been a negligible factor in the making of goods prices, which are based nowadays almost wholly on the question of supply and demand. The present high cost of these cloths, it was said, is not due to the sharp rise in cotton preceding the break, but to the fact that the loomage of the country has proved barely sufficient, if not actually insufficient, to meet the great demands of the Government and make goods for the civilian trade at the same time. An early resumption of buying by the latter at present prices is predicted.

Gray Goods Very Quiet.

Trading was very light in the local gray goods market yesterday, principally as a result of the uncertain position of cotton. Few, if any, first-hand trades of importance were made, about the only feature being the selling, from second hands, of a few spot lots of goods at prices about a quarter of a cent under the general market. Among the constructions traded in in this way were 38½-inch 64-60s. These were the nominal prices on printcloths at the close of the day's selling:

39-inch, 80-80s	25c	38½-inch, 64-60s	19c
39-inch, 72-76s	23c	38½-inch, 64-56s	18½c
39-inch, 68-72s	20c	38½-inch, 60-52s	17c
39-inch, 56-44s	15¼c	38½-inch, 60-48s	16⅝c
38½-inch, 64-64s	19½c	27-inch, 64-60s	*13½c

*Asked.

Thinks Their Value Is Gone.

An executive of a local store, who is a strong advocate of the co-operative delivery idea, yesterday belittled the contention that, if a plan of this kind were carried out here, the advertising value of a store's delivery equipages would be lost. "The value of a store's delivery equipment to it, from an advertising point of view," he said, "has been very small since automobiles have so generally supplanted horses and people of means have taken to living in apartments and hotels. In the days when all delivery vehicles were drawn by horses, a handsome pair would attract great attention, and the name on the wagon had considerable publicity value. Today automobile trucks are so numerous that few people give them a second glance. With people of means living like cliff dwellers nowadays, the publicity value of having a delivery wagon draw up to an apartment house or hotel is nil, because they generally have to go to the servants' entrance."

A Sample of "Crooked Work."

Many clever schemes have been tried on the credit men of local retail stores by swindlers of both sexes, but this one is said to come close to taking the palm: A man opened an account in a certain store, which, through careless handling, was allowed to reach $300. Further carelessness let the bill run so long that it was outlawed. Not so very long ago, this man came back to the store in question and offered a sixty-day note in payment of the old account, asking that he be allowed a new line of credit for at least $250. A different credit man was at the desk, and he "smelled fish." Despite the fact that acceptance of the note would have provided grounds for suit for judgment on the old debt, the credit man would not listen to the scheme. Not very long afterward about forty judgments were taken against the "customer" by various creditors, on accounts opened on the strength of a fairly large amount of borrowed money that he had deposited in a local bank for about two weeks for credit-getting purposes.

Hosiery Demand Still Insistent.

Despite the passing of the Easter retail season, the demand for the finer grades of hosiery continues insistent here. Buyers who still have Spring goods due them are almost praying for immediate shipment of them, while others are placing orders for Fall that in some cases specify deliveries running close to the end of the year. While the call for women's hose is greater than that for men's, buyers of the latter merchandise are not having so easy a time of it in supplying their customers as might be imagined. In both classes of goods the demand for staples, at least as to colors, outweighs the call for novelties. This is true of the hose specified both for current and Fall deliveries. Blacks are gaining ground every day, especially for Fall selling.

SAYS U-BOATS WERE CAUGHT

C. E. Mitchell Tells Loan Committee of American Invention.

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, addressed 300 members of a committee of the Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan Committee at a meeting in the Edison Building at Irvng Place and Fifteenth Street yesterday. He said:

"Within the last hour I have received word from a most reliable source that America has put forward a new invention which has been tried against the German U-boats, and that this invention has been so successful that more than a dozen submarines were captured within a space of two days."

When he had finished his speech members of the committee asked Mr. Mitchell for more definite information upon the success of the new anti-submarine device, but he replied: "No, not another word. That is all I can say."

He said he could not give the name of his informant and he added that he did not know whether any official source in Washington could give additional facts about the device.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—High officials of the Navy Department said tonight that they were unable to confirm the statement made today by Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, that a new American invention had captured fifteen U-boats in two days.

Mrs. Hartwig Convicted.

HACKENSACK, N. J., April 16.—Mrs. Catherine Hartwig, who on Sept. 4 shot and killed her husband, Christian, was found guilty today of murder in the second degree. The jury recommended mercy. She will be sentenced on May 13.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Harlem Tenement Resold—Operator in West Side-New Jersey Trade.

Uptown tenements figured prominently in yesterday's business, which showed a well-maintained demand for moderate priced residential property.

Abram S. Saffer, lawyer, resold the six-story tenements, with stores, at 243 and 245 West 116th Street, on a plot 40 by 100.11, which is assessed at $54,000. Mr. Saffer recently purchased the property from the Lawyers Mortgage Company, which had taken it over at foreclosure.

Another tenement transaction was closed by James H. Cruikshank, the operator, who sold to Janet B. Littel, as executrix, and Janet B. Littell and Edith Berry Schimmel, the five-story double flat at 312 West 133d Street, size 25 by 100. Mr. Cruikshank took as part payment 50 South Walnut Street, East Orange, N. J., a private residence on a plot 40 by 240, valued at $12,000.

Tenement Deals.

Joseph H. Jones sold to the Knarlton Realty Company the four-story house at 376 Avenue A, northeast corner of 120th Street, on a lot 16.9 by 71.8.

Alice M. Rosenzweig sold to the Anthony Avenue Realty Company, (Heller & Sussman,) 1,791 Madison Avenue, a five-story flat and store on lot 25.3 by 60, near 118th Street.

The Dunno Realty Company, Frank Donohue, President, bought from John Bloch, 222 and 226 West 144th Street, two six-story new-law houses on a plot 75 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue. Louis Bloch was the broker.

Dwelling Buyers.

Russell H. Hoadley purchased from William G. Schmittberger the three-story dwelling at 237 East Sixty-first Street, on a lot 20 by 100, between Second and Third Avenues.

Robert G. Redlefson bought from Harry Friedman the four-story dwelling at 119 West Ninety-seventh Street, on a lot 15 by 100.

John Boland of the Mooney & Boland Detective Agency sold to a client of Porter & Co. the three-story dwelling at 241 West 123d Street, on a lot 16.8 by 100.11, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues.

Bronx Congregation Buys Taxpayer.

The Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company has sold to the Congregation Sharith Israel the property at the northwest corner of Intervale Avenue and Southern Boulevard, a one-story taxpayer, on a plot 115.04 by 94.30 by 100 by 37.48. The purchaser is a tenant in one of the stores. George Price was the broker.

Bronx Sale.

Goodman Brothers bought from Adelstein & Avrutine 879-883 and 885-889 Hunt's Point Avenue, two six-story apartment houses, with stores, on plot 122.6 by 100, adjoining the similar structure at the southeast corner of Garrison Avenue. The sellers erected the three buildings a few years ago.

Brooklyn.

Theodor Frost sold through James Walters the one-family, detached stucco dwelling at 63 Eighty-eighth Street on a plot 40 by 100, to a client for occupancy.

The John Pullman Real Estate Company sold 815 Union Street, a two-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for William S. Riordan.

Buying in Queens Borough.

R. Deutsch sold to D. Goldberg a plot 40 by 127 feet on the northwest corner of Rockaway Beach Boulevard and Beach Eighty-first Street, Far Rockaway.

H. J. Barlow sold to L. Drescher the dwelling and plot, 40 by 92 feet, on the east side of Church Street, 140 feet north of Fulton Avenue, Richmond Hill.

New Jersey.

John W. Depue sold to M. Pell of Newark a one-family house, being built by Daniel Melis in the Lloyd Manor tract at Belleville. The property was held at $6,000.

Westchester County Sales.

Fish & Marvin sold for Mrs. Geraldine Hall Porter of Philadelphia her property at 59 Gard Avenue, Armour Villa Park, Bronxville, to Albert Bigelow Paine.

G. S. Green purchased the property of Mrs. G. M. Harris at Pryor Point, Larchmont, through Griffen, Prince & Ripley. The property consists of about one acre with water frontage on Long Island Sound, and was held at $40,000. It was built about four years ago, and is of the Dutch Colonial type. A feature of the house is the attached garage.

$25 a Square Foot for Store in Times Square Section.

A rental of $25 a square foot will be paid for store space in the Times Square section as the result of a lease closed yesterday. The Longacre Land Company leased the store at 149 West Forty-second Street, immediately adjoining the arcade entrance to the subway.

The tenant is Mme. Marie Louise, retailer of lingerie, gloves, &c., now conducting four other New York stores. The lease is for a term of five years, at an aggregate rental of about $50,000. As the store has no basement and an area of only 400 square feet, the rental secured is about $25 a square foot. The Charles F. Noyes Company was the broker in the lease.

New West Side Garage.

The Hall Estate has leased to the Village Garage, Inc., a new corporation, the eight one and two story buildings at 98 to 104 Charles Street, extending through to 229 to 235 West Tenth Street, between Hudson and Bleecker Streets, for a term of twenty years. The buildings, which cover a frontage of 89.10 feet on Tenth Street and 90.4 feet on Charles Street, will be altered into a public garage. George W. Olvaney, representing the Hall Estate, obtained permission yesterday from the Board of Appeals for the improvement, and work is expected to be undertaken in a short time.

Lease Near Carnegie Home.

Andrew Carnegie has leased to Mrs. Atwood Violett the four-story dwelling at 24 East Ninety-first Street, two doors east of Mr. Carnegie's residence at Fifth Avenue and Ninety-first Street. Pease & Elliman negotiated the lease.

Commercial Leases.

The Allied Industries Corporation, identified with the du Pont interests, has leased as a salesroom from the Estate of Bradish Johnson, Inc., the third floor of the new Broadway-Fifth Avenue Building, at 921 to 925 Broadway. M. & L. Hess, Inc., and Goodale, Perry & Dwight were the brokers.

M. & L. Hess also leased the fourth floor of the same building to the Jewish Welfare League for its executive offices, in connection with their headquarters now in the Berkeley Building, at 19 West Forty-fourth Street.

William Pierre Jockin, in conjunction with Harris & Vaughan, Inc., leased for a long term of years to the Pease-Behning Company, Inc., operating the Behning Piano Warerooms, the Fortieth Street store in the building at 280 Madison Avenue.

William J. Smith leased through Cross & Brown for Ruth A. Wallace the building at 794 to 798 Tenth Avenue to the Consolidated Filters Company, Inc., for a long term of years.

Pease & Elliman leased for the Charles F. Noyes Company the store and basement at 205 Pearl Street to Meyer & Brown for a term of years.

Van Vliet & Place leased for a term of ten years the five-story building, with store, at 495 West Street to Samuel Prowellor.

Brokers Reach $600,000 Mark.

Alfred E. Marling, Chairman of the Real Estate Board's Liberty Loan Committee, announced last night that a total of $604,350 in subscriptions had been obtained to date by various teams of the board which are making a thorough canvas of all real estate Liberty bond prospects in the city. These subscriptions were obtained from 442 individuals, the larger ones including $10,000 from Richard H. Davis, $6,000 from W. H. Wheelock, for a client, and $5,000 from Mrs. E. H. Weatherbee.

Mr. Marling is confident that a total of $1,000,000 will be reached before the end of the drive. He will give a luncheon tomorrow at the rooms of the Real Estate Board to the members of the various teams that have been working in behalf of the real estate interests, at which additional reports of subscriptions are expected to be received.

Recent Buyer.

William W. Hoppin, lawyer, is reported to be the buyer of the residence at 13 East Seventy-fifth Street. Mr. Hoppin now lives at 19 East Sixty-fifth Street.

Realty Notes.

The former Lily Langtry home, reported sold yesterday by Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, was 361 West Twenty-third Street and not 361 Ninth Avenue.

Brooks & Nomand placed first mortgages of $65,000 on the garage at 548 to 554 West Twenty-second Street, $30,000 on the business building at 540 West Twenty-third Street, and $25,000 on the tenement at the southeast corner of Chrystie and East Houston Street.

Five two-family houses and thirty-four lots at Jackson Heights, Elmhurst, Long Island City, are to be sold by Bryan L. Kennelly today in the Vesey Street Exchange Salesroom.

AUCTION

I will sell at auction at the Fenton Brook Farm, Egremont, Mass., on April 18, 1918, starting at 10 o'clock A. M., the following property:

Two pairs of horses, 1 pair mules, harnesses, heavy wagons, ploughs, cultivators, spring tooth harrows, corn planters, sulky ploughs, 2 mowing machines, hay tedders, hoes, shovels, forks; in fact, the whole farm equipment.

And at 3 o'clock I will offer the Fenton Brook Farm, consisting of 594¾ acres. This farm has produced the last year about 14,000 bushels of potatoes, over 10 tons of beans, 60 to 70 tons of hay, $300 worth of corn, besides a large crop of rye. It is located on a high elevation, with beautiful running water. A large barn with a slate roof and a cellar under the entire building. Two houses and other farm buildings.

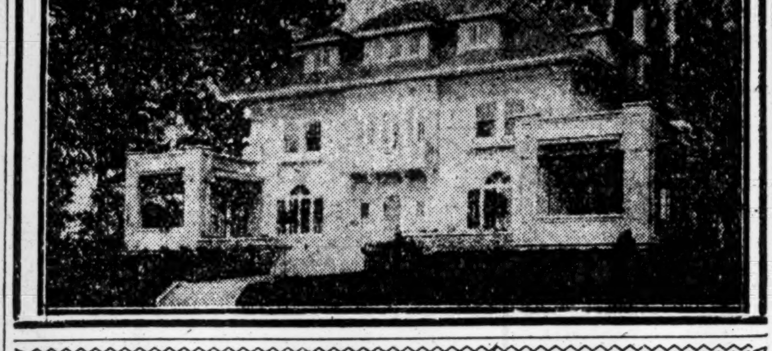
GEO. R. PEARE, 640 Riverside Drive, N. Y. C. Tel. 6634 Audubon.



For Sale or Rent

One of the oldest houses in Sag Harbor, with all modern conveniences, situated on the most desirable street in the village. The property consists of about three acres of land with over 40 assorted fruit trees, half of which are bearing. A two story barn which has accommodations for two automobiles, and a horse or cow. The house is surrounded by a generous lawn and a dozen trees, some being elms planted a hundred years ago. The ground floor consists of parlor, a living room 38 feet long, large dining room with southern exposure, billiard room, butler's pantry, kitchen and laundry, while up-stairs has five large bedrooms, a sewing room, bath, and extra toilet.

It is heated by hot water and fitted throughout with gas and electricity. There are seven open fireplaces in the house. The floors are of matched hardwood, and the cellar has a floor of concrete.

This property is being sold because the owner's business will be transferred to New York.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

DISTRIBUTER FOR GREATER NEW YORK.

An out of town manufacturing corporation wishes to secure a New York agent to whom it can grant exclusive selling rights, getting in return the assurance that the business will be intelligently and energetically pushed. The individual or firm must have a fairly good working capital ($10,000 to $20,000) with which to finance orders as business proves the need for more and more goods.

One of our products is Kor-Ker, an automobile accessory that is now being sold in almost every city in this country and practically every foreign country. We have nationally advertised Kor-Ker through the magazines, newspapers, and billboards. Our line has been increased recently with other products.

Our only need now is to add to the number of big distributers. This is a very unusual opportunity for a man or firm of the right type. We invite strictest investigation. Z 240 Times Annex.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—No well marked storm is noted in any part of the country, although there is unmistakable evidence of a disturbance developing in Northern Texas.

Generally fair weather has prevailed in the last twenty-four hours, except in the South Atlantic States, the Lake region, and the Upper Ohio Valley where numerous light, scattered showers have fallen.

Temperature is considerably above the seasonal average east of the Mississippi River.

Showery weather is probable Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England, and on Thursday in the east Gulf States, Tennessee, and the Lower Ohio Valley.

It will be slightly cooler in the regions of rainfall, but no decided fall in temperature is anticipated.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be light variable, with fair weather; Middle Atlantic Coast, light variable, with showers; South Atlantic Coast, light southwest to west, showers.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Light, local showers Wednesday; Thursday, fair; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England—Light showers Wednesday; Thursday, fair; not much change in temperature.

Western and Northern New England—Generally fair Wednesday and Thursday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1917.	1918.		1917.	1918.
3 A. M.	40	58	4 P. M.	51	68
6 A. M.	39	55	6 P. M.	50	66
9 A. M.	40	60	9 P. M.	48	58
12 M.	46	67	11 P. M.	45	64

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 65; for the corresponding date last year it was 44; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 48.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 57; at 8 P. M. it was 57. Maximum temperature 72 degrees at 1:40 P. M.; minimum, 54 degrees at 7 A. M. Humidity, 51 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 32 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.06 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.85 inches.

JURY INDICTS THREE FOR FUSION FUND

Chairman Childs, William Sulzer, and Ex-Senator Newcomb Accused.

MEN ARE NOT ARRESTED

They Will Plead Tomorrow to Charge That Election Law Was Violated by the Concealment of Payments.

William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee of 1917, which directed John Purroy Mitchel's campaign for re-election as Mayor; ex-Governor William Sulzer, and ex-State Senator Josiah T. Newcomb were indicted yesterday by the Extraordinary Grand Jury which for several months has been investigating the Fusion campaign expenditures. The indictment handed up to Justice Goff in the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court charges a misdemeanor through violation of Section 751 of the penal law, which, in turn, makes it a misdemeanor to violate the election law prescribing the reporting to the Secretary of State of all campaign expenditures.

The specific offense alleged is that the men named concealed under a general item two expenditures—one a payment of $5,000 to Sulzer and the other a payment of $6,500 to Misha Appelbaum of the Humanitarian Cult. The Grand Jurors appeared before Justice Goff yesterday. Foreman J. Sinclair Armstrong told the court that several jurors were in doubt about recommending indictments because of the technical nature of the alleged offense.

"I charge you," Justice Goff replied, "that there is no such thing as a technical offense known to law. Technicalities may depend upon matters of procedure, which the Court within its discretion is empowered to regard or disregard as the interests of justice prompt. In so far as a plain violation of law is concerned, if that law be violated by a rational person, that is a violation of the law and the person committing it is responsible."

The jurors returned to their own quarters and soon came back with the indictment. William Sulzer was the first to be notified by newspaper men yesterday afternoon that the indictments had been found. "I had not heard of it," he said. "It is a Tammany frameup, that is all I've got to say."

Mr. Childs Surprised.

Mr. Childs expressed surprise when told of the jury's action. "I understand the indictment is a fact," he said. "All I can say is that I am entirely innocent in the matter. I shall be very glad to go to trial at any time. If there was any violation of the law it was purely technical, there was no intention or desire on my part to violate the law. I believe the payments, of which concealment is charged, are in our report. They may not have been so far as the names of the recipients themselves are concerned, for they may have been listed merely as speakers, as this is what we had them for."

Ex-Senator Newcomb was said at his office yesterday to be in Washington, but he is expected back in time to plead. He was Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the City Publicity Committee, that branch of the Fusion Committee whose report to the Secretary of State is involved in the charges.

The contents of the indictment were not made public yesterday, and will not be until the men named have been "apprehended" technically by appearing to plead tomorrow. From the preliminary investigation made by District Attorney Swann it, however, appeared that one item in the report of the City Publicity Committee for $11,500 was expended, according to the report, "for rent of halls, speakers, taxicab hire, and expenses of meetings." It is this item which the District Attorney's office will try to prove concealed the payments of $5,000 to Sulzer and $6,500 to Appelbaum.

The first intimation the investigators had that money had been paid to Sulzer is said to have come from Newcomb, who is reported to have volunteered the information the first time he was examined in the District Attorney's office.

Mr. Childs testified in the early days of the inquiry that Sulzer solicited a job with the Campaign Committee and estimated the expenses of his "American Party" in campaigning for Mitchel at $20,000. Sulzer admitted he received $5,000, but denied it was for "expenses" of any sort, insisting that it was in direct payment for speeches he made on the east side for Mr. Mitchel.

Mr. Sulzer is understood to have insisted that he gave a voucher for the $5,000, but it is asserted by persons familiar with the evidence that no such voucher was found. In asserting that he gave a voucher Sulzer disclaimed all secrecy, but others have contended that it was on his own initative that the payment to him was concealed. It was believed in the Criminal Court Building yesterday that it was because of this alleged effort of Sulzer's to cause concealment of the payment that he, Mr. Childs and Mr. Newcomb were indicted.

Misha Appelbaum testified at his examination by Assistant District Attorney Kilroe before the matter went to the Grand Jury that he received two sums for his participation in the campaign—one of $13,700 direct from the Committee of 1917, and an additional $6,500 through a member of the Humanitarian Cult. No charge has been made that Appelbaum endeavored to bring about the concealment of either of these payments or that if either was concealed as charged it was with his connivance.

May Be More Indictments.

Paragraph 751 of the Penal Code, a subdivision of Article 74, which deals with the laws covering the elective franchise, says in Section 12 that a misdemeanor is committed by "any person, who being * * * any officer of a political committee or a convention, willfully omits, refuses, or neglects to do any act required by the election law, or makes or attempts to make any false canvass of the ballots cast at a political caucus, primary election, or convention * * *."

Section 546 of the election law is entitled, "Statement of Campaign Receipts and Payments," and reads:

"The Treasurer of every political committee which, or any officer, member, or agent of which, in connection with any election receives, expends, or disburses any money or its equivalent, or incurs any liability to pay money or its equivalent, shall within twenty days after such election file a statement setting forth all the receipts, expenditures, disbursements, and liabilities of the committee, and of every officer, member, and other person in its behalf. In each case it shall include the amount received, the name of the person or committee from whom received, the date of its receipt, the amount of every expenditure or disbursement, the name of the person or committee to whom it was made and the date thereof; and unless such expenditure or disbursement shall have been made to another political committee it shall state clearly the purpose of such expenditure or disbursement. Expenditures or disbursements in sums under $5 need not be specifically accounted for by separate items except in the case of payments made for account of or to political workers, watchers, or messengers. The statement to be filed by a candidate or other person not a Treasurer shall be in like form as that hereinbefore provided for, but in a statement filed by a candidate there shall also be included all contributions made by him."

It was said in the Criminal Court Building yesterday that the Grand Jury was not through with its investigation, and that further indictments might be expected.

STAATS-ZEITUNG COMPLAINS

Charges Libel Against Evening Telegram for Imputation on Its Loyalty

A complaint of criminal libel has been lodged with the District Attorney's office by Joseph Ridder against The New York Herald Company, as publisher of The Evening Telegram. The complaint is based upon the publication in The Evening Telegram of April 12 of a cartoon which bore the caption "Serpents of Sedition," and which depicted a hand crushing a group of German newspapers in which the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung was included. It was said in the Criminal Court Building yesterday that The New York Herald Company will make representations to the District Attorney's office today with a view to show that no crime was committed on the ground that its cartoon was justified by facts in its possession.

The publishers of the Staats-Zeitung allege that the newspaper is loyal and that the characterization of it was therefore criminally libelous.

CHILDE HASSAM ARRESTED.

Policeman Congratulated by Artist for His Alertness in Riverside Park.

Childe Hassam, the artist, was arrested in Riverside Park yesterday afternoon for sketching a camouflaged American transport anchored in the Hudson. One look was enough for a passing policeman and Mr. Hassam was delivered into the hands of the Federal authorities. He had no difficulty in proving that he was innocent of knowingly violating the war regulations and was promptly released. Mr. Hassam then congratulated the policeman, saying that if every one was as alert there would not be so many dangerous enemy aliens traveling abount the country.

WANTS A WOMEN'S ARMY.

Dr. Shaw Suggests Organization for Special Services.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 16.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw said here today that the Government had the right to conscript women, just as it had conscripted men, after it had made them citizens.

"There will then be two armies—a men's army and a women's army," she said. "Not until women are organized in this way, under governmental authority, will they reach their maximum efficiency in war service, and this time will not come until the United States is in the thick of the fight.

"The women are eager to help, but the work is not yet systematized. There are many drives—Liberty Loan, Red Cross, food conservation, and others—and into all of them we throw all our energies. We shall not be giving systematic war service until we are organized into an army, as English women have been organized, with each woman especially trained to do one thing.

"The great branches in which they will be trained, corresponding to artillery, infantry, &c., in the men's army, I believe, will be munition making, telegraphy, including wireless; nursing, clerkships, and probably motor driving.

"Women must do not what they want to do, but what they are especially fitted to do, and they must be trained in technical schools. They will do all the work around the camps, but they will do it as a military organization. They will step into men's places in every case where youth and brains may be released for the men's army. England has proved that there is not a thing which a man can do which a woman cannot do just as well, provided she has the training."

"I feel the difference in my attitude before and after I gained enfranchisement as a resident of the State of New York. I have a greater responsibility in national affairs. If anything goes wrong, I feel that I am personally responsible."

A large meeting of women was held tonight with Dr. Shaw as the principal speaker. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt also spoke.

Dalton Simplicity Wins the Storekeeper

The DALTON has but one key for each figure—the machine places the figure in the right column.

"That's the first adding machine I have ever been able to walk up to and operate without previous trial—it's surely all right!"

So said Mr. Wood of Pittsburgh and so thinks every one who tries the 10-KEY DALTON.

Over 78 different lines of business were recently included in one day's shipments of DALTONS.

The general store, coal dealer, grocer, druggist, laundry, department store, restaurant, grain dealer, garage, clothing dealer, shoe store—were all represented in that day's shipments, as well as railroads, Steel Corporation and U. S. Government.

10-KEY Simplicity has made the DALTON a valuable aid where calculating machines were not thought of before.

The DALTON adds, subtracts, multiplies and divides. It does practically any calculating you can do with a pencil in one-half to one-third the time, and makes no mistakes.

In the average store all use the 10-KEY DALTON with the same ease and facility that they use the telephone.

Unless you have tried the DALTON you can't realize the time it saves. Phone for a demonstration, call or send coupon below for full information.

"Roll Your Own"

To The Men Who "Roll Their Own"

TAKE a good look at your little white sack of the makings—"BULL DURHAM" tobacco. For we are going to ask you to part with good old "Bull" for a time. He has enlisted. He has gone to the front to help win the fight over there—every single sack of him.

The Government has asked for the entire output of our "BULL DURHAM" factories, and what the Government asks we all give cheerfully.

The millions of sacks of "Bull" we have been sending abroad have not been enough. We must give ALL to our men at the front—36,000,000 sacks—2,000,000 pounds—100 car loads every month.

So, with your own hands, roll yourself a cigarette of "Bull"—carefully, thoughtfully, just the best cigarette you ever rolled; and while you smoke it, THINK.

There is only one thought you can think—it is this: "If the boys over there need my 'makings' they're sure welcome. Here's to them and good luck. And may every little bag carry its inspiration of hope and courage."

And if you have sentiment, just save the round white tag of your last sack and hang it up in memory of good old "Bull". For you will be proud to know him when he comes back—as he must come soon—covered with medals of honor for service.
